Authority for maintenance of the system:

5 CFR, Sections 213, 293, 302, and 335; 5 U.S.C. 3109 and Civil Service Regulations promulgated thereunder.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

These records and the information contained in these records may be used as follows:

1. Records in category (a) above are used by SEC staff to make referrals to supervisors or administrative assistants in offices with vacancies for which applicants may be considered. Offices may retain copies of applications/resumes and evaluations of candidates they interview whom they feel may be contenders for employment offers later in the year.

2. SEC staff uses records in category (b) above for (i) retention of official personnel documents; (ii) verification of employment; (iii) determination of qualifications for jobs and eligibility for training; (iv) processing of personnel actions.

3. SEC staff uses records in category (c) above for (i) computation of personnel strength of divisions/offices; (ii) verification of employment for credit checks or job applications; (iii) recording of personnel actions processed.

4. SEC staff uses records in category (d) above to maintain records required by the Office of Personnel Management of competitive promotion actions, including (i) records to determine how an announcement for a particular job reads; (ii) records for statistical reports; (iii) records for program effectiveness studies (to send questionnaires to supervisors who made selections under the program, for example). Supervisory appraisals are scored and used in determining employee's overall standing among all applicants for the job; they are sent to selecting supervisors for review if the employee is certified for consideration (interview).

5. SEC staff uses records in category (e) above to identify Office of Personnel Management control numbers for Schedule C positions and to aid in preparing new submissions.

6. SEC staff uses records in category (f) above for statistical reports.

7. SEC staff forwards records in category (g) above to the Office of Personnel Management at the end of each month if the applicant is not hired; if applicant is hired, records are retained for one year and then destroyed.

8. SEC staff uses records in category (h) above to monitor personnel actions concerning their staffs (i.e., date of employee's last promotion, employee's position description number, etc.) and to record date personnel action requests and reports were forwarded to the Office of Personnel.

9. SEC Regional Offices use records in category (i) above as a reference in preparing personnel actions requests on employees, determining employee eligibility for training or career development counseling and for back-up data in preparing award nominations, etc.

10. Any of the records described above may be used by the Commission in connection with any action or proceeding brought by an employee before another agency or a court of law to review personnel action taken by the Commission or the failure by the Commission to take action.

11. In any proceeding where the Federal securities laws are in issue or in which the Commission or past or present members of its staff is a party or otherwise involved in an official capacity.

12. A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a Federal, State or local governmental authority maintaining civil, criminal or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit.

13. A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a Federal, State or local governmental authority, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

14. As a data source for management information for production of summary descriptive statistics and analytical studies in support of the function for which the records are collected and maintained or for related personnel management functions or manpower studies; may also be utilized to respond to general requests for statistical information (without personal identification of individuals) under the Freedom of Information Act or to locate specific individuals for personnel research or other personnel management functions.

15. To aid in responding to inquiries from an employee, Member of Congress, the press or others concerning personnel action taken with respect to a specified employee or employees.

Records in this system may, in the discretion of the Commission's staff, be disclosed to any person during the course of any inquiry or investigation conducted by the Commission staff, or in connection with civil litigation, if the staff has reason to believe that the person to whom the record is disclosed may have further information about the matters related therein, and those matters appeared to be relevant at the time to the subject matter of inquiry.

Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual.

The information contained in this system of records will be disclosed to the Office of Management and Budget in connection with the review of private relief legislation as set forth in OMB Circular A-19 at any stage of the legislative coordination and clearance process as set forth in that circular.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

System name: Office of Personnel Position Classification Files—SEC.

System location: Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington, D.C. 20549.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Records are maintained on SEC employees, present and past.

Categories of records in the system: This system of records contains the following categories of records: (a) Official position descriptions; (b) classification and audit reports; and (c) super-grade history file.

Authority for maintenance of the system: 5 CFR Parts 305, 430, 511 and Civil Service Regulations promulgated thereunder.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: These records and the information contained in these records may be used as follows:

1. Official position descriptions indicate the duties to be performed by employees, in particular grade or pay positions and are utilized in connection with position management and control and for organizational job alignment purposes.

2. Classification and audit reports are used to indicate to employees, supervisors, and administrative assistants how title, grade, and series for a particular job was determined.

3. Super-grade position submissions are used in processing current submissions.

4. These records may be used by the Commission in connection with any administrative or legal action by an employee brought before other governmental agencies, or in a court of law.

5. To aid in responding to inquiries from Members of Congress or other agencies concerning personnel actions taken against an employee.

6. A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a Federal, State or local governmental authority maintaining civil, criminal or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit.

7. A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a Federal, State or local governmental authority, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

8. As a data source for management information for production of summary descriptive statistics and analytical studies in support of the function for which the records are collected and maintained or for related personnel management functions or manpower studies; may also be utilized to respond to general requests for statistical information (without personal identification of individuals) under the Freedom of Information Act or to locate specific individuals for personnel research or other personnel management functions.

Records in this system may, in the discretion of the Commission's staff, be disclosed to any person during the course of any inquiry or investigation conducted by the Commission staff, or in connection with civil litigation, if the staff has reason to believe that the person to whom the record is disclosed may have further information about the matters related therein, and those matters appeared to be relevant at the time to the subject matter of the inquiry.

Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual.

The information contained in this system of records will be disclosed to the Office of Management and Budget in connection with the review of private relief legislation as set forth in OMB Circular A-19 at any stage of the legislative coordination and clearance process as set forth in that circular.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Records are kept in folders and ringbinders in bookcase and file cabinets.

Retrievability: Position descriptions are retrieved by number or title; other data is retrieved by name.

Safeguards: Materials are pulled and refiled by Office of Personnel staff only and the Office containing the records is locked each evening. The building where the records are maintained has a 24-hour security guard.

System location: Atlanta Regional Office, Suite 788, 1375 Peachtree Street, NE, Atlanta, Georgia 30309.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Individuals on whom records are maintained in this system are generally from within the region covered by this office and are from one or more of the following categories:

Actual and prospective purchasers and sellers of securities; registered investment advisers, and associated persons who have been named in any notice, application, questionnaire, report, or other document submitted to the Commission or its staff pursuant to the Federal securities or bankruptcy laws; persons who were or are actual or prospective subjects of investigation in connection with possible violations of Federal securities laws; defendants, respondents or other parties in administrative, civil and criminal proceedings involving alleged violations of Federal securities laws or involving the application of Federal bankruptcy laws; persons who have communicated with the SEC or its staff concerning any person within one or more of the foregoing categories.

Categories of records in the system: This system contains information about individuals of a type which the regional office considers reasonably necessary to carry out its enforcement and regulatory duties. In addition to an individual's name, documents in the system may reflect detailed information about him concerning one or more of the following matters: His background (including, but not limited to, address, education, occupation, financial condition, and family relationships); qualifications to engage in one or more activities regulated by the SEC; business relationships; business activities, including specific transactions; possible involvement in conduct violative (in whole, or in part) of Federal, State, or foreign laws and rules pertaining to securities and/or prohibiting any fraudulent conduct; prior violations of any Federal, State or foreign laws or rules, or the rules of any self-regulatory entity. This system also includes a general informational index providing access to other SEC records systems.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Title 15, United States Code, Section 78d.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: These records and the information contained in these records may be used as follows:

1. By the SEC staff to prepare, collect and preserve documentary materials related to:

(a) Formal investigations and matters under preliminary investigation, except related material preserved in employee work files;

(b) The regulation of specific entities by the Commission, including, but not limited to, copies of communications with or concerning issuers, underwriters, promoters, broker-dealers, investment advisers, and documents filed with the regional office by or on behalf of such entities; except related material in employee work files;

(c) Communications with the public concerning aspects of the Commission's enforcement or regulatory duties;

(d) Administrative, civil and criminal proceedings in which the Commission has any interest in the performance of its statutory duties, except Commission litigation releases, securities violations bulletins, and related material in employee work files.

2. By SEC personnel for purposes of investigating possible violations of the Federal securities laws.

3. Where there is an indication of a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, State, local, foreign or a securities self-regulatory organization charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

4. In any proceeding where the Federal securities laws are in issue or in which the Commission or past or present members of its staff is a party or otherwise involved in an official capacity.

5. In connection with investigations or disciplinary proceedings by a State securities regulatory authority or by a securities self-regulatory organization involving one or more of its members.

6. In connection with proceedings by the Commission pursuant to Rule 2(e) of its rules of practice, 17 CFR 201.2(e).

7. When considered appropriate, records in this system may be referred to a bar association or similar Federal, State or local licensing authority for possible disciplinary action.

8. A record from this system of records may be disclosed as "routine use" to a Federal, State or local governmental authority maintaining civil, criminal or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit.

9. A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a Federal, State or local governmental authority, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

10. As a data source for management information for production of summary descriptive statistics and analytical studies in support of the function for which the records are collected and maintained or for related personnel management functions or manpower studies; may also be utilized to respond to general requests for statistical information (without personal identification of individuals) under the Freedom of Information Act or to locate specific individuals for personnel research or other personnel management functions.

In connection with their regulatory and enforcement responsibilities mandated by the Federal securities laws (as defined in section 21(g) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, 15 U.S.C. 78u(g)), or state or foreign laws regulating securities or other related matters, records in this system of records may be disclosed to national securities exchanges and national securities associations that are registered with the Commission, the Municipal Securities Rulemaking Board, the Securities Investor Protection Corporation, the federal banking authorities, including but not limited to, the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, the Comptroller of the Currency, and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, state securities regulatory or law enforcement agencies or organizations, or regulatory or law enforcement agencies of a foreign government.

Records in this system may be disclosed as a routine use to any trustee, receiver, master, special counsel, or other individual or entity that is appointed by a court of competent jurisdiction, or as a result of an agreement between the parties in connection with litigation or administrative proceedings involving allegations of violations of the Federal securities laws (as defined in section 21(g) of the Securities Exchange Act, 15 U.S.C. 78u(g) or the Commission's rules of practice, 17 CFR 202.1 et seq. or otherwise, where such trustee, receiver, master, special counsel or other individual or entity is specifically designated to perform particular functions with respect to, or as a result of, the pending action or proceeding or in connection with the administration and enforcement by the Commission of the Federal securities laws or the Commission's rules of practice.

Records in this system may, in the discretion of the Commission's staff, be disclosed to any person during the course of any inquiry or investigation conducted by the Commission staff, or in connection with civil litigation, if the staff has reason to believe that the person to whom the record is disclosed may have further information about the matters related therein, and those matters appeared to be relevant at the time to the subject matter of the inquiry.

A record or information in this system may be disclosed to any person with whom the Commission contracts to reproduce, by typing, photocopy or other means, any record within this system for use by the Commission and its staff in connection with their official duties or to any person who is utilized by the Commission to perform clerical or stenographic functions relating to the official business of the Commission.

Records or information from records in this system may be included in reports published by the Commission pursuant to authority granted in the Federal securities laws (as defined in section 21(g) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, 15 U.S.C. 78u(g)).

Records or information in records contained in this system may be disclosed to members of advisory committees that are created by the Commission or by the Congress to render advice and recommendations to the Commission or to the Congress, to be used solely in connection with their official, designated functions.

Records or information in the records in this system may be disclosed as a routine use to any person who is or has agreed to be subject to the Commission's rules of conduct, 17 CFR 202.785-1 et seq., and who assists in the investigation by the Commission of possible violations of Federal securities laws (as defined in section 21(g) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, 15 U.S.C. 78u(g)), in the preparation or conduct of enforcement actions brought by the Commission for such violations, or otherwise in connection with the Commission's enforcement or regulatory functions under the Federal securities laws.

2. To aid in responding to inquiries from Members of Congress, the press or the public relating to investment advisers.

3. By SEC personnel for purposes of investigating possible violations of the Federal securities laws.

4. Where there is an indication of a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, State, local, foreign or a securities self-regulatory organization charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

5. In any proceeding where the Federal securities laws are in issue or in which the Commission or past or present members of its staff is a party or otherwise involved in an official capacity.

6. In connection with investigations or disciplinary proceedings by a State securities regulatory authority or by a securities self-regulatory organization involving one or more of its members.

7. A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a Federal, State or local governmental authority maintaining civil, criminal or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit.

8. A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a Federal, State or local governmental authority, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

9. As a data source for management information for production of summary descriptive statistics and analytical studies in support of the function for which the records are collected and maintained or for related personnel management functions or manpower studies; may also be utilized to respond to general requests for statistical information (without personal identification of individuals) under the Freedom of Information Act or to locate specific individuals for personnel research or other personnel management functions.

In connection with their regulatory and enforcement responsibilities mandated by the Federal securities laws (as defined in section 21(g) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, 15 U.S.C. 78u(g)), or state or foreign laws regulating securities or other related matters, records in this system of records may be disclosed to national securities exchanges and national securities associations that are registered with the Commission, the Municipal Securities Rulemaking Board, the Securities Investor Protection Corporation, the federal banking authorities, including but not limited to, the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, the Comptroller of the Currency, and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, state securities regulatory or law enforcement agencies or organizations, or regulatory or law enforcement agencies of a foreign government.

Records in this system may be disclosed as a routine use to any trustee, receiver, master, special counsel, or other individual or entity that is appointed by a court of competent jurisdiction, or as a result of an agreement between the parties in connection with litigation or administrative proceedings involving allegations of violations of the Federal securities laws (as defined in section 21(g) of the Securities Exchange Act, 15 U.S.C. 78u(g) or the Commission's rules of practice, 17 CFR 202.1 et seq. or otherwise, where such trustee, receiver master, special counsel or other individual or entity is specifically designated to perform particular functions with respect to, or as a result of, the pending action or proceeding or in connection with the administration and enforcement by the Commission of the Federal securities laws or the Commission's rules of practice.

Records in this system may, in the discretion of the Commission's staff, be disclosed to any person during the course of any inquiry or investigation conducted by the Commission staff, or in connection with civil litigation, if the staff has reason to believe that the person to whom the record is disclosed may have further information about the matters related therein, and those matters appeared to be relevant at the time to the subject matter of the inquiry.

A record or information in this system may be disclosed to any person with whom the Commission contracts to reproduce, by typing, photocopy or other means, any record within this system for use by the Commission and its staff in connection with their official duties or to any person who is utilized by the Commission to perform clerical or stenographic functions relating to the official business of the Commission.

Records or information from records in this system may be included in reports published by the Commission pursuant to authority granted in the Federal securities laws (as defined in section 21(g) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, 15 U.S.C. 78u(g)).

Records or information in records contained in this system may be disclosed to members of advisory committees that are created by the Commission or by the Congress to render advice and recommendations to the Commission or to the Congress, to be used solely in connection with their official, designated functions.

Records or information in the records in this system may be disclosed as a routine use to any person who is or has agreed to be subject to the Commission's rules of conduct, 17 CFR 202.785-1 et seq., and who assist in the investigation by the Commission of possible violations of Federal securities laws (as defined in section 21(g) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, 15 U.S.C. 78u(g)), in the preparation or conduct of enforcement actions brought by the Commission for such violations, or otherwise in connection with the Commission's enforcement or regulatory functions under the Federal securities laws.

Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual.

6. When considered appropriate, records in this system may be referred to a bar association or similar Federal, State or local licensing authority for possible disciplinary action.

7. A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a Federal, State or local governmental authority maintaining civil, criminal or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit.

8. A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a Federal, State or local governmental authority, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

9. In connection with proceedings by the Commission pursuant to Rule 2(e) of its rules of practice, 17 CFR 201.2(e).

10. As a data source for management information for production of summary descriptive statistics and analytical studies in support of the function for which the records are collected and maintained or for related personnel management functions or manpower studies; may also be utilized to respond to general requests for statistical information (without personal identification of individuals) under the Freedom of Information Act or to locate specific individuals for personnel research or other personnel management functions.

11. By the Commission to prepare and publish information concerning violations of the Federal securities laws as authorized by 15 U.S.C. 78u(a), as amended.

12. In connection with regulatory and enforcement responsibilities mandated by the Federal securities laws or state or foreign laws regulating securities or other related matters, records in this system of records may be disclosed to national securities exchanges and national securities associations that are registered with the Commission, the Municipal Securities Rulemaking Board, the Securities Investor Protection Corporation, the federal banking authorities, including but not limited to, the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, the Comptroller of the Currency, and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, state securities regulatory authorities, or law enforcement agencies of a foreign government.

13. Records in this system may be disclosed as a routine use to any trustee, receiver, master, special counsel, or other individual or entity that is appointed by a court of competent jurisdiction, or as a result of an agreement between the parties in connection with litigation or administrative proceedings involving allegations of violations of the Federal securities laws or the Commission's rules of practice, 17 CFR 202.1 et seq., or otherwise, where such trustee, receiver, master, special counsel or other individual or entity is specifically designated to perform particular functions with respect to, or as a result of, the pending action or proceeding or in connection with the administration and enforcement by the Commission of the Federal securities laws or the Commission's rules of practice.

14. Records in this system may, in the discretion of the Commission's staff, be disclosed to any person during the course of any inquiry or investigation conducted by the Commission staff, or in connection with civil litigation, if the staff has reason to believe that the person to whom the record is disclosed may have further information about the matters related therein, and those matters appeared to be relevant at the time to the subject matter of the inquiry.

15. A record or information in this system may be disclosed to any person with whom the Commission contracts to reproduce, by typing, photocopy or other means, any record within this system for use by the Commission and its staff in connection with their official duties or to any person who is utilized by the Commission to perform clerical or stenographic functions relating to the official business of the Commission.

16. Records or information from records in this system may be included in reports published by the Commission pursuant to authority granted in the Federal securities laws (as defined in section 21(g) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, 15 U.S.C. 78u(g)).

17. Records or information in records contained in this system may be disclosed to members of advisory committees that are created by the Commission or by the Congress to render advice and recommendations to the Commission or to the Congress, to be used solely in connection with their official, designated functions.

18. Records or information in the records in this system may be disclosed as a routine use to any person who is or has agreed to be subject to the Commission's rules of conduct, 17 CFR 200.735-1 et seq., and who assists in the investigation by the Commission of possible violations of Federal securities laws, in the preparation or conduct of enforcement actions brought by the Commission for such violations, or otherwise in connection with the Commission's enforcement or regulatory functions under the Federal securities laws.

19. Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: The records are maintained on magnetic tapes and disks.

Retrievability: The system is indexed by MUI number or the name of the matter although information regarding an individual can be obtained through use of the Commission's Name-Relationship Index system using the name of the individual as the index.

Safeguards: Access to and use of these records are limited to those persons whose official duties require such access. Direct data access via on-line terminals is limited to certain authorized personnel through use of special identification codes and other automatic access restrictions.

Personnel screening is employed to prevent unauthorized disclosure. Physical security is primarily obtained by limitation of access to the building in which the records are maintained.

Retention and disposal: The information in the system is transmitted to data entry personnel via a form designed for that purpose. The form is destroyed upon data entry and verification. Information regarding any specific matter under inquiry, once in the system, will be reclassified for more formal action or closed within one year of entry. Within two years from date of entry, the information will be completely purged from the system. A computer generated form will be developed to obtain the disposition of the matter under inquiry for use in reclassifying the MUI. This form, which will contain sufficient information to enable the staff to distinguish among the several MUI's they may have pursued, will be destroyed upon entry and verification of the dispositions into the system.

System manager(s) and address: Director, Office of Information Systems Management, Securities and Exchange Commission, 500 North Capitol Street, Washington, D.C. 20549.

Notification procedure: All requests to determine whether this system of records contains a record pertaining to the requesting individual may be made in person during normal business hours at the SEC Public Reference Section, Room 6101 at 1100 L Street NW., Washington, D.C., or by mail addressed to the Securities and Exchange Commission, Public Reference Section, Washington, D.C. 20549.

Record access procedures: Persons wishing to obtain information on the procedures for gaining access to or contesting the contents of these records may contact or address their inquiries to the Privacy Act Officer, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington, D.C. 20549.

Contesting record procedures: See Record Access Procedures above.

Record source categories: Information for these records is obtained from the Commission's files, newspaper articles, court papers, securities brokerage firms, corporations, banks, public utilities, credit organizations, individuals, and Federal, State, local and foreign law enforcement and securities self-regulatory organizations.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

Title 15, United States Code, Sections 77s, 77t, 78u, 79r, 77uuu, 80a-41, 80b-9, and 17 CFR 202.5.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

1. To coordinate law enforcement activities between the SEC and other federal, state, local or foreign law enforcement agencies, securities self-regulatory organizations, and foreign securities authorities.

2. By SEC personnel for purposes of investigating possible violations of, or to conduct investigations authorized by, the federal securities laws.

3. Where there is an indication of a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulations, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred to the appropriate agency, whether federal, state, or local, a foreign governmental authority or foreign securities authority, or a securities self-regulatory organization charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute or rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

4. In any proceeding where the federal securities laws are in issue or in which the Commission, or past or present members of its staff, is a party or otherwise involved in an official capacity.

5. To a federal, state, local or foreign governmental authority or foreign securities authority maintaining civil, criminal or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit.

6. To a federal, state, local or foreign governmental authority or foreign securities authority, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and nedessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

7. In connection with proceedings by the Commission pursuant to Rule 2(e) of its Rules of Practice, 17 CFR 201.2(e).

8. When considered appropriate, records in this system may be disclosed to a bar association, the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants, a state accountancy board or other federal, state, local or foreign licensing or oversight authority, foreign securities authority, or professional association or self-regulatory authority performing similar functions, for possible disciplinary or other actions.

9. In connection with investigations or disciplinary proceedings by a state securities regulatory authority, a foreign securities authority, or by a self-regulatory organization involving one or more of its members.

10. As a date source for management information for production of summary descriptive statistics and analytical studies in support of the function for which the records are collected and maintained or for related personnel management functions or manpower studies, and to respond to general requests for statistical information (without personal identification of individuals) under the Freedom of Information Act or to locate specific individuals for personnel research or other personnel management functions.

11. In connection with their regulatory and enforcement responsibilities mandated by the federal securities laws (as defined in Section 21(g) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, 15 U.S.C. 78u(g)), or state or foreign laws regulating securities or other related matters, records may be disclosed to national securities associations that are registered with the Commission, the Municipal Securities Rulemaking Board, the Securities Investor Protection Corporation, the federal banking authorities, including but not limited to, the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, the Comptroller of the Currency, and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, state securities regulatory or law enforcement agencies or organizations, regulatory law enforcement agencies of a foreign government, or foreign securities authorities.

12. To any trustee, receiver, master, special counsel, or other individual or entity that is appointed by a court of competent jurisdiction or as a result of an agreement between the parties in connection with litigation or administrative proceedings involving allegations of violations of the federal securities laws (as defined in Section 21(g) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, 15 U.S.C. 78u(g)) or the Commission's Rules of Practice, 17 CFR 202.1 et seq., or otherwise, where such trustee, receiver, master, special counsel or other individual or entity is specifically designated to perform particular functions with respect to, or as a result of, the pending action or proceeding or in connection with the administration and enforcement by the Commission of the federal securities laws or the Commission's rules of practice.

13. To any person during the course of any inquiry or investigation conducted by the Commission's staff, or in connection with civil litigation, if the staff has reason to believe that the person to whom the record is disclosed may have further information about the matters related therein, and those matters appeared to be relevant at the time to the subject matter of the inquiry.

14. To any person with whom the Commission contracts to reproduce, by typing, photocopy or other means, any record within this system for use by the Commission and its staff in connection with their official duties or to any person who is utilized by the Commission to perform clerical or stenographic functions relating to the official business of the Commission.

15. Inclusion in reports published by the Commission pursuant to authority granted in the federal securities laws (as defined in Section 21(g) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, 15 U.S.C. 78u(g)).

16. To members of advisory committees that are created by the Commission or by the Congress to render advice and recommendations to the Commission or to the Congress, to be used solely in connection with their official designated functions.

17. To any person who is or has agreed to be subject to the Commission's Rules of Conduct, 17 CFR 200.785-1 et seq., and who assists in the investigation by the Commission of possible violations of federal securities law (as defined in Section 21(g) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, 15 U.S.C. 78u(g)), in the preparation or conduct of enforcement actions brought by the Commission for such violations, or otherwise in connection with the Commission's enforcement or regulatory functions under the federal securities laws.

18. Disclosure may be made to a Congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the Congressional office made at the request of that individual.

19. To respond to inquiries from Members of Congress, the press and the public which relate to specific matters that the Commission has investigated and to matters under the Commission's jurisdiction.

20. To prepare and publish information relating to violations of the federal securities laws as provided in 15 U.S.C. 78u(a), as amended.

21. To respond to subpoenas in any litigation or other proceeding.

22. To a trustee in bankruptcy.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Paper records, microform, electronic and other media.

Retrievability:

The records are retrieved by the name under which the investigation is conducted or administrative or judicial litigation is filed. Access to information about an individual may be obtained through the Commission's Name-Relationship Indes system by the name of the individual. Information concerning an individual may also be obtained by reference to card or computer-maintained indices.

Safeguards:

Access to and use of investigatory records are limited to those persons whose official duties require such access. Personnel screening is employed to prevent unauthorized disclosure. Files are maintained in buildings having a 24-hour security guard. During the course of a matter, relevant records are normally maintained by the individuals working on the matter. Information contained in indices is safeguarded by use of confidential access passwords, physical restrictions and/or other means. Most of the information contained in litigation files is public insofar as the documents were filed in public administrative were filed in public administrative proceedings or litigation (unless otherwise ordered).

Retention and disposal:

Records are retained in the Commission's files while in use. Records of investigations are generally maintained until the case has been closed, at which time materials are destroyed, returned to owners, or transfered to the Federal Records Center for storage, as appropriate. Records sent to the Federal Records Center are retained in accordance with Commission guidelines.

Subpart H—Regulations Pertaining to the Privacy of Individuals and Systems of Records Maintained by the Commission Authority: Pub. L. 93–579, sec. (f), 5 U.S.C. 552a(f), unless otherwise noted.

Section 200.312 is also issued under Pub. L. 93–579, sec. k, 5 U.S.C. 552a(k).

§ 200.301 Purpose and scope.

(a) The Privacy Act of 1974, Pub. L. 93–579, 88 Stat. 1896, is based, in part, on the finding by Congress that "in order to protect the privacy of individuals identified in information systems maintained by Federal agencies, it is necessary and proper for the Congress to regulate the collection, maintenance, use, and dissemination of information by such agencies." To achieve this objective the Act, among other things, provides, with some exceptions, that Federal agencies shall advise an individual upon request whether records maintained by the agency in a system of records pertain to the individual and shall grant the individual access to such records. The Act further provides that individuals may request amendments or corrections to records pertaining to them that are maintained by the agency, and that the agency shall either grant the requested amendments or set forth fully its reasons for refusing to do so.

(b) The Securities and Exchange Commission, pursuant to subsection (f) of the Privacy Act, adopts the following rules and procedures to implement the provisions of the Act summarized above, and other provisions of the Act. These rules and procedures are applicable to all requests for information, access or amendment to records pertaining to an individual that are contained in any system of records that is maintained by the Commission.

§ 200.302 Definitions.

The following definitions shall apply for purposes of this subpart:

(a) The terms "individual," "maintain," "record," "system of records," and "routine use" are defined for purposes of these rules as they are defined in 5 U.S.C. 552a(a)(2), (a)(3), (a)(4), (a)(5), and (a)(6).

(b) "Commission" means the Securities and Exchange Commission.

§ 200.303 Times, places and requirements for requests pertaining to individual records in a record system and for the identification of individuals making requests for access to the records pertaining to them.

(a) Place to make request. Any request by an individual to be advised whether any system of records maintained by the Commission and named by the individual contains a record pertaining to him, or any request by an individual for access to a record pertaining to him that is contained in a system of records maintained by the Commission, shall be submitted by the individual in person during normal business hours at the Commission's Public Reference Room, which is located at 450 Fifth Street, NW., Room 1024, Washington, D.C., or by mail addressed to the Privacy Act Officer, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington, D.C. 20549. All requests will be required to be put in writing and signed by the individual making the request. In the case of requests for access that are made by mail, the envelope should be clearly marked "Privacy Access Request."

(1) Information to be included in requests. Each request by an individual concerning whether the Commission maintains in a system of records a record that pertains to him, or for access to any record pertaining to the individual that is maintained by the Commission in a system of records, shall include such information as will assist the Commission in identifying those records as to which the individual is seeking information or access. Where practicable, the individual should identify the system of records that is the subject of his request by reference to the Commission's notices of systems of records, which are published in the Federal Register, as required by section (e)(4) of the Privacy Act, 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(4). Where a system of records is compiled on the basis of a specific identification scheme, the individual should include in his request the identification number or other identifier assigned to him. In the event the individual does not know the specific identifier assigned to him, he shall provide other information, including his full name, address, date of birth and subject matter of the record, to aid in processing his request. If additional information is required before a request can be processed, the individual shall be so advised.

(2) Verification of identity. When the fact of the existence of a record is not required to be disclosed under the Freedom of Information Act, 5 U.S.C. 552, as amended, or when a record as to which access has been requested is not required to be disclosed under that Act, the individual seeking the information or requesting access to the record shall be required to verify his identity before access will be granted or information given. For this purpose, individuals shall appear at the Commission's Public Reference Room located at 450 Fifth Street, NW, Room 1024, Washington, D.C., during normal business hours of 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. e.s.t., Monday through Friday, or at one of the Commission's Regional or Branch Offices. The addresses and business hours of those offices are listed below:

Atlanta Regional Office, 1375 Peachtree Street, NE, Suite 788, Atlanta, Georgia. Office hours—8:30 a.m.–5 p.m. e.s.t.

None of the Commission's Offices are open on Saturday, Sunday or the following legal holidays: New Year's Day, President's Day, Memorial Day, Independence Day, Labor Day, Veterans' Day, Columbus Day, Thanksgiving Day or Christmas Day.

(3) Methods for verifying identity—appearance in person. For the purpose of verifying his identity, an individual seeking information as to records pertaining to him or access to those records shall furnish documentation that may reasonably be relied on to establish the individual's identity. Such documentation might include a valid birth certificate, driver's license, employee or military identification card, or medicare card.

(4) Method for verifying identity by mail. Where an individual cannot appear at one of the Commission's Offices for the purpose of verifying his identity, he shall submit, along with the request for information or access, a signed and notarized statement attesting to his identity. Where access is being sought, the sworn statement shall include a representation that the records being sought pertain to the individual and a stipulation that the individual is aware that knowingly and willfully requesting or obtaining records pertaining to an individual from the Commission under false pretenses is a criminal offense.

(5) Additional procedures for verifying identity. When it appears appropriate, there may be made such other arrangements for the verification of identity as are reasonable under the circumstances and appear to be effective to prevent unauthorized disclosure of, or access to, individual records.

(b) Acknowledgement of requests for information pertaining to individual records in a record system or for access to individual records. (1) Except where an immediate acknowledgement is given for requests made in person, the receipt of a request for information pertaining to individual records in a record system will be acknowledged within 10 days after the receipt of such request. Requests will be processed as promptly as possible and a response to such requests will be given within 30 days (excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays) unless, within the 30 day period and for cause shown, the individual making the request is notified in writing that a longer period is necessary.

(2) When an individual appears in person at the Commission's Public Reference Room in Washington, D.C., or at one of its Regional or Branch Offices to request access to records pertaining to him, and such individual provides the required information and verification of identity, the Commission's staff, if practicable, will indicate at that time whether it is likely that the individual will be given access to the records and, if so, when and under what circumstances such access will be given. In the case of requests received by mail, whenever practicable, acknowledgement of the receipt of the request will be given within 10 days after receipt (excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays). The acknowledgement will indicate, if practicable, whether or not access likely will be granted and, if so, when and under what circumstances.

[40 FR 44068, Sept. 24, 1975, as amended at 41 FR 44698, Oct. 12, 1976; 47 FR 26819, June 22, 1982; 52 FR 2677, Jan. 26, 1987]

§ 200.304 Disclosure of requested records.

(a) Initial review. Requests by individuals for access to records pertaining to them will be referred to the Commission's Privacy Act Officer who initially will determine whether access will be granted, Provided, however, That a Director of a Staff Division of the Commission or Office head whose zone of responsibility relates to the record requested (see 17 CFR 200.13 et seq.), may make a determination that access is not lawfully required to be granted and should not be granted, in which case he, and not the Privacy Act Officer, shall make the required notification to the individual making the request.

(b) Grant of request for access. (1) If it is determined that a request for access to records pertaining to an individual will be granted, the individual will be advised by mail that access will be given at the designated Office of the Commission or a copy of the requested record will be provided by mail if the individual shall so indicate. Where the individual requests that copies of the record be mailed to him or requests copies of a record upon reviewing it at a Commission Office, the individual shall pay the cost of making the requested copies, as set forth in § 200.310.

(2) In granting access to an individual to a record pertaining to him, such steps shall be taken by the Commission's staff as are necessary to prevent the unauthorized disclosure at the same time of information pertaining to individuals other than the person making the request or of other information that does not pertain to the individual.

(c) Denial of request for access. If it is determined that access will not be granted, the individual making the request will be notified of that fact and given the reasons why access is being denied. The individual also will be advised (1) of his right to seek review by the General Counsel of the initial decision to deny access, in accordance with the procedures set forth in § 200.308; and (2) of his right ultimately to obtain judicial review pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(g)(1)(A) of a final denial of access by the Commission.

(d) Time for acting on requests for access. Access to a record pertaining to an individual normally will be granted or denied within 30 days (excluding Saturdays, Sundays and legal holidays) after the receipt of the request for access unless the individual making the request is notified in writing within the 30 day period that, for good cause shown, a longer time is required. In such cases, the individual making the request shall be informed in writing of the difficulties encountered and an indication shall be given as to when it is anticipated that access may be granted or denied.

(e) Authorization to allow designated person to review and discuss records pertaining to another individual. An individual who is granted access to records pertaining to him, and who appears at a Commission Office to review the records, may be accompanied by another person of his choosing. Where the records as to which access has been granted are not required to be disclosed under provisions of the Freedom of Information Act 5 U.S.C. 552, as amended, the individual requesting the records, before being granted access, shall execute a written statement, signed by him and the person accompanying him, which specifically authorizes the latter individual to review and discuss the records. If such authorization has not been given as described, the person who has accompanied the individual making the request will be excluded from any review or discussion of the records.

(f) Exclusion for certain records. Nothing contained in these rules shall allow an individual access to any information compiled in reasonable anticipation of a civil action or proceeding.

[40 FR 44068, Sept. 24, 1975, as amended at 49 FR 13866, Apr. 9, 1984]

§ 200.305 Special procedure: Medical records.

(a) Statement of physician or mental health professional. When an individual requests access to records pertaining to him that include medical and/or psychological information, the Commission, if it deems it necessary under the particular circumstances, may require the individual to submit with the request a signed statement by his physician or a mental health professional indicating that, in their opinion, disclosure of the requested records or information directly to the individual will not have an adverse effect on the individual.

(b) Designation of physician or mental health professional to receive records. If the Commission believes, in good faith, that disclosure of medical and/or psychological information directly to an individual could have an adverse effect on that individual, the individual may be asked to designate in writing a physician or mental health professional to whom he would like the records to be disclosed, and disclosure that otherwise would be made to the individual will instead be made to the designated physician or mental health professional.

§ 200.306 Requests for amendment or correction of records.

(a) Place to make requests. A request by an individual to amend or correct records pertaining to him may be made in person during normal business hours at the Commission's Public Reference Room located at 450 Fifth Street, NW., Washington, D.C., or by mail addressed to the Privacy Act Officer, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington, D.C. 20549.

(1) Information to be included in requests. Each request to amend or correct a Commission record shall reasonably describe the record sought to be amended or corrected. Such description should include, for example, relevant names, dates and subject matter to permit the record to be located among the records maintained by the Commission. An individual who has requested that a record pertaining to him be amended or corrected will be advised promptly if the record cannot be located on the basis of the description given and that further identifying information is necessary before his request can be processed. An initial evaluation of a request presented in person will be made immediately to ensure that the request is complete and to indicate what, if any, additional information will be required. Verification of the individual's identity as set forth in § 200.303(a), (2), (3), (4) and (5) may also be required.

(2) Basis for amendment or correction. An individual requesting an amendment or correction to a record pertaining to him shall specify the substance of the amendment or correction and set forth facts and provide such materials that would support his contention that the record pertaining to him as maintained by the Commission is not accurate, timely or complete, or that the record is not necessary and relevant to accomplish a statutory purpose of the Commission as authorized by law or by Executive Order of the President.

(b) Acknowledgement of requests for amendment or correction. Receipt of a request to amend or correct a record pertaining to an individual normally will be acknowledged in writing within 10 days after such request has been received. When a request to amend or correct is made in person, the individual making the request will be given a written acknowledgement when the request is presented. The acknowledgement will describe the request received and indicate when it is anticipated that action will be taken on the request. No acknowledgement will be sent when the request for amendment or correction will be reviewed, and an initial decision made, within 10 days from the date the request is received.

[40 FR 44068, Sept. 24, 197, as amended at 47 FR 26819, June 22, 1982]

§ 200.307 Review of requests for amendment or correction.

(a) Initial review. As in the case of requests for access, requests by individuals for amendment or correction to records pertaining to them will be referred to the Commission's Privacy Act Officer for an initial determination, except that such requests may be considered by a Division Director or Office Head as set forth in § 200.304(a).

(b) Standards to be applied in reviewing requests. In reviewing requests to amend or correct records, the Privacy Act Officer, or Division or Office head, will be guided by the criteria set forth in 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(1), i.e., that records maintained by the Commission shall contain only such information as is necessary and relevant to accomplish a statutory purpose of the Commission as required by statute or Executive Order of the President and that such information also be accurate, timely, and complete. These criteria will be applied whether the request is to add material to a record or to delete information from a record.

(c) Time for acting on requests. Initial review of a request by an individual to amend or correct a record pertaining to him shall be completed as promptly as is reasonably possible and normally within 30 days (excluding Saturdays, Sundays and legal holidays) from the date the request was received, unless unusual circumstances preclude completion of review within that time. If the anticipated completion date indicated in the acknowledgement cannot be met, the individual requesting the amendment will be advised in writing of the delay and the reasons therefor, and also advised when action is expected to be completed.

(d) Grant of requests to amend or correct records. If a request to amend or correct a record is granted in whole or in part, the Privacy Act Officer will: (1) Advise the individual making the request in writing of the extent to which it has been granted; (2) amend or correct the record accordingly; and (3) where an accounting of disclosures of the record has been kept pursuant to 5,U.S.C. 552a(c), advise all previous recipients of the record of the fact that the record has been amended or corrected and the substance of the amendment or correction.

(e) Denial of requests to amend or correct records. If an individual's request to amend or correct a record pertaining to him is denied in whole or in part, the Privacy Act Officer will: (1) Promptly advise the individual making the request in writing of the extent to which the request has been denied; (2) state the reasons for the denial of the request; (3) describe the procedures established by the Commission to obtain further review within the Commission of the request to amend or correct, including the name and address of the person to whom the appeal is to be addressed; and (4) inform the individual that the Privacy Act Officer will provide information and assistance to the individual in perfecting an appeal of the initial decision.

§ 200.308 Appeal of initial adverse agency determination as to access or as to amendment or correction.

(a) Administrative review. Any person who has been notified pursuant to § 200.304(c) that his request for access to records pertaining to him has been denied, or pursuant to § 300. 307(e) that his request for amendment or correction has been denied in whole or in part, or who has received no response to a request for access or to amend within 30 days (excluding Saturdays, Sundays and legal holidays) after his request was received by the Commission's staff (or within such extended period as may be permitted in accordance with § 200.304(d) and § 200.307(c)), may appeal the adverse determination or failure to respond by applying for an order of the General Counsel determining and directing that access to the record be granted or that the record be amended or corrected in accordance with his request.

(1) The application shall be in writing and shall describe the record in issue and set forth the proposed amendment or correction and the reasons therefor.

(2) The application shall be delivered to the Securities and Exchange Commission, Public Reference Branch, Room 1024, 450 Fifth Street, NW, Washington, D.C., or by mail to the Privacy Act Officer, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington, D.C. 20549.

(3) The applicant, if he wishes, may state such facts and cite such legal or other authorities as he may consider appropriate in support of his application.

(4) The General Counsel will make a determination with respect to any appeal within 30 days after the receipt of such appeal (excluding Saturdays, Sundays and legal holidays), unless for good cause shown, the General Counsel shall extend that period. If such an extension is made, the individual who is appealing shall be advised in writing of the extension, the reasons therefor, and the anticipated date when the appeal will be decided.

(5) In considering an appeal from a denial of a request to amend or correct a record, the General Counsel shall apply the same standards as set forth in § 200.307 (b).

(6) If the General Counsel shall conclude that access should be granted, he or she shall issue an order granting access and instructing the Privacy Act Officer to comply with § 200.304(b).

(7) If the General Counsel shall conclude that the request to amend or correct the record should be granted in whole or in part, it shall issue an order granting the requested amendment or correction in whole or in part and instructing the Privacy Act Officer to comply with the requirements of § 200.307(d), to the extent applicable.

(8) If the General Counsel affirms the initial decision denying access, it shall issue an order denying access and advising the individual seeking access to (i) the order; (ii) the reasons for denying access; and (iii) the individual's right to obtain judicial review of the Commission's decision pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(g)(1)(B).

(9) If the General Counsel determines that the decision of the Privacy Act Officer denying a request to amend or correct a record should be upheld it shall issue an order denying the request and the individual shall be advised of (i) the order refusing to amend or correct the record and the reasons therefor; (ii) his right to file a concise statement setting forth his disagreement with the General Counsel's decision not to amend or correct the record; (iii) the procedures for filing such a statement of disagreement with the General Counsel; (iv) the fact that any such statement of disagreement will be made available to anyone to whom the record is disclosed, together with, if the General Counsel deems it appropriate, a brief statement setting forth the General Counsel's reasons for refusing to amend or correct; (v) the fact that prior recipients of the record in issue will be provided with the statement of disagreement and the General Counsel's statement, if any, to the extent that an accounting of such disclosures has been maintained pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(c); and (vi) the individual's right to seek judicial review of the General Counsel's refusal to amend or correct, pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(g)(1)(A).

(10) In appropriate cases the General Counsel may, in his or her sole and unfettered discretion, refer matters requiring administrative review of initial decisions to the Commission for determination and the issuance, where indicated, or orders.

(b) Statement of disagreement. As noted in paragraph (a)(9)(ii) of this section, an individual may file with the General Counsel a statement setting forth his disagreement with the General Counsel's denial of his request to amend or correct a record.

(1) Such statement of disagreement shall be delivered to the Securities and Exchange Commission, Public Reference Branch, 450 Fifth Street, NW, Room 1024, Washington, D.C. 20549, or mail to the Privacy Act Officer, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington, D.C. 20549, within 30 days after receipt by the individual of the General Counsel's order denying the amendment or correction. For good cause shown this period can be extended for a reasonable time.

(2) Such statement of disagreement shall concisely state the basis for the individual's disagreement. Generally a statement should be no more than two pages in length, except an individual may submit a slightly longer statement if it is necessary to set forth his disagreement effectively. Unduly lengthy or irrelevant materials will be returned to the individual by the General Counsel for appropriate revisions before they become a permanent part of the individual's record.

(3) The record about which a statement of disagreement has been filed will clearly note which part of the record is disputed and the General Counsel will provide copies of the statement of disagreement and, if the General Counsel deems it appropriate, provide a concise statement of its reasons for refusing to amend or correct the record, to persons or other agencies to whom the record has been or will be disclosed.

(4) In appropriate cases, the General Counsel may, in his or her sole and unfettered discretion, refer matters concerning statements of disagreement to the Commission for disposition.

§ 200.309 General provisions.

(a) Extensions of time. Pursuant to §§ 200.303(b), 200.304(d), 200.307(c) and 200.308(a)(4), the time within which a request for information, access or amendment by an individual with respect to records maintained by the Commission that pertain to him normally would be processed may be extended for good cause shown or because of unusual circumstances. As used in these rules, "good cause" and "unusual circumstances" shall include, but only to the extent reasonably necessary to the proper processing of a particular request—

(1) The need to search for and collect the requested records from field facilities or other establishments that are separate from the Office processing the request. Many records of the Commission are stored in Federal Records Centers in accordance with law—including many of the documents which have been on file with the Commission for more than 2 years—and cannot be made available promptly. Other records may temporarily be located at a Regional or Branch Office of the Commission. Any person who has requested for personal examination a record stored at the Federal Records Center or temporarily located in a Regional or Branch Office of the Commission will be notified when the record will be made available to him.

(2) The need to search for, collect, and appropriately examine a voluminous amount of separate and distinct records which may be demanded in a single request. While every reasonable effort will be made fully to comply with each request as promptly as possible on a first-come, first-served basis, work done to search for, collect and appropriately examine records in response to a request for a large number of records will be contingent upon the availability of processing personnel in accordance with an equitable allocation of time to all members of the public who have requested or wish to request records.

(3) The need for consultation, which shall be conducted with all practicable speed, with another agency having a substantial interest in the determination of the request, or among two or more components within the Commission having substantial subject-matter interest therein.

(b) Effective date of action. Whenever it is provided in this subpart that an acknowledgement or response to a request will be given by specific times, deposit in the mails of such acknowledgement or response by that time, addressed to the person making the request, will be deemed full compliance.

(c) Records in use by a member of the Commission or its staff. Although every effort will be made to make a record in use by a member of the Commission or its staff available when requested, it may occasionally be necessary to delay making such a record available when doing so at the time the request is made would seriously interfere with the work of the Commission or its staff.

(d) Missing or lost records. Any person who has requested a record or a copy of a record pertaining to him will be notified if the record sought cannot be found. If he so requests, he will be notified if the record subsequently is found.

(e) Oral requests; misdirected written requests—(1) Telephone and other oral requests. Before responding to any request by an individual for information concerning whether records maintained by the Commission in a system of records pertain to him or to any request for access to records by an individual, such request must be in writing and signed by the individual making the request. The General Counsel will not entertain any appeal from an alleged denial or failure to comply with an oral request. Any person who has orally requested information or access to records pertaining to him that he believes to have been improperly denied to him should resubmit his request in appropriate written form in order to obtain proper consideration and, if need be, administrative review.

(2) Misdirected written requests. The Commission cannot assure that a timely or satisfactory response will be given to written requests for information, access or amendment by an individual with respect to records pertaining to him that are directed to the Commission other than in the manner prescribed in §§ 200.303(a), 200.306(a), 200.308(a)(2), and 200.310. Any staff member who receives a written request for information, access or amendment should promptly forward the request to the Privacy Act Officer. Misdirected requests for records will be considered to have been received by the Commission only when they have been actually received by the Privacy Act Officer in cases under § 200.308(a)(2). The Commission will not entertain any appeal from an alleged denial or failure to comply with a misdirected request, unless it is clearly shown that the request was in fact received by the Privacy Act Officer.

§ 200.310 Fees.

(a) A request by an individual for copies of a record pertaining to him or her that is maintained by the Commission may be made in person during normal business hours at the Public Reference Room at 450 Fifth Street, NW, Room 1024, Washington, DC, or by mail addressed to the Privacy Act Officer, Securities and Exchange Commission, 500 North Capitol Street, Washington, D.C. 20549. There will be no charge assessed to the individual for the Commission's expense involved in searching for or reviewing the record. Copies of the Commission's records will be provided by a commercial copier or by the Commission at rates established by a contract between the copier and the Commission. In addition, copying machines are provided for public use in the public reference facilities in the Commission's Washington, D.C., New York, Los Angeles and Chicago offices.

(b) Waiver or reduction of fees. Whenever the Director of the Office of Consumer Affairs and Information Services determines that good cause exists to grant a request for reduction or waiver of fees for copying documents, he may reduce or waive any such fees.

§ 200.311 Penalties.

Title 18 U.S.C. Sec. 1001 makes it a criminal offense, subject to a maximum fine of $10,000, or imprisonment for not more than 5 years or both, to knowingly and willingly make or cause to be made any false or fraudulent statements or representations in any matter within the jurisdiction of any agency of the United States. 5 U.S.C. 552a(i) makes it a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of not more than $5,000 for any person knowingly and willfully to request or obtain any record concerning an individual from the Commission under false pretenses. 5 U.S.C. 552a(i) (1) and (2) provide criminal penalties for certain violations of the Privacy Act by officers and employees of the Commission.

§ 200.312 Specific exemptions.

Pursuant to section (k) of the Privacy Act of 1974, the Chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission, with the concurrence of the Commission, has deemed it necessary to promulgate the following exemptions to specified provisions of the Privacy Act:

(a) Pursuant to, and limited by 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(2), the following systems of records maintained by the Commission shall be exempted from 5 U.S.C. 552a(c)(3), (d), (e)(1), (e)(4) (G), (H), and (I), and (f) and 17 CFR 200.303, 200.304, and 200.306, insofar as they contain investigatory materials compiled for law enforcement purposes:

(1)Enforcement Files;

(2)Litigation, Actions and Proceedings Bulletin;

(3)Office of the General Counsel Working Files'

(4)Office of the Chief Accountant Working Files;

(5)Complaint Processing System;

(6)Investor Service Complaint Index;

(7)Name–Relationship Index System; and

(8)Rule 2(e) of the Commission's Rules of Practice–Appearing or Practicing Before the Commission.

(b) Pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(5), the systems of records containing the Commission's (1) Office of Personnel Code of Conduct and Employee Performance Files and (2) Personnel Security Files shall be exempt from Sections (c)(3), (d), (e)(1), (e)(4) (C), (H), and (I), and (f) of the Privacy Act, 5 U.S.C. 552a(c)(3), (d), (e)(1), (e)(4) (G), (H), and (I), and (f), and 17 CFR 200.303, 200.304, and 200.306 insofar as they contain investigatory material compiled to determine an individual's suitability, eligibility, and qualifications for Federal civilian employment or access to classified information, but only to the extent that the disclosure of such material would reveal the identity of a source who furnished information to the Government under an express promise that the identity of the source would be held in confidence, or, prior to September 27, 1975, under an implied promise that the identity of the source would be held in confidence.

SSS-8

System name:

Suspected Violator Inventory System—SSS.

Security classification:

None.

System location:

Data Management Center/Joint Computer Center, Great Lakes, Illinois 60088.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Alleged violators of the Military Selective Service Act (50 U.S.C. App. 451 et seq).

Categories of records in the system:

Automated records created by matches between records contained in SSS-10 and other computer files, and other records related to non-registrants. Each record may contain the name, address, Selective Service Number (if any), Social Security Account Number (if any), date of birth, status, and disposition data relating to possible violations of the Military Selective Service Act.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

Section 10(b)(3) of the Military Selective Service Act (50 U.S.C. App. 460(b)(3)).

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

The names of individuals identified as alleged violators of the Military Selective Service Act will be checked against the SSS-10 registrant file. If the individual has registered, the incoming communication will be destroyed and no further action will be taken. If the individual is not listed in the registrant file or cannot be identified therein where the incoming communication contains sufficient identifying information on the alleged violator to permit sending correspondence to him under the automated tracking system, the name and associated information will be added to that system and the incoming communication will be used to attempt to correspond with the alleged violator, giving him an opportunity to register. After a reasonable attempt is made to register the individual, and he neither registers nor provides documented evidence supporting exemption or where there is insufficient information to add the alleged violator to the automated tracking system, the incoming communication may be forwarded to the Department of Justice for investigation and, if applicable, return to Selective Service with sufficient information for adding to the automated tracking system or comparison with the registrant file. When computer matches of Selective Service files result in production of a list of possible non-registrants, that list may be provided to the Department of Defense and the Department of Transportation to eliminate from the list individuals not required to register. The names, dates of birth, Social Security Account Numbers, and home addresses of possible non-registrants who also have been identified as members of the Reserve components of the U.S. military services, including the U.S. Coast Guard, may be provided to the Department of Defense, including the military services, and the U.S. Coast Guard, Department of Transportation, to obtain current addresses. The names, dates of birth, Social Security Account Numbers, home addresses, and disposition data on possible non-registrants who have been identified as Federal student aid recipients by the Department of Education may be provided to the Department of Education, after processing by Selective Service, for investigation and, if applicable, forwarding to the Department of Justice for prosecution. The list may also be provided to the Internal Revenue Service to obtain current addresses of suspected non-registrants. After processing the information pertaining to suspected non-registrants will be forwarded to the Department of Justice for investigation and, if applicable, prosecution.

Where Selective Service determines that information as originally submitted appears to have contained a discrepancy, the names, dates of birth, Social Security Account Numbers, and home addresses of individuals may be returned to the original sources together with information concerning the discrepancy. Information concening the discrepancy may include correspondence from the individual concerned.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Upon receipt of unsolicited communications regarding alleged violators of the Military Service Act who are not listed in the SSS registrant file, a computer record will be created. This is an automated tracking system which contains the nature of the alleged violator, his Social Security Account Number if available, the date sent to the Department of Justice, the final disposition when received, and the case control number. The document is microfilmed, and can be retrieved by a Document Locator Number recorded in the computer record. The original document is destroyed.

When computer matches between Selective Service and other files produce lists of possible non-registrants, the computer file will be produced and maintained. As the list is processed the paper file will be produced from the microfilm records, containing correspondence between possible non-registrants and Selective Service. A computerized tracking file of cases will be maintained.

Retrievability:

Indexed Selective Service Number, Social Security Account Number, name and case number (if any).

Safeguards:

(a) Records are available to authorized Selective Service personnel only.

(b) Paper records are converted to microfilm. A microfilm copy is kept in a locked file cabinet accessible only to authorized personnel. The microfilm original is transferred to a Federal Archives and Records Center. The paper records are destroyed after microfilming.

(c) Building is secured and patrolled after normal business hours. Access is controlled by an electronic security access system.

(d) Computer files will be maintained at the Joint Computer Center at Great Lakes, Illinois.

(i) Security guards for the building will allow access to authorized personnel only.

(ii) Computer room will be secured with cypher locks.

(iii) Terminal access to the computer system will be restricted to those with valid user ID and password.

(iv) A Customer Information Control system will require additional password for interactive access to data base information.

(v) A software security package will protect access to data in the system.

(vi) Access to the violator section of the data base will not be possible without specific authorization by the Data Base Administrator.

Retention and disposal:

Upon receipt of unsolicited information regarding an alleged violation of the Military Selective Service Act, SSS will check the registrant file for the individual's name. If the individual has registered, the incoming correspondence will be destroyed and no record will be made or retained by SSS. If the individual is not listed in the registrant file, the individual will be entered into the automated tracking system, and the incoming correspondence will be used to attempt to correspond with the alleged violator, giving him an opportunity to register. After a reasonable attempt is made to register the individual, and he neither registers nor provides documented evidence supporting exemption, the communication may be sent to the Department of Justice. SSS will not retain copies of the incoming correspondence or any record identifying the source of the unsolicited information regarding an alleged violation. When computer matches identify persons as possible non-registrants, processing may result in the production of a paper file of correspondence and/or other information. SSS will not retain paper copies of this information when cases are referred to the Department of Justice, but will retain microfilm copies. Once the Department of Justice has disposed of the case, as it deems appropriate, the Department will notify SSS, and the individual's name and related data will be deleted from the tracking system list of possible non-registrants.

All paper forms and correspondence will be destroyed by maceration, shredding or burning after the appropriate information has been recorded. Computer printouts distributed to SSS National Headquarters are destroyed when they have served their temporary purpose by maceration, shredding or burning.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Registrants of Selective Service System (after 1979).

Categories of records in the system:

Individual Registration Records:

a. Registration Form.

b. Computer tape and microfilm copies containing information provided by registrants on Registration Form.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

Sections 3, 10(b)(3) and 15(b) of the Military Selective Service Act (50 U.S.C. App. 453, 460(b)(3)).

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

Department of Defense—for exchange of information concerning registration, classification, enlistment, examination and induction of individuals and identification of individuals, availability of Standby Reservists, and identification of prospects for recruiting.

Department of Justice—for review and processing of suspected violations of the Military Selective Service Act, or for perjury, and for defense of a civil action arising from administrative processing under such Act.

Federal Bureau of Investigation—for location of an individual when suspected of a violation of the Military Selective Service Act.

Immigration and Naturalization Service—to provide information for use in determining an individual's eligibility for re-entry into the United States.

Department of State—for determination of an alien's eligibility for possible entry into the United States and United States citizenship.

Office of Veteran's Reemployment Rights, United States Department of Labor—to assist veterans in need of information concerning reemployment rights.

Department of Health and Human Services—for locations of parents pursuant to the Child Support Enforcement Act (42 U.S.C. 651 et seq.) and for determining the individual's proper Social Security Account Number when there appears to be a discrepancy.

State and local government agencies-to provide information which may constitute evidence of a violation of State or local law, for law enforcement purposes.

Alternative service employers—for exchange of information with employers regarding a registrant who is a conscientious objector for the purpose of placement and supervision of alternative service in lieu of induction into military service.

General Public—Registrant's Name, Selective Service Number, and Date of Birth.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Records are maintained on microfilm and in the computer system. Microfilm records are indexed by Document Locator Number, which is stored in the computer record.

Retrievability:

The system is indexed by Selective Service Number, but records can be located by searching for specific demographic data.

Safeguards:

Measures that have been taken to prevent unauthorized disclosure of records are:

a. Records are maintained by authorized personnel only, who have been trained in the rules and regulations concerning disclosure of information; offices are locked when authorized personnel are not on duty, and are protected by an electronic security access system at all times.

b. Periodic security checks and other emergency planning.

c. Microfilm records transferred to a Federal Archives and Records Center for storage are boxed and taped; records in transit for temporary custody of another office are sealed.

d. On-line access to RIB from terminals is controlled by User Identification and password. Batch access controlled via standard data processing software and hardware techniques.

Records eligible for destruction are destroyed by maceration, shredding or burning.

Retention and disposal:

Individual Processing Records:

1. Registration Form—Destroyed by maceration when its information has been transferred onto microfilm and into the computer system. Original microfilm is stored at a Federal Archives and Records Center. A microfilm copy is retained at the Data Management Center, in locked steel cabinets. The copies are retained until no longer needed for reference purposes.

2. The record copy of microfilm and computer tape will be retained until registrant reaches 85 years of age.

System manager(s) and address:

Director of Selective Service, Selective Service System, 1023-31st Street, NW., Washington, D.C. 20435.

Record access procedures:

The agency office address to which inquiries should be addressed and the location at which an individual may present a request as to whether the Registrant Registration Records System (after 1979) contains records pertaining to himself is:

Director of Selective Service, Selective Service System, 1023-31st Street, NW., Washington, D.C. 20435, Attn: Records Manager.

It is necessary to furnish the following information in order to identify the individual whose records are requested:

1. Full name of the individual.
2. Selective Service Number or Social Security Number, date of birth and address at time of registration if Selective Service Number is not known.
3. Mailing address to which the reply should be mailed.

Contesting record procedures:

See Access, above.

1665.7 Information available to the public or to former employers of registrants.
1665.8 Systems of records exempted from certain provisions of this act.

Authority: 5 U.S.C. 552a.

Source: 47 FR 7224, Feb. 18, 1982, unless otherwise noted.

§ 1665.1 Rules for determining if an individual is the subject of a record.

(a) Individuals desiring to know if a specific system of records maintained by the Selective Service System (SSS) contains a record pertaining to them should address their inquiries to the Director, Selective Service System, ATTN: Records Manager, Washington, D.C. 20435. The written inquiry should contain a specific reference to the system of records maintained by Selective Service listed in the SSS Notices of Systems of Records or it should describe the type of record in sufficient detail to reasonably identify the system of records. Notice of SSS Systems of Records subject to the Privacy Act is in the Federal Register and copies of the notices will be available upon request to the records manager. A compilation of such notices will also be made and published by the Office of Federal Register, in accord with section 5 U.S.C. 552a(f).

(b) At a minimum, the request should also contain sufficient information to identify the requester in order to allow SSS to determine if there is a record pertaining to that individual in a particular system of records. In instances when the information is insufficient to insure that disclosure will be to the individual to whom the information pertains, in view of the sensitivity of the information, SSS reserves the right to ask the requester for additional identifying information.

(c) Ordinarily the requester will be informed whether the named system of records contains a record pertaining to the requester within 10 days of receipt of such a request (excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal federal holidays). Such a response will also contain or reference the procedures which must be followed by the individual making the request in order to gain access to the record.

(d) Whenever a response cannot be made within the 10 days, the records manager will inform the requester of the reason for the delay and the date by which a response may be anticipated.

§ 1665.2 Requests for access.

(a) Requirement for written requests. Individuals desiring to gain access to a record pertaining to them in a system of records maintained by SSS must submit their request in writing in accord with the procedures set forth in paragraph (b) of this section.

(b) Procedures.—(1) Content of the request. (i) The request for access to a record in a system of records shall be addressed to the records manager, at the address cited above, and shall name the system of records or contain a description of such system of records. The request should state that the request is pursuant to the Privacy Act of 1974. In the absence of specifying solely the Privacy Act of 1974 and, if the request may be processed under both the Freedom of Information Act and the Privacy Act and the request specifies both or neither act, the procedures under the Privacy Act of 1974 will be employed. The individual will be advised that the procedures of the Privacy Act will be utilized, of the existence and the general effect of the Freedom of Information Act, and the difference between procedures under the two acts (e.g. fees, time limits, access). The request should contain necessary information to verify the identity of the requester (see § 1665.2(b)(2)(vi)). In addition, the requester should include any other information which may assist in the rapid identification of the record for which access is being requested (e.g., maiden name, dates of employment, etc.) as well as any other identifying information contained in and required by SSS Notice of Systems of Records.

(ii) If the request for access follows a prior request under § 1665.1, the same identifying information need not be included in the request for access if a reference is made to that prior correspondence, or a copy of the SSS response to that request is attached.

(iii) If the individual specifically desires a copy of the record, the request should so specify.

(2) SSS action on request. A request for access will ordinarily be answered within 10 days, except when the records manager determines that access cannot be afforded in that time, in which case the requester will be informed of the reason for the delay and an estimated date by which the request will be answered. Normally access will be granted within 30 days from the date the request was received by the Selective Service System. At a minimum, the answer to the request for access shall include the following:

(i) A statement that there is a record as requested or a statement that there is not a record in the system of records maintained by SSS;

(ii) A statement as to whether access will be granted only by providing copy of the record through the mail; or the address of the location and the date and time at which the record may be examined. In the event the requester is unable to meet the specified date and time, alternative arrangements may be made with the official specified in § 1665.2(b)(1);

(iii) A statement, when appropriate, that examination in person will be the sole means of granting access only when the records manager has determined that it would not unduly impede the requester's right of access;

(iv) The amount of fees charged, if any (see § 1665.6) (Fees are applicable only to requests for copies);

(v) The name, title, and telephone number of the SSS official having operational control over the record; and

(vi) The documentation required by SSS to verify the identity of the requester. At a minimum, SSS's verification standards include the following:

(A) Current or former SSS employees. Current or former SSS employees requesting access to a record pertaining to them in a system of records maintained by SSS may, in addition to the other requirements of this section, and at the sole discretion of the official having operational control over the record, have his or her identity verified by visual observation. If the current or former SSS employee cannot be so identified by the official having operational control over the records, identification documentation will be required. Employee identification cards, annuitant identification, drivers licenses, or the "employee copy" of any official personnel document in the record are examples of acceptable identification validation.

(B) Other than current or former SSS employees. Individuals other than current or former SSS employees requesting access to a record pertaining to them in a system of records maintained by SSS must produce identification documentation of the type described herein, prior to being granted access. The extent of the identification documentation required will depend on the type of record to be accessed. In most cases, identification verification will be accomplished by the presentation of two forms of identification. Any additional requirements are specified in the system notices published pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(4).

(C) Access granted by mail. For records to be accessed by mail, the records manager shall, to the extent possible, establish identity by a comparison of signatures in situations where the data in the record is not so sensitive that unauthorized access could cause harm or embarrassment to the individual to whom they pertain. No identification documentation will be required for the disclosure to the requester of information required to be made available to the public by 5 U.S.C. 552. When in the opinion of the records manager the granting of access through the mail could reasonably be expected to result in harm or embarrassment if disclosed to a person other than the individual to whom the record pertains, a notarized statement of identity or some similar assurance of identity will be required.

(D) Unavailability of identification documentation. If an individual is unable to produce adequate identification documentation the individual will be required to sign a statement asserting identity and acknowledging that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to a record about another person under false pretenses may result in a fine of up to $5,000. In addition, depending upon the sensitivity of the records sought to be accessed, the official having operational control over the records may require such further reasonable assurances as may be considered appropriate e.g., statements of other individuals who can attest to the identity of the requester. No verification of identity will be required of individuals seeking access to records which are otherwise available to any person under 5 U.S.C. 552, Freedom of Information Act.

(E) Access by the parent of a minor, or legal guardian. A parent of a minor, upon presenting suitable personal identification, may access on behalf of the minor any record pertaining to the minor maintained by SSS in a system of records. A legal guardian may similarly act on behalf of an individual declared to be incompetent due to physical or mental incapacity or age by a court of competent jurisdiction. Absent a court order or consent, a parent or legal guardian has no absolute right to have access to a record about a child. Minors are not precluded from exercising on their own behalf rights given to them by the Privacy Act.

(F) Granting access when accompanied by another individual. When an individual requesting access to his or her record in a system of records maintained by SSS wishes to be accompanied by another individual during the course of the examination of the record, the individual making the request shall submit to the official having operational control of the record, a signed statement authorizing that person access to the record.

(G) Denial of access for inadequate identification documentation. If the official having operational control over the records in a system of records maintained by SSS determines that an individual seeking access has not provided sufficient identification documentation to permit access, the official shall consult with the records manager prior to finally denying the individual access.

(H) Review of decision to deny access. Whenever the records manager determines, in accordance with the procedures herein, that access cannot be granted the response will also include a statement of the procedures to obtain a review of the decision to deny in accord with § 1665.5.

(vii) Exceptions. (A) Nothing in these regulations shall be construed to entitle an individual the right to access to any information compiled in reasonable anticipation of a civil action or proceeding. The mere fact that records in a system of records are frequently the subject of litigation does not bring those systems of records within the scope of this provision. This provision is not intended to preclude access by an individual to the records which are available to that individual under the other processes such as the Freedom of Information Act or the rules of civil procedure.

(B) Within any system of records pertaining to possible violations of the Military Selective Service Act, the identity of or any information pertaining to any individual who provides information relating to a suspected violator will not be revealed to the suspected violator. This exemption is made under the provision of 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(2).

§ 1665.3 Access to the accounting of disclosures from records.

Rules governing the granting of access to the accounting of disclosure are the same as those for granting accesses to the records (including verification of identity) outlined in § 1665.2.

§ 1665.4 Requests to amend records.

(a) Requirement for written requests. Individuals desiring to amend a record that pertains to them in a system of records maintained by SSS must submit their request in writing in accord with the procedures set forth herein. Records not subject to the Privacy Act of 1974 will not be amended in accord with these provisions. However, individuals who believe that such records are inaccurate may bring this to the attention of SSS.

(b) Procedures. (1)(i) The requests to amend a record in a system of records shall be addressed to the records manager. Included in the request shall be the name of the system and a brief description of the record proposed for amendment. In the event the request to amend the record is the result of the individual's having gained access to the record in accordance with the provisions concerning access to records as set forth above, copies of previous correspondence between the requester and SSS will serve in lieu of a separate description of the record.

(ii) When the individual's identity has been previously verified pursuant to § 1665.2(b)(2)(vi), further verification of identity is not required as long as the communication does not suggest that a need for verification is present. If the individual's identity has not been previously verified, SSS may require identification validation as described in § 1665.2(b)(2)(vi). Individuals desiring assistance in the preparation of a request to amend a record should contact the records manager at the address cited above.

(iii) The exact portion of the record the individual seeks to have amended should be clearly indicated. If possible, the proposed alternative language should also be set forth, or at a minimum, the facts which the individual believes are not accurate, relevant, timely, or complete should be set forth with such particularity as to permit SSS not only to understand the individual's basis for the request, but also to make an appropriate amendment to the record.

(iv) The request must also set forth the reasons why the individual believes his record is not accurate, relevant, timely, or complete. In order to avoid the retention by SSS of personal information merely to permit verification of records, the burden of persuading SSS to amend a record will be upon the individual. The individual must furnish sufficient facts to persuade the official in charge of the system of the inaccuracy, irrelevancy, timeliness or incompleteness of the record.

(v) Incomplete or inaccurate requests will not be rejected categorically. The individual will be asked to clarify the request as needed.

(2) SSS action on the request. To the extent possible, a decision, upon a request to amend a record will be made within 10 days, (excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal Federal holidays). The response reflecting the decisions upon a request for amendment will include the following:

(i) The decision of the Selective Service System whether to grant in whole, or deny any part of the request to amend the record.

(ii) The reasons for determination for any portion of the request which is denied.

(iii) The name and address of the official with whom an appeal of the denial may be lodged.

(iv) The name and address of the official designated to assist, as necessary and upon request of, the individual making the request in preparation of the appeal.

(v) A description of the review of the appeal with SSS (see § 1665.5).

(vi) A description of any other procedures which may be required of the individual in order to process the appeal.

(3) If the nature of the request for the correction of the system of records precludes a decision within 10 days, the individual making the request will be informed within 10 days of the extended date for a decision. Such a decision will be issued as soon as it is reasonably possible, normally within 30 days from the receipt of the request (excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal Federal holidays) unless unusual circumstances preclude completing action within that time. If the expected completion date for the decision indicated cannot be met, the individual will be advised of the delay of a revised date when the decision may be expected to be completed.

§ 1665.5 Request for review.

(a) Individuals wishing to request a review of the decision by SSS with regard to any initial request to access or amend a record in accord with the provisions of §§ 1665.2 and 1665.4, should submit the request for review in writing and, to the extent possible, include the information specified in § 1665.5(b). Individuals desiring assistance in the preparation of their request for review should contact the records manager at the address provided herein.

(b) The request for review should contain a brief description of the record involved or in lieu thereof, copies of the correspondence from SSS in which the request to access or to amend was denied and also the reasons why the requester believes that access should be granted or the disputed information amended. The request for review should make reference to the information furnished by the individual in support of his claim and the reasons as required by §§ 1665.2 and 1665.4 set forth by SSS in its decision denying access or amendment. Appeals filed without a complete statement by the requester setting forth the reasons for review will, of course, be processed. However, in order to make the appellate process as meaningful as possible, the requester's disagreement should be set forth in an understandable manner. In order to avoid the unnecessary retention of personal information, SSS reserves the right to dispose of the material concerning the request to access or amend a record if no request for review in accord with this section is received by SSS within 180 days of the mailing by SSS of its decision upon an initial request. A request for review received after the 180 day period may, at the discretion of the records manager, be treated as an initial request to access or amend a record.

(c) The request for review should be addressed to the Director of Selective Service.

(d) The Director of Selective Service will inform the requester in writing of the decision on the request for review within 20 days (excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal federal holidays) from the date of receipt by SSS of the individual's request for review unless the Director extends the 20 days period for good cause. The extension and the reasons therefor will be sent by SSS to the requester within the initial 20 day period. Such extensions should not be routine and should not normally exceed an additional thirty days. If the decision does not grant in full the request for amendment, the notice of the decision will provide a description of the steps the individual may take to obtain judicial review of such a decision, a statement that the individual may file a concise statement with SSS setting forth the individual's reasons for his disagreement with the decision and the procedures for filing such a statement of disagreement. The Director of Selective Service has the authority to determine the "conciseness" of the statement, taking into account the scope of the disagreement and the complexity of the issues. Upon the filing of a proper, concise statement by the individual, any subsequent disclosure of the information in dispute will be clearly noted so that the fact that the record is disputed is apparent, a copy of the concise statement furnished and a concise statement by SSS setting forth its reasons for not making the requested changes, if SSS chooses to file such a statement. A notation of a dispute is required to be made only if an individual informs the agency of his disagreement with SSS's determination in accord with § 1665.5(a), (b) and (c). A copy of the individual's statement, and if it chooses, SSS's statement will be sent to any prior transferee of the disputed information who is listed on the accounting required by 5 U.S.C. 552a(c). If the reviewing official determines that the record should be amended in accord with the individual's request, SSS will promptly correct the record, advise the individual, and inform previous recipients if an accounting of the disclosure was made pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(c). The notification of correction pertains to information actually disclosed.

§ 1665.6 Schedule of fees.

(a) Prohibitions against charging fees. Individuals will not be charged for:

(1) The search and review of the record.

(2) Any copies of the record produced as a necessary part of the process of making the record available for access, or

(3) Any copies of the requested record when it has been determined that access can only be accomplished by providing a copy of the record through the mail.

(4) Where a registrant has been charged under the Military Selective Service Act and must defend himself in a criminal prosecution, or where a registrant submits to induction and thereafter brings habeas corpus proceedings to test the validity of his induction, the Selective Service System will furnish to him, or to any person he may designate, one copy of his Selective Service file free of charge.

(b) Waiver. The Director of Selective Service may at no charge, provide copies of a record if it is determined the production of the copies is in the interest of the Government.

(c) Fee schedule and method of payment. Fees will be charged as provided below except as provided in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section.

(1) Duplication of records. Records will be duplicated at a rate of $.25 per page.

(2) Fees should be paid in full prior to issuance of requested copies. In the event the requester is in arrears for previous requests, copies will not be provided for any subsequent request until the arrears have been paid in full.

(3) Remittance shall be in the form of cash, a personal check or bank draft drawn on a bank in the United States, or postal money order. Remittances shall be made payable to the order of the Selective Service System and mailed or delivered to the records manager, Selective Service System, Washington, D.C. 20435.

(4) A receipt of fees paid will be given upon request.

§ 1665.7 Information available to the public or to former employers of registrants.

(a) Each area office maintains a classification record which contains the name, Selective Service number, and the current and past classifications for each person assigned to that board. Information in this record may be inspected at the area office at which it is maintained.

(b) Any compensated employee of the Selective Service System may disclose to the former employer of a registrant who is serving in or who has been discharged from the Armed Forces whether the registrant has or has not been discharged and, if discharged, the date thereof, upon reasonable proof that the registrant left a position in the employ of the person requesting such information in order to serve in the Armed Forces.

(c) Whenever an office referred to in this section is closed, the request for information that otherwise would be submitted to it should be submitted to the National Headquarters, Selective Service System, Washington, D.C. 20435.

§ 1665.8 Systems of records exempted from certain provisions of this act.

Pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(2), the Selective Service System will not reveal to the suspected violator the informant's name or other identifying information relating to the informant.

To provide data to the General Accounting Office for periodic reviews of this Agency.

To provide the Internal Revenue Service, in response to its request, with access to an individual's records to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the IRS' function.

Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual.

It shall be a routine use of the records in this system of records to disclose them to the Department of Justice when

(a)The agency, or any component thereof; or

(b) Any employee of the agency in his or her official capacity; or

(c) Any employee of the agency in his or her individual capacity where the Department of Justice has agreed to represent the employee; or

(d) The United States, where the agency determines that litigation is likely to affect the agency or any of its components, is a party to litigation or has an interest in such litigation, and the use of such records by the Department of Justice is deemed by the agency to be relevant and necessary to the litigation, provided, however, that in each case, the agency determines that disclosure of the records to the Department of Justice is a use of the information contained in the records that is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

It shall be a routine use of records maintained by this agency to disclose them in a proceeding before a court or adjudicative body before which the agency is authorized to appear, when

(a) The agency, or any component thereof; or

(b) Any employee of the agency in his or her official capacity; or

(c) Any employee of the agency in his or her individual capacity where the agency has agreed to represent the employee; or

(d) The United States, where the agency determines that litigation is likely to affect the agency or any of its component, is a party to litigation or has an interest in such litigation, and the agency determines that use of such records is relevant and necessary to the litigation, provided, however, that in each case, the agency determines that disclosure of the records to a court or other adjudicative body is a use of the information contained in the records that is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

These records are maintained in file folders.

Retrievability:

These records are indexed by recipient name.

Safeguards:

Access to and use of these records are limited to those persons whose official duties require such access. Personnel screening is employed to prevent unauthorized disclosure.

Retention and disposal:

All Disaster Home Loan recipients and other individuals who are parties to lawsuits or claims involving the SBA.

Categories of records in the system:

This system of records contains information relating to recipients who have been classified as "in litigation" and all individuals involved in claims asserted by or against the Agency. These records include, wherever applicable: Affidavits, briefs, pleadings, depositions and interrogatories, summaries of loan status with entries of progress of litigation, opinions, copies of Department of Justice papers concerning loan cases in litigation, summary foreclosures, chattel lien searches, requests and answers under disclosure of information, modifications of loan terms and conditions, recipients' attorneys' names, amount of liability, narrative report of actual and contingent liabilities and related correspondence.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

5 U.S.C. 301, 15 U.S.C. 634(b)(6), 44 U.S.C. 3101.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

These records and information in the records may be used:

In the event that a system of records maintained by this Agency to carry out its function indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, State, local or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigation or prosecution of such violation, or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

In the course of presenting evidence to a court, magistrate or administrative tribunal, including disclosures to opposing counsel in the course or settlement negotiations.

Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual.

It shall be a routine use of the records in this system of records to disclose them to the Department of Justice when

(a)The agency, or any component thereof; or

(b) Any employee of the agency in his or her official capacity; or

(c) Any employee of the agency in his or her individual capacity where the Department of Justice has agreed to represent the employee; or

(d) The United States, where the agency determines that litigation is likely to affect the agency or any of its components, is a party to litigation or has an interest in such litigation, and the use of such records by the Department of Justice is deemed by the agency to be relevant and necessary to the litigation, provided, however, that in each case, the agency determines that disclosure of the records to the Department of Justice is a use of the information contained in the records that is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

It shall be a routine use of records maintained by this agency to disclose them in a proceeding before a court or adjudicative body before which the agency is authorized to appear, when

(a) The agency, or any component thereof; or

(b) Any employee of the agency in his or her official capacity; or

(c) Any employee of the agency in his or her individual capacity where the agency has agreed to represent the employee; or

(d) The United States, where the agency determines that litigation is likely to affect the agency or any of its component, is a party to litigation or has an interest in such litigation, and the agency determines that use of such records is relevant and necessary to the litigation, provided, however, that in each case, the agency determines that disclosure of the records to a court or other adjudicative body is a use of the information contained in the records that is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

It shall be a routine use to provide information to another Federal agency, including the Defense Manpower Data Center of the Department of Defense, to conduct computer matching programs for the purpose of identifying and locating the individuals who are receiving federal salaries or federal benefit payments. SBA will make the disclosures to obtain repayments of debts under the provisions of the Debt Collection Act of 1982 by voluntary repayment, or by administrative or salary offset procedures.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

These records are maintained in file folders, binders and index cards.

Retrievability:

These records are indexed by the name of recipient and claimant.

Safeguards:

Access to and use of these records are limited to those persons whose official duties require such access. Personnel screening is employed to prevent unauthorized disclosure.

Retention and disposal:

The litigation records are maintained by the Central Records Section for one year after the litigation action has been completed and marked "closed". At that time some records may be transferred to the Loan Case File while the remainder are destroyed. Records of claims and Disclosures of Information are maintained indefinitely and Actual and Contingent Liabilities Reports are maintained until the case is resolved, then forwarded to a Federal Records Center which disposes of them according to a GSA schedule.

System manager(s) and address:

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

These records and information in these records may be used: A record from this system of records may be disclosed, as a routine use, in the course of presenting evidence to a court, magistrate or administrative tribunal, including disclosures to opposing counsel in the course of such proceedings or in settlement negotiations.

In the event that a system of records maintained by this agency to carry out its function indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule, or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, State, local, or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigation or prosecution of such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute or rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

To provide information or disclose to State and Federal agencies, in response to their requests, in connection with the issuance of a grant, loan or benefit by the requesting agency, or in connection with a review or audit by the other agency. Disclosure will be made only to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agencies' functions.

Disclosure may be made to a consumer reporting agency and to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual.

It shall be a routine use of the records in this system of records to disclose them to the Department of Justice when

(a)The agency, or any component thereof; or

(b) Any employee of the agency in his or her official capacity; or

(c) Any employee of the agency in his or her individual capacity where the Department of Justice has agreed to represent the employee; or

(d) The United States, where the agency determines that litigation is likely to affect the agency or any of its components, is a party to litigation or has an interest in such litigation, and the use of such records by the Department of Justice is deemed by the agency to be relevant and necessary to the litigation, provided, however, that in each case, the agency determines that disclosure of the records to the Department of Justice is a use of the information contained in the records that is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

It shall be a routine use of records maintained by this agency to disclose them in a proceeding before a court or adjudicative body before which the agency is authorized to appear, when

(a) The agency, or any component thereof; or

(b) Any employee of the agency in his or her official capacity; or

(c) Any employee of the agency in his or her individual capacity where the agency has agreed to represent the employee; or

(d) The United States, where the agency determines that litigation is likely to affect the agency or any of its component, is a party to litigation or has an interest in such litigation, and the agency determines that use of such records is relevant and necessary to the litigation, provided, however, that in each case, the agency determines that disclosure of the records to a court or other adjudicative body is a use of the information contained in the records that is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

It shall be a routine use to provide information to a collection agency, a court or other adjudicative body, or a local, state or Federal agency, when SBA determines that such referral is appropriate for servicing or collecting the borrower's loan. Such disclosure will only be made if the system or records indicates that the loan is at least 30 days past due or to update a previous disclosure initiated when the loan was at least 30 days past due. Disclosure will only be made if such collection agency, court or other adjudicative body, or a local, state or Federal agency, has authority by contract, statute or regulation to determine liability of the borrower, collect the loan, or offset the debt against money which would otherwise be paid to the borrower.

It shall be a routine use to provide information to another Federal agency, including the Defense Manpower Data Center of the Department of Defense, to conduct computer matching programs for the purpose of identifying and locating delinquent SBA borrowers who are receiving federal salaries or federal benefit payments. Such disclosure will only be made if the system of records indicates that the loan is at least 30 days past due ot to update a previous disclosure initiated when the loan was at least 30 days past due. SBA will make the disclosures to obtain repayments of debts under the provisions of the Debt Collection Act of 1982 by voluntary repayment, or by administrative or salary offset procedures.

SBA315

System name:

Personnel Security Files—SBA315.

System location:

SBA Central Office and Regional Offices. See Appendix A for addresses.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Active and inactive SBA employees.

Categories of records in the system:

This system contains the active and inactive personnel security files, which include the employee's or former employee's name, background information, personnel actions, and Civil Service Commission's full field investigations. Also included in this system are the Civil Service Commission's National Agency checks and the names of those employees in sensitive positions requiring full field investigations.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

5 U.S.C. 301, 15 U.S.C. 634(b)(6), 44 U.S.C. 3101, Executive Order 10450.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

In the event that a system of records maintained by this Agency to carry out its function indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, State, local or foreign, charged with the investigation or prosecution of such violation's or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

Full field investigation and National Agency checks are returned to the Civil Service Commission when employee becomes inactive.

Records in the active and inactive personnel security files are forwarded to other Federal agencies conducting background checks.

A record from this system of records may be disclosed, as a routine use, in the course of presenting evidence to a court, magistrate or administrative tribunal, including disclosures to opposing counsel in the course of such proceedings or in settlement negotiations.

Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual.

Records may be disclosed to the OPM in accordance with that agency's authority to evaluate Federal personnel management.

Records may be disclosed to the Merit Systems Protection Board in connection with its consideration of appeals of personnel actions.

Records may be disclosed to physicians conducting fitness for duty examinations.

It shall be a routine use of the records in this system of records to disclose them to the Department of Justice when

(a)The agency, or any component thereof; or

(b) Any employee of the agency in his or her official capacity; or

(c) Any employee of the agency in his or her individual capacity where the Department of Justice has agreed to represent the employee; or

(d) The United States, where the agency determines that litigation is likely to affect the agency or any of its components, is a party to litigation or has an interest in such litigation, and the use of such records by the Department of Justice is deemed by the agency to be relevant and necessary to the litigation, provided, however, that in each case, the agency determines that disclosure of the records to the Department of Justice is a use of the information contained in the records that is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

It shall be a routine use of records maintained by this agency to disclose them in a proceeding before a court or adjudicative body before which the agency is authorized to appear, when

(a) The agency, or any component thereof; or

(b) Any employee of the agency in his or her official capacity; or

(c) Any employee of the agency in his or her individual capacity where the agency has agreed to represent the employee; or

(d) The United States, where the agency determines that litigation is likely to affect the agency or any of its component, is a party to litigation or has an interest in such litigation, and the agency determines that use of such records is relevant and necessary to the litigation, provided, however, that in each case, the agency determines that disclosure of the records to a court or other adjudicative body is a use of the information contained in the records that is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

The active and inactive personnel security files are maintained in rotary diebold power files. CSC National Agency checks are maintained in locked safes.

Retrievability:

Records are retrieved by employee's name.

Safeguards:

Personnel screening. Information released only to authorized persons.

Retention and disposal:

Civil Service Commission National Agency checks are kept until the employee leaves government service and then returned to CSC.

On the separation of an employee from SBA, Security and Investigations Division strips the file and forwards the full field portion of an investigation to the CSC. Remaining information of a nonderogatory nature is destroyed, while derogatory information is kept indefinitely.

System manager(s) and address:

Authority for maintenance of the system:

5 U.S.C. 301, 15 U.S.C. 634(b)(6), 44 U.S.C. 3101.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

In the event that a system of records maintained by the Agency to carry out its function indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, State, local or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigation or prosecution of such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute or rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual.

It shall be a routine use of the records in this system of records to disclose them to the Department of Justice when

(a)The agency, or any component thereof; or

(b) Any employee of the agency in his or her official capacity; or

(c) Any employee of the agency in his or her individual capacity where the Department of Justice has agreed to represent the employee; or

(d) The United States, where the agency determines that litigation is likely to affect the agency or any of its components, is a party to litigation or has an interest in such litigation, and the use of such records by the Department of Justice is deemed by the agency to be relevant and necessary to the litigation, provided, however, that in each case, the agency determines that disclosure of the records to the Department of Justice is a use of the information contained in the records that is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

It shall be a routine use of records maintained by this agency to disclose them in a proceeding before a court or adjudicative body before which the agency is authorized to appear, when

(a) The agency, or any component thereof; or

(b) Any employee of the agency in his or her official capacity; or

(c) Any employee of the agency in his or her individual capacity where the agency has agreed to represent the employee; or

(d) The United States, where the agency determines that litigation is likely to affect the agency or any of its component, is a party to litigation or has an interest in such litigation, and the agency determines that use of such records is relevant and necessary to the litigation, provided, however, that in each case, the agency determines that disclosure of the records to a court or other adjudicative body is a use of the information contained in the records that is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

These records are indexed by recipient's name.

Safeguards:

In addition, records are maintained on persons who supply information, containing the information supplied; on SBA employees against whom allegations have been made and investigations conducted; and on members of Advisory Councils and the Service Corps of Retired Executives and Association of Career Executives volunteers.

Categories of records in the system:

This system of records contains material gathered or created during the preparation for, conduct of and follow-up on investigations conducted by OIG, as well as other material submitted to or gathered by OIG in the furtherance of its investigative function. These records include Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) and other Federal, State, local and foreign regulatory or law enforcement investigative reports and include personal history statements, background character checks, field investigations, arrest and conviction records, parole and probation data, recommendations and related correspondence.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

5 U.S.C. App. I, 15 U.S.C. Chapters 14A and 14B; 44 U.S.C. Sec. 3101.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

In the event that a system of records maintained by this Agency to carry out its functions indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or administrative in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, State, local or foreign, charged with responsibility for or otherwise involved in investigation or prosecution of such violations or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute or rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

A record from this system of records may be disclosed, as a routine use, in the course of presenting evidence in or to a court, magistrate or administrative tribunal, including disclosures to opposing counsel in the course of such proceeding or in settlement negotiations.

These records may be used to provide data to the General Accounting Office for periodic reviews of this Agency.

These records may routinely be disclosed to other Federal agencies, in response to their requests, in connection with the conduct of background checks. Disclosure will be made only to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agencies' function.

These records may be disclosed to Federal, State or local bar associations and other professional regulatory or disciplinary bodies for use in disciplinary proceedings and inquiries preparatory thereto.

These records may be disclosed in response to an inquiry made, at the request of the individual, by a Member of Congress or staff member acting for the Member of Congress.

These records may be disclosed to members of the public under the Freedom of Information Act, 5 U.S.C. 552.

It shall be a routine use of the records in this system of records to disclose them to the Department of Justice when

(a)The agency, or any component thereof; or

(b) Any employee of the agency in his or her official capacity; or

(c) Any employee of the agency in his or her individual capacity where the Department of Justice has agreed to represent the employee; or

(d) The United States, where the agency determines that litigation is likely to affect the agency or any of its components, is a party to litigation or has an interest in such litigation, and the use of such records by the Department of Justice is deemed by the agency to be relevant and necessary to the litigation, provided, however, that in each case, the agency determines that disclosure of the records to the Department of Justice is a use of the information contained in the records that is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

It shall be a routine use of records maintained by this agency to disclose them in a proceeding before a court or adjudicative body before which the agency is authorized to appear, when

(a) The agency, or any component thereof; or

(b) Any employee of the agency in his or her official capacity; or

(c) Any employee of the agency in his or her individual capacity where the agency has agreed to represent the employee; or

(d) The United States, where the agency determines that litigation is likely to affect the agency or any of its component, is a party to litigation or has an interest in such litigation, and the agency determines that use of such records is relevant and necessary to the litigation, provided, however, that in each case, the agency determines that disclosure of the records to a court or other adjudicative body is a use of the information contained in the records that is compatible with the purpose for which the records were collected.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

These records are maintained in rotary diebold power files, filing cabinets, file folders, card indexes and word processing equipment.

Retrievability:

These records are indexed by name and cross-referenced to the number of Inspector General files containing related material.

Safeguards:

Information is released only to authorized persons. All filing cabinets are locked.

Retention and disposal:

Following final agency action as the result of an investigation, field investigation records are transferred to the Central Office. At the end of each calender year, investigatory records are screened to remove those records concerning persons about whom no derogatory information has been received for five years or more. These inactive records are microfiched and then sent to an FRC which maintains them for twenty years and then destroys them. Records containing adverse information on SBIC principals are retained for two years and then transferred to FRC, which destroys them after ten years; non-adverse records are retained for one year and then destroyed. Investigation cards containing a condensed report are retained indefinitely. Correspondence records are reviewed annually to assure that they are still essential and are destroyed when found not to be essential. Records concerning case status, maintained on word processing systems, are reviewed annually and purged of outdated records.

System manager(s) and address:

Assistant Inspector General for Investigations. See Appendix C for Central Office address.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act:

(1) Pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j) (2), this system of records is exempt from the application of all provisions of section 552a except sections (b), (c)(1) and (2), (e)(4)(A) through (F), (e)(6), (7), (9), (10), (11), and (i), to the extent that it consists of (A) information complied for the purpose of identifying individual criminal offenders and alleged offenders and consisting only of identifying data and notations of arrests, confinement, release, and parole and probation status; (B) information compiled for the purpose of criminal investigation, including reports of informants and investigators, and associated with an identifiable individual; or (C) reports identifiable to an individual compiled at any stage of the process of enforcement of the criminal laws from arrest or indictment through release from supervision. This system is exempted in order to maintain the efficacy and integrity of the Office of Inspector General's criminal law enforcement function.

(2) Pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a (k)(2) and (k)(5), except as otherwise provided therein, all investigatory material compiled for law enforcement purposes or for the purpose of determining suitability, eligibility, or qualifications for Federal civilian employment, Federal contracts, or access to classified information contained in this system of records is exempt from sections 3(c)(3), (d), (e)(1), (e) (4)(G) through (I), and (f) of the Privacy Act. 5 U.S.C. 552a (c)(3), (d), (e)(1), (e)(4)(G) through (I) and (f). This exemption is necessary in order to protect the confidentiality of sources of information and to maintain access to sources necessary in making determinations of suitability for employment.

(d) "Maintain" includes maintain, collect, use, or disseminate;

(e) "Record" means any item, collection, or grouping of information about an individual that is maintained by the Small Business Administration, including, but not limited to, education, financial transactions, medical history, and criminal or employment history and that contains his or her name, or the identifying number, symbol, or other identifying particular assigned to the individual, such as a finger, or voice print or a photograph;

(f) "System of records" means a group of any records under the control of Small Business Administration from which information is retrieved by the name of the individual or by some identifying number, symbol, or other identifying particular assigned to the individual;

(g) "Statistical record" means a record in a system of records maintained for statistical research or reporting purposes only and not used in whole or in part in making any determination about an identifiable individual; and

(h) "Routine use" means, with respect to the disclosure of a record, the use of such record for a purpose which is compatible with the purpose for which it was collected.

§ 102.22 Officials responsible for Privacy Act of 1974.

(a) "Program Official" is the Agency official in every field office and major program area responsible for the system or systems of records in his area. Responsibilities of this position include:

(1) Responding to requests for information from individuals and other sources received from Systems Managers.

(2) Discussing records with individuals.

(3) Amending records in cases where amended information is not controversial and does not involve policy decision making.

(4) Informing individuals of any reproduction fees to be charged.

(5) Maintaining appropriate recordkeeping.

(6) Reviewing records for relevance, timeliness, completeness, and accuracy.

(7) Providing Systems Managers with material for required reports and for publication of rules and notices in the Federal Register.

(b) "Systems Manager" is the Agency employee in each office responsible for implementing and overseeing this regulation and 5 U.S.C. 552a in his or her office. Responsibilities of this position include:

(1) Acting as initial contact person to individuals seeking access or amendment of their records.

(2) Preparing and forwarding access and amendment forms to the appropriate Program Official.

(3) Discussing with the Program Officials requests for which access or amendment will not be allowed, and making initial Agency decisions on access and amendment.

(4) Collecting information from the Program Official and compiling information required for reports and for publication of rules and notices in the Federal Register.

(5) Implementing and administering the records management program within his area of jurisdiction, including training of personnel, keeping required statistical records and making necessary reports.

(d) "Privacy Act Officer" is the Agency official with delegated responsibility for overseeing and implementing 5 U.S.C. 552a and Subpart B of Part 102 of SBA regulations. Responsibilities of this position include:

(1) Developing training programs for agency personnel in the provisions of the Act and the proposed records management procedures for implementation.

(2) Developing materials such as forms, reporting formats, and directives for implementing the Act.

(3) Preparing reports to the Congress, OMB, and the President, and preparing rules and notices for publication in the Federal Register.

(4) Approving extensions of review periods.

(5) Monitoring the relevance, accuracy, and completeness of records contained in systems of records.

(6) Reviewing appeals referred by Systems Managers concerning requests for amendment and access to records.

(7) Making final Agency decisions on requests for amendment and access to records.

Disclosures

§ 102.23 General conditions of disclosure.

The Agency shall not disclose any record which is contained in a system of records by any means of communication to any person, or to another agency, except pursuant to a written request by, or with the prior written consent of, the individual to whom the record pertains, unless such disclosure is:

(a) To those employees of the Agency who have a need for the record in the performance of their duties;

(b) Required under 5 U.S.C. 552 (Freedom of Information Act);

(c) For a routine use of the record compatible with the purpose for which it was collected;

(d) To the Bureau of the Census for purposes of planning or carrying out a census or survey or related activity pursuant to Title 13, United States Code;

(e) To a recipient who has provided the Agency with advance adequate written assurance that the record will be used solely as a statistical research or reporting record, and the record is to be transferred in a form that is not individually identifiable;

(f) To the National Archives of the United States as a record which has sufficient historical or other value to warrant its continued preservation by the U.S. Government, or for evaluation by the Administrator of General Services or his or her designee to determine whether the record has such value;

(g) To another agency or to an instrumentality of any governmental jurisdiction within or under the control of the United States for a civil or criminal law enforcement activity if the activity is authorized by law, and if the head of the agency or instrumentality has made a written request to the Privacy Act Officer specifying the particular portion desired and the law enforcement activity for which the record is sought;

(h) To a person pursuant to a showing of compelling circumstances affecting the health or safety of an individual if upon such disclosure notification is transmitted to the last known address of such individual;

(i) To either House of Congress, or, to the extent of matter within its jurisdiction, and committee or subcommittee thereof, any joint committee of Congress or subcommittee of any such joint committee;

(j) To the Comptroller General, or any of his or her authorized representatives, in the course of the performance of the duties of the General Accounting Office; or

(k) Pursuant to the order of a court of competent jurisdiction.

§ 102.24 Information compiled for civil action.

Nothing in these regulations shall allow an individual access to any information compiled by the Agency in reasonable anticipation of a civil action or proceeding. In the event that there should be a question as to whether information should be disclosed pursuant to this section, an opinion shall be obtained from Agency counsel.

§ 102.25 Disclosure of record to person other than the individual to whom it pertains.

(a) Prior to disseminating any record about an individual to any person other than an agency, unless the dissemination is made pursuant to § 102.23(b) of this subpart, the Program Official responsible for the Agency system of records shall make reasonable efforts to assure that such records are accurate, complete, timely, and relevant for Agency purposes.

(b) The Program Official shall make reasonable efforts to serve notice on an individual when any record on such individual is made available to any person under compulsory legal process when such process becomes a public record. When a record is disclosed under compulsory legal process, the Program Official may ask legal counsel for a determination as to whether the issuance of the order is a matter of public record and if counsel so determines, then the Program Official shall notify the individual by mail at his or her last known address. If counsel determines the matter is not of public record, he should request to be advised as to when it becomes public and inform the Program Official so that he may mail the notice at the appropriate time.

§ 102.26 Accounting of disclosures.

(a) With respect to each system of record under Agency control, the Agency will (except for disclosure made under § 102.23 (a) or (b) of this subpart) keep an accurate accounting.

(b) The Program Official shall account for disclosures in the manner defined by Agency guidelines in respect to each system of records under his or her control as follows:

(1) For each disclosure of a record to any person or to another agency made under § 102.23 of this subpart, maintain information consisting of the date, nature, and purpose of each disclosure of a record, and the name and address of the person or agency to whom the disclosure is made;

(2) Retain the accounting at least 5 years or the life of the record, whichever is longer, after the disclosure for which the accounting is made;

(3) Except for disclosures made under § 102.23(g) of this subpart make the accounting under paragraph (a) of this section available to the individual named in the record at his or her request; and

(4) Inform any person or other agency about any correction or notation of dispute made by the Agency in accordance with § 102.30(e) of this subpart of any record that has been disclosed to the person or agency, if an accounting of the disclosure was made.

(c) An annual report will be prepared by the Privacy Officer disclosing all of the above and a copy of this report will be available for inspection in every Agency field office and the Central Office.

Access and Amendment

§ 102.27 Requests by individuals to gain access to records.

(a) Any individual upon request may gain access to his or her record or to any information pertaining to him or her which is contained in any system of records maintained by the Agency, except as otherwise provided by law or regulation. Upon request, a person of his or her own choosing will be permitted to accompany him or her to review the record and have a copy made of all or any portion thereof in a form comprehensible to the individual. The Agency will require, however, a written statement from the individual authorizing discussion of that individual's record in the accompanying person's presence.

(b) The request for access must contain a reasonable description of the Agency system or systems of records sought. The request should be made to the Systems Manager concerned or, if this is not known, to the Privacy Act Officer, Small Business Administration, 1441 L Street NW, Washington, D.C. 20416, who will direct the request to the proper Agency official, or if this cannot be ascertained, inform the individual to make the request more specific.

(c) All such requests for information may be made in writing or on forms which shall be available in all SBA offices and provided free of charge for such purposes. The Systems Manager, after reviewing the request for information, may also request other identification of the individual for verification, such as (1) the employee number, (2) the dates of employment, (3) Disaster Home Loan number, (4) driver's license, (5) Medicare card, (6) a signed statement or (7) any additional information as he deems necessary for conclusive verification. The Systems Manager may request a Social Security Number for individual verification, although access may not be denied for refusal to disclose this number as provided in § 102.32(e). If he is unable to identify the record from the information submitted, he may require additional information. Requests will be honored only after showing, satisfactory to the Systems Manager, that the individual or his representatives has proper authorization.

(d) The Systems Managers in the offices or programs involved will notify the individual requesting disclosure of his or her record or information pertaining to him or her of the time, place and conditions under which the Agency will comply to the extent permitted by law and regulation.

(e) Upon receipt of a request for access to a record the Systems Manager shall promptly, but in any case within ten (10) days (excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal public holidays) after date of receipt of the request, notify the individual in writing that the request has been granted or denied. In the event that the request is granted, the notification to the requestor should state: (1) The Agency's determination that, unless requestor objects for good cause, it can grant access to a record only by providing a copy through the mail because it cannot otherwise provide reasonable means for the individual to have access to his or her record in person; or (2) the time and place(s) where the record may be reviewed.

[Rev. 2, Amdt. 1, 40 FR 46280, Oct. 6, 1975, as amended by Amdt. 5, 41 FR 43711, Oct. 4, 1976]

§ 102.28 Appeal to Privacy Act Officer.

(a) Any individual who disagrees with the initial Agency decision to deny access to his or her record may request a review of such refusal by addressing his or her written request to the Privacy Act Officer. All such requests for appeal should be submitted within thirty (30) days of the date of denial, or within ninety (90) days of such request if the appeal is from a failure to make a determination. Requests should specify the reasons for said review and shall be accompanied by affidavits, statements or such other supporting material as the individual feels necessary to justify his or her appeal.

(b) The Privacy Act Officer shall consider the decision of the Systems Manager together with the material submitted by the requesting individual. The Privacy Act Officer may also examine any other materials which he or she may consider relevant. He or she may call upon the Office of General Counsel for a legal opinion and any other Agency or program official who might have specialized knowledge in the pertinent area. In conducting the appeal, the Privacy Act Officer should follow the criteria for access to records specified in 5 U.S.C. 552a and SBA regulations.

(c) The Privacy Act Officer shall, not later than thirty (30) days (excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal public holidays) from the date on which the individual requests such review, complete such review and make a final Agency determination unless, for good cause shown, the Privacy Act Officer extends such thirty (30) day period.

(d) In the event that the Privacy Act Officer extends the period he or she shall inform the individual of the extension and notify the individual of the date on which he or she can expect a decision. If, after his or her review, the Privacy Act Officer also refuses to grant access to the record, he or she shall notify the individual of the reason for denial and the provisions for judicial review of the Agency determination.

§ 102.29 Requests for correction or amendment to record.

(a) Any individual may request the Agency to amend a record pertaining to him or her. The request should be made to the Systems Manager concerned or, if this is not known, to the Privacy Act Officer, Small Business Administration, 1441 "L" Street NW., Washington, D.C. 20416.

(b) All requests by an individual to amend a record shall be made in writing, to the Systems Manager, with supporting documentation as may be necessary, and preferably on forms provided by the Agency. The Systems Manager shall not later than ten (10) days (excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal public holidays) after the date of receipt of such request to amend a record, acknowledge in writing such receipt. The Systems Manager shall promptly:

(1) Make any correction of any portion thereof which the individual believes is not accurate, relevant, timely or complete; or

(2) Inform the individual of the Agency's initial refusal to amend the record in accordance with the request, the reason for the refusal and the name and address of the Privacy Act Officer to whom the individual may appeal the decision.

(c) Systems Managers shall, upon request by individuals seeking to have a record pertaining to them amended, give advice as to the procedures to be followed hereunder.

(d) Systems Managers shall, if the request for amendment has been granted, send an amended copy of the record to prior recipients of the record.

[Rev. 2, Amdt. 1, 40 FR 46280, Oct. 6, 1975, as amended by Amdt. 5, 41 FR 43711, Oct. 4, 1976]

§ 102.30 Appeal of initial Agency determination on correction or amendment of a record.

(a) Any individual who disagrees with the refusal of the Systems Manager to amend his or her record may request a review of such refusal by addressing his or her written request to the Privacy Act Officer. All such requests for appeal should be submitted within thirty (30) days of the date of denial, or within ninety (90) days of such request if the appeal is from a failure to make a determination. Requests should specify the reasons for said review and shall be accompanied by affidavits, statements or such other supporting material as the individual feels necessary to justify his or her appeal.

(b) The Privacy Act Officer shall consider the initial decision of the Systems Manager and the material submitted by the requesting individual, together with any and all other materials which he or she may consider relevant. He or she may call upon the Office of General Counsel for a legal opinion and any other Agency or program official who might have specialized knowledge in the pertinent area, to aid in the decision. In conducting the appeal, the Privacy Act Officer shall use the criteria of accuracy, relevance, timeliness, and completeness of the record. The Privacy Act Officer may, at his or her option, seek such additional information as is deemed necessary to satisfy those criteria, i.e., to establish that the record contains only that information which is necessary, accurate, and complete to assure fairness in any determination which may be made about the individual on the basis of the record. With respect to requests to delete information contained in an Agency file, the Privacy Act Officer should follow the same criteria as above, namely, that the information in the file must be only that which is relevant and necessary to accomplish the purpose of the Agency required to be accomplished by law or regulation.

(c) The Privacy Act Officer shall, not later than thirty (30) days (excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal public holidays) from the date on which the individual requests such review, complete such review and make a final Agency determination unless, for good cause shown, the Privacy Act Officer extends such thirty (30) day period. The Privacy Act Officer should not extend the time hereunder unless "unusual circumstances" are found to exist.

(d) In the event that the Privacy Act Officer extends the period, he or she shall inform the individual of the extension and notify him or her of the date on which a decision can be expected. If, after his or her review, the Privacy Act Officer also refuses to amend the record in accordance with the request, he or she shall permit the individual to file with the Agency a concise statement setting forth the reasons for his or her disagreement with the refusal of the Agency, and notify the individual of the provisions for judicial review of the Agency determination.

(e) In any subsequent disclosure, containing information about which an individual has filed a statement of disagreement with an Agency refusal to amend a record, the Agency shall clearly note any portion of the record which is disputed and provide copies of the statement of disagreement and, if the Privacy Act Officer deems it appropriate, copies of a concise statement of the reasons of the Agency for not making the Amendments requested, to persons or other agencies to whom the disputed record has been disclosed.

(f) In the event that an individual has filed a statement of disagreement with an Agency refusal to amend a record, the Agency shall clearly note any portion of the record which is disputed and provide copies of the statement of disagreement and, if the Privacy Act Officer deems it appropriate, copies of a concise statement of the reasons of the Agency for not making amendments requested, to prior recipients of the disputed record.

[Rev. 2, Amdt. 1, 40 FR 46280, Oct. 6, 1975, as amended by Amdt. 5, 41 FR 43712, Oct. 4, 1976]

Miscellaneous

§ 102.31 Maintenance of records of SBA.

(a) The Privacy Act Officer shall be responsible to see that the Agency:

(1) Maintains in its records only such information about an individual as is relevant and necessary to accomplish a purpose of the Agency required to be accomplished by statute or by Executive Order of the President;

(2) Collects information to the greatest extent practicable directly from the subject individual when the information may result in adverse determinations about an individual's rights, benefits, and privileges under Federal programs;

(3) Informs each individual whom it asks to supply information, on the form which it uses to collect the information or on a separate form that can be retained by the individual:

(i) The authority (whether granted by statute, or by Executive Order of the President) which authorizes the solicitation of the information and whether disclosure of such information is mandatory or voluntary;

(ii) The principal purpose or purposes for which the information is intended to be used;

(iii) The routine uses which may be made of the information, as published pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a; and

(iv) The effects on him or her, if any, of not providing all or any part of the requested information;

(4) Publishes in the Federal Register at least annually a notice of the existence and character of the system of records, which notice shall include:

(i) The name and location of the system;

(ii) The categories of individuals on whom records are maintained in the system;

(iii) The categories of records maintained in the system;

(iv) Each routine use of the records contained in the system, including the categories of users and the purpose of such use;

(v) The policies and practices of the Agency regarding storage, retrievability, access controls, retention, and disposal of the records;

(vi) The title and business address of the Agency official who is responsible for the system of records;

(vii) The Agency procedures whereby an individual can be notified at his request if the system of records contains a record pertaining to him;

(viii) The Agency procedures whereby an individual can be notified at his request how he or she can gain access to any record pertaining to him or her contained in the system of records, and how he or she can contest its content; and

(ix) The categories of sources of records in the system.

(b) The Privacy Act Officer shall, in addition to his other duties hereunder;

(1) Establish rules of conduct for persons involved in the design, development, operation, or maintenance of any system of records, or in maintaining any record, and instruct each such person with respect to such rules and procedures adopted pursuant to this subpart and the penalties for noncompliance;

(2) Establish appropriate administrative, technical, and physical safeguards to insure the security and confidentiality of records and to protect against any anticipated threats or hazards to their security or integrity which could result in substantial harm, embarrassment, inconvenience, or unfairness to any individual on whom information is maintained; and

(3) At least thirty (30) days prior to publication of information under paragraph (a)(4) of this section publish in the Federal Register notice of any new use or intended use of the information in the system, and provide an opportunity for interested persons to submit written data, views, or arguments to the Agency; and

(4) Maintain all records which are used by the Agency in making any determination about any individual with such accuracy, relevance, timeliness, and completeness as is reasonably necessary to assure fairness to the individual.

(c) The Systems Managers shall be responsible for seeing that their office maintains no record describing how any individual exercises rights guaranteed by the First Amendment unless expressly authorized by statute or by the individual about whom the record is maintained or unless pertinent to and within the scope of an authorized law enforcement activity. The exercise of these rights includes, but is not limited to, religious and political beliefs, freedom of speech and the press, and freedom of assembly and to petition.

§ 102.32 Other provisions.

(a) Personnel Records. All Agency personnel records and files, as prescribed by the Civil Service Commission, shall be maintained in such a way that the privacy of all individuals concerned is protected in accordance with regulations of the Civil Service Commission (5 CFR Parts 293 and 297).

(b) Systems Operated by Contract. In the event that the Agency shall provide by a contract for the operation by or on behalf of the Agency of a system of records to accomplish an Agency function, the Agency shall, consistent with its authority, cause the requirements of this subpart to be applied to such system. Any such contractor and any employee of such contractor, if such contract is agreed to on or after the effective date of this regulation, shall be considered to be an employee of the Agency for the purposes of this regulation.

(c) Mailing List. The Agency will not sell or rent an individual's name or address. This provision shall not be construed to require the withholding of names or addresses otherwise permitted to be made public.

(d) Changes in Systems. The Agency shall provide adequate advance notice to Congress and the Office of Management and Budget of any proposal to establish or alter any system of records in order to permit an evaluation of the probable or potential effect of such proposal on the privacy and other personal or property rights of individuals or the disclosure of information relating to such individuals, and its effect on the preservation of the constitutional principles of federalism and separation of powers.

(e) Social Security Numbers. The Agency shall not, henceforth, require any individual to disclose his or her social security account number and shall not deny to any individual any right, benefit, or privilege provided by law because of his or her refusal to so disclose. Any Agency request for an individual to disclose his or her social security account number shall inform that individual that disclosure is voluntary, by what statutory or other authority such number is solicited, and what uses will be made of it.

(f) Disclosure to Representative. Upon request, personnel records of an employee or former employee, shall be disclosed to the individual to whom the record pertains and under whose individual name and/or identifier they are filed. A person of his or her own choosing may accompany the individual when the record is disclosed, or the record may be released to the individual's representative who has the notarized written consent of the employee or former employee. Any disclosure of original records must be made in the presence of a representative of the Agency having physical custody of the records. (See 5 CFR 297.111 (a)).

(g) Representatives of Minors and Incompetents. For the purpose of Subpart B of this Part 102, the parent of any minor, or the legal guardian of any individual who has been declared to be incompetent due to physical or mental incapacity or age by a court of competent jurisdiction, may act on behalf of the individual.

(h) Medical Records. Medical records shall be disclosed to the individual to whom they pertain unless, in the judgment of the Privacy Act Officer, access to such record could have an adverse effect upon such individual. The Agency may, however, transmit such information to a medical doctor named by the requesting individual. In regard to medical records in personnel files, see also 5 CFR 297.111(a)(1).

§ 102.33 Fees.

(a) The Agency shall charge no fee for providing the first copy of a record or any portion thereof to an individual requesting disclosure of information filed in his or her personnel records. (5 CFR 297.115).

(b) For all other copies of records made pursuant to this regulation, the Agency will not charge for the cost of any search for and review of the record and when the Agency makes a copy of a record as a necessary part of its process of making the record available for review, but may charge for all other reproduction at ten cents per page.

(c) Fees will be waived when less than $5.

§ 102.34 General exemptions.

(a) Systems of records affected. Under the general exemption provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2), the Administrator of SBA is authorized to exempt the following system of records from all provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974 except subsections (b); (c) (1) and (2); (e)(4) (A) through (F); (e) (6), (7), (9), (10), and (11); and (i) of the Act:

SBA Investigation Files—SBA 360, a system of records maintained by the Investigations Division of the Office of Inspector General (OIG), which primarily consists of information compiled for the purpose of criminal investigations conducted by OIG and associated with identifiable individuals.

(b) Scope of exemption. The system of records listed in § 102.34(a) is exempt pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2) to the extent that information in this system consists of:

(1) Information compiled for the purpose of identifying individual criminal offenders and alleged offenders and consisting only of identifying data and notations of arrests, confinement, release, and parole and probation status;

(2) Information compiled for the purpose of criminal investigation, including reports of informants and investigators, and associated with an identifiable individual; or

(3) Reports identifiable to an individual compiled at any stage of the process of enforcement of the criminal laws from arrest or indictment through release from supervision.

(c) Reasons for exemption. Since the Investigations Division of the OIG is a component of SBA which performs as its principal function activities pertaining to the enforcement of criminal laws within the meaning of 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2), the system of records described in § 102.34(a) is exempt for one or more of the following reasons:

(1) To prevent the subjects of OIG investigations from using the Privacy Act to frustrate the investigative process.

(2) To protect the identity of Federal employees who furnish a complaint or information to the OIG, consistent with section 7(b) of the Inspector General Act of 1978, 5 U.S.C. App. I.

(3) To protect the confidentiality of other sources of information.

(4) To avoid endangering confidential sources and law enforcement personnel.

(5) To prevent interference with law enforcement proceedings.

(6) To assure access to sources of confidential information, including that contained in Federal, State and local criminal law enforcement information systems.

(7) To prevent the disclosure of investigative techniques.

(8) To prevent the disclosure of classified information.

[49 FR 29944, July 25, 1984; as amended at 49 FR 31660, Aug. 8, 1984]

§ 180.36 Specific exemptions.

(a)Systems of records subject to investigatory material exemption under 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(2), or 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(5), or both–(1)Audit Reports–SBA 025, a system containing investigations concerning the use of funds by recipients of disaster home loans;

(2)Litigation and Claims File–SBA 220, a system containing information concerning recipients of disaster home loans and other individuals who are parties to lawsuits or claims involving SBA;

(3)Personnel Security Files–SBA 315, a system containing background information on active and inactive SBA employees;

(4)Security and Investigations Files–SBA 360, a system which contains information on individuals seeking or receiving SBA assistance, individuals involved in businesses or receiving such assistnce, representatives of applicants for SBA assistance, members of advisory councils, and SCORE/ACE volunteers;

(5)Security and Investigation Referrals–SBA 365. a system containing information relating to referrals for investigation of possible misconduct by SBA employees, and individuals involved in seeking or obtaining SBA assistance; and

(6)Standards of Conduct Files–SBA 380, a system containing information concerning outside employment and financial interests of SBA employees, conduct of SBA employees, and related matters.

(b)*Privacy Act provisions from which exempt.*The systems of records described in this section are exempt from subsections (c)(3) (Accounting of Certain Disclosures), (d)(Access to Records), (e)(1), 4G, H, and I (Agency Requirements), and (f) (Agency Rules) of 5 U.S.C. 552a.

(c)Reasons for exemptions. The systems of records described in this section are exempt for one or more of the following reasons:

(1) To prevent the subject of investigations from frustrating the investigatory process.

(2) To protect investigatory material compiled for law enforcement purposes.

(3) To fulfill commitments made to protect the confidentiality of sources and to maintain access to necessary sources of information.

(4) To prevent interference with law enforcement proceedings.

[41 FR 43712, Oct. 4, 1976]

§ 102.36 Judicial review.

Any individual may bring a civil action against the Agency in a district court of the United States as provided by 5 U.S.C. 552a(g)(1) whenever the Small Business Administration:

(a) Makes a final determination under § 102.30 not to amend an individual's record in accordance with his or her request, or fails to make such review in conformity with that section;

(b) Makes a final determination under § 102.27 to refuse a request to gain access to a record;

(c) Fails to maintain any record concerning any individual with such accuracy, relevance, timeliness, and completeness as is necessary to assure fairness in any determination relating to the qualifications, character, rights, or opportunities of, or benefits to the individual that may be made on the basis of such record, and consequently a determination is made which is adverse to the individual; or

(d) Fails to comply under any other provision of 5 U.S.C. 552a or any Agency rule or regulation promulgated thereunder, in such a way as to have an adverse effect on an individual.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Records are maintained on automated data storage devices, microfiche, and in file folders.

Retrievability:

Records are indexed by name, craft, job code, union code, and social security number.

Safeguards:

Access to and use of these records are limited to persons whose official duties require such access. Files are kept in secured facilities.

Retention and disposal:

Records are maintained from two to five years in accordance with established TVA record retention schedules and are then transferred to the Federal Records Center.

System manager(s) and address:

Director of Labor Relations, Tennessee Valley Authority, Knoxville, Tennessee 37902.

Notification procedure:

Individuals seeking to learn if information on them is maintained in this system of records should address inquiries to the system manager named above. Requests should include the individual's full name, craft, and location of employment.

Record access procedures:

Individuals seeking access to information about them in this system of records should contact the system manager named above. Access will not be granted to investigatory material compiled solely for the purpose of determining suitability, eligibility, or qualifications for Federal civilian employment, Federal contracts, or access to classified information to the extent that the disclosure of such material would reveal the identity of a source who furnished information to the Government under an express promise that the identity of the source would be held in confidence or, prior to September 27, 1975, under an implied promise that the identity of the source would be held in confidence. Access will not be granted to testing or examination material used solely to determine individual qualification for appointment or promotion in the Federal service, the disclosure of which would compromise the objectivity or fairness of the testing or examination process.

Contesting record procedures:

Individuals desiring to contest or amend information about them maintained in this system should direct their request to the system manager named above.

Record source categories:

Individual to whom the record pertains; General Aptitude Test Battery scores from State employment security office; references from employers and military and educational institutions; and evaluations from joint committee on apprenticeship.

Subpart B—Privacy Act

Authority: Sec. 3, Pub. L. 93–579, 88 Stat. 1897 (5 U.S.C. 552a).

Source: 40 FR 45313, Oct. 1, 1975, unless otherwise noted. Redesignated at 44 FR 30682, May 29, 1979.

§ 1301.11 Purpose and scope.

(a) The regulations in §§ 1301.11 to 1301.24 implement section 3 of the Privacy Act of 1974, 5 U.S.C. 552a, with respect to systems of records maintained by TVA. They provide procedures by which an individual may exercise the rights granted by the Act to determine whether a TVA system contains a record pertaining to him; to gain access to such records; to have a copy made of all or any portion thereof; and to request administrative correction or amendment of such records. They prescribe fees to be charged for copying records; establish identification requirements; list penalties provided by statute for certain violations of the Act; and establish exemptions from certain requirements of the Act for certain TVA systems or components thereof.

(b) Nothing in §§ 1301.11 to 1301.24 entitles an individual to any access to any information or record compiled in reasonable anticipation of a civil action or proceeding.

(c) Certain records of which TVA may have physical possession are the official records of another government agency which exercises dominion and control over the records, their content, and access thereto. In such cases, TVA's maintenance of the records is subject to the direction of the other government agency. Except for a request for a determination of the existence of the record, when TVA receives requests related to these records, TVA will immediately refer the request to the controlling agency for all decisions regarding the request, and will notify the individual making the request of the referral.

§ 1301.12 Definitions.

(e) The term "appellant" means an individual who has filed an appeal pursuant to § 1301.19(a) from an initial determination refusing to amend a record on request of the individual;

(f) The term "reviewing official" means TVA's Vice President, Human Resources, or another TVA official designated by the Vice President in writing to decide an appeal pursuant to § 1301.19;

(g) The term "day," when used in computing a time period, excludes Saturdays, Sundays, and legal public holidays.

[40 FR 45313, Oct. 1, 1975. Redesignated at 44 FR 30682, May 29, 1979, and amended at 53 FR 30252, Aug. 11, 1988]

§ 1301.13 Procedures for requests pertaining to individual records in a record system.

(a) An individual may, in accordance with this section (1) request a TVA determination whether a record retrieved by the individual's name or other personal identifier is maintained in a TVA system, and (2) request access to such a record. A request for determination may be combined with a request for access.

(b) Requests under this section shall:

(1) Be in writing and signed by the individual seeking the determination or access;

(2) Include the individual's mailing address;

(3) Name the TVA system as listed in the TVA system notice;

(4) Include any additional identifying information specified in the paragraph headed "Notification procedure" in the applicable TVA system notice;

(5) Specify whether the request is for determination only or for both determination and access; and

(6) Include such proof of identity as may be required by § 1301.14 and the applicable system notice.

Requests may be presented in person or by mail. In-person requests shall be presented during normal TVA business hours, as set out in § 1301.14(g).

(c) Requests for determination only shall be presented to the official designated in the paragraph headed "Notification procedure" in the TVA system notice for the TVA system concerned. Requests for both determination and access shall be presented to the official designated in the paragraph headed "Access procedure" in the TVA system notice for the TVA system concerned. Certain TVA system notices designate officials at field locations of TVA systems. With respect to such TVA systems, an individual who believes his record is located at the field location may present a request to the designated official at the field location. If the record is not available at that field location, the request will be forwarded to the appropriate TVA office.

(d) If a request is for determination only, the determination will normally be made within 10 days after receipt of the request. If the determination cannot be made within 10 days after receipt of a request, the designated official will acknowledge the request in writing and state when the determination will be made. Upon making a determination, the designated official will notify the individual making the request whether the record exists. The notice will include any additional information necessary to enable the individual to request access to the record.

(e) A request which includes a request for access will be acknowledged within 10 days after receipt. If access can be granted as requested, the acknowledgment will provide a time and place for disclosure of the requested record. Disclosure will normally be made within 30 days of the date of the acknowledgement, but the designated official may extend the 30-day period for reasons found by him to be good cause. In case of an extension, TVA will notify the individual, in writing, that disclosure will be delayed, the reasons for delay, and the anticipated date on which the individual may expect the record to be disclosed. TVA will attempt to accommodate reasonable requests for disclosure at specified times and dates, as set forth in a request for access, so far as compatible with the conduct of TVA business.

§ 1301.14 Times, places, and requirements for identification of individuals making requests.

(a) TVA will require proof of identity, in accordance with this section, before it will disclose a record under § 1301.15 of this part to an individual requesting access to the record, and before it will disclose the existence of a record to a requester under § 1301.13 of this part, if TVA determines that disclosure of the existence of such record would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

(b) Identification normally required would be an identification card such as a valid state driver's license or TVA or other employee identification card. A comparison of the signature of the requester with either the signature on the card or a signature in the record may be used to confirm identity.

(c) Because of the sensitivity of the subject matter in a TVA system, a TVA system notice may prescribe special identification requirements for the disclosure of the existence of or access to records in that TVA system. In such case, the special identification requirements prescribed in the TVA system notice shall apply in lieu of those prescribed by paragraph (b) of this section.

(d) If TVA deems it warranted by the nature of identification presented, the subject matter of the material to be disclosed, or other reasons found by TVA to be sufficient, TVA may require the individual requesting access to sign a statement asserting identity and stating that the individual understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine of up to $5,000.

(e) Where TVA is requested to provide access to records by mailing copies of records to the requester, the request shall contain or be accompanied by adequate identifying information to make it likely the requester is the person he purports to be and a notarized statement asserting identity and stating that the individual understands that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses is punishable by a fine of up to $5,000.

(f) Where sensitivity of record information may warrant (i.e., unauthorized access could cause harm or embarrassment to the individual) or disclosure by mail to third persons is requested, TVA may require in-person confirmation of identity. If in-person confirmation of identity is required, the individual may arrange with the designated TVA official to provide such identification at any of these TVA locations convenient to the individual: Knoxville, Nashville, and Chattanooga, Tennessee; Muscle Shoals, Alabama; Washington, D.C., or another location agreed upon by the individual and the designated TVA official. Upon request the TVA official will provide an address and an appropriate time for such identification to be presented.

(g) In general, TVA offices located in the eastern time zone are open 8 a.m. to 4:45 p.m., and those in the central time zone 7:30 a.m. to 4:15 p.m. Construction project offices and Land Between The Lakes are generally open 7 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Offices are closed on Saturdays, Sundays, and the following holidays: New Year's Day, Birthday of Martin Luther King, Jr., Washington's Birthday, Memorial Day, Independence Day, Labor Day, Columbus Day, Veterans Day, Thanksgiving Day, and Christmas Day.

§ 1301.15 Disclosure of requested information to individuals.

(a) All disclosure and examination of records shall normally be made in the presence of a TVA representative. If an individual wishes to be accompanied by a third person of the individual's choosing when the record is disclosed, TVA may require the individual to furnish TVA, in advance of disclosure of the record, a statement signed by the individual authorizing discussion and disclosure of the record in the presence of the accompanying person. If desired by the individual, TVA shall provide copies of any documents reviewed in the record which are requested at the time of review. Fees shall be charged for such copies in accordance with the fee schedule in § 1301.21, and shall be payable prior to delivery of the copies to the individual.

(b) Where permitted by § 1301.14, copies of an individual's record will be made available by mail. A charge for copies will be made in accordance with § 1301.21 of this part. All fees due shall be paid prior to mailing of the materials. However, if TVA is unable to allow in-person review of the record, the first copy will be made available without charge.

§ 1301.16 Special procedures—Medical records.

If, in the judgment of TVA, the transmission of medical records, including psychological records, directly to a requesting individual could have an adverse effect upon such individual, TVA may refuse to disclose such information directly to the individual. TVA will, however, disclose this information to a licensed physician designated by the individual in writing.

§ 1301.17 Requests for correction or amendment of record.

(a) An individual may request amendment of records pertaining to him in a TVA system to the extent permitted by the Act in accordance with this section. A request for amendment shall:

(1) Be in writing and signed by the individual seeking the amendment;

(2) Name the TVA system in which the record is maintained;

(3) Describe the item or items of information to be amended;

(4) Describe the nature of the amendment requested; and

(5) Give the reasons for the requested change.

(b) Requests shall be made to the official designated in the paragraph headed "Contesting record procedures" in the TVA system notice for the TVA system concerned. Before considering a request, TVA may require proof of identity of the requester similar to that required under § 1301.14 to gain access to the record.

(c) The individual requesting amendment has the responsibility of providing TVA with evidence of why his record should be amended, and must provide adequate evidence to TVA to justify his request.

(d) The provisions of §§ 1301.11 to 1301.24 of this part do not permit the alteration of evidence presented or to be presented in the course of judicial or administrative proceedings; neither do they permit collateral attack on a prior judicial or administrative action, or provide a collateral remedy for a matter otherwise judicially or administratively cognizable.

[40 FR 45313, Oct. 1, 1975. Redesignated at 44 FR 30682, May 29, 1979, and amended at 53 FR 30253, Aug. 11, 1988]

§ 1301.18 TVA review of request for correction or amendment of record.

(a) TVA will acknowledge a request for amendment within 10 days of receipt. The acknowledgement will be in writing, will request any additional information TVA requires to determine whether to make the requested correction or amendment, and will indicate the date by which TVA expects to make its initial determination.

(b) TVA will, except in unusual circumstances, complete its consideration of requests to amend records within 30 days. If more time is deemed necessary, TVA will notify the individual of the delay and of the expected date of completion of the review.

(c) If TVA determines that a record should be corrected or amended, in whole or in part, in accordance with a request, it will advise the requesting individual in writing of its determination, and correct or amend the record accordingly. If an accounting of disclosures has been made, TVA will, to the extent of the accounting, inform prior recipients of the record of the fact that the correction was made and the substance of the correction.

(d) If TVA, after initial consideration of a request, determines that a record should not be corrected or amended, in whole or in part, in accordance with a request, it will notify the individual in writing of its refusal to amend the record and the reasons therefor. The notification will inform the individual that the refusal may be appealed administratively and will advise the individual of the procedures for such appeals.

§ 1301.19 Appeals on initial adverse agency determination on correction or amendment.

(a) An individual may appeal an initial determination refusing to amend that individual's record in accordance with this section. An appeal must be taken within 20 days of receipt of notice of TVA's initial refusal to amend the record and is taken by delivering a written notice of appeal to the Vice President, Human Resources, Tennessee Valley Authority, Knoxville, Tennessee 37902. Such notice shall be signed by the appellant and shall state:

(1) That it is an appeal from a denial of a request to amend the individual's records under these regulations and under the Privacy Act of 1974;

(2) The reasons why the appellant believes the denial to have been erroneous;

(3) The date on which the denial was issued; and

(4) The date on which the denial was received by the appellant.

(b) Appeals shall be determined by a reviewing official. Such determination may be based on information provided for the initial determination; any additional information which TVA or the appellant may desire to provide; and any other material the reviewing official deems relevant to the determination. The reviewing official, in his sole discretion, may request TVA or the appellant to provide additional information deemed relevant to the appeal. The appellant will be given an opportunity to respond to any information provided by TVA or independently procured by the reviewing official. If in the sole discretion of the reviewing official a hearing is deemed necessary for resolution of the appeal, the reviewing official may conduct a hearing upon notice to TVA and the appellant, at which both TVA and the appellant shall be afforded an opportunity to be heard on the appeal. The rules governing any hearing will be set forth in the notice of hearing.

(c) The reviewing official shall make final determination on the appeal within 30 days after it is received unless such period is extended for good cause. If the reviewing official finds good cause for an extension, TVA will inform the appellant in writing of the reason for the delay and of the approximate date on which the reviewing official expects to complete his determination of the appeal.

(d) If the reviewing official determines that a record should be amended in whole or in part in accordance with an appellant's request, TVA will inform the appellant in writing of its determination and correct or amend the record. If an accounting of disclosures has been made, TVA will, to the extent of the accounting, inform prior recipients of the record of the fact that the correction was made and of the substance of the correction.

(e) If the reviewing official determines not to amend a record, in whole or in part, in accordance with a request, TVA will advise the individual:

(1) Of its refusal to amend and the reasons therefor;

(2) Of the appellant's right to file a concise statement of reasons for disagreement with the refusal as set out in paragraph (f) of this section;

(3) Of the procedures for filing a statement of disagreement;

(4) That any statement of disagreement will be made available to anyone to whom the record is subsequently disclosed together with any statement by TVA summarizing its reasons for refusing to amend the record;

(5) That prior recipients of the disputed record will be provided a copy of any statement of dispute to the extent that an accounting of disclosures was maintained; and

(6) Of his or her right to seek judicial review of the agency's refusal to amend a record.

(f) If the reviewing official's final determination of an appeal is a refusal to correct or amend a record, in whole or in part, in accordance with the request, the appellant may file with TVA a concise statement setting forth the reasons for his or her disagreement with the refusal of TVA to amend the records. Such statements normally should not exceed 100 words. A statement of disagreement should be submitted within 30 days of receipt of notice of the reviewing official's decision on the appeal, and should be sent to system manager. In any disclosure containing information about which the individual has filed a statement of disagreement which occurs after the filing of the statement, TVA will clearly note any portion of the record which is disputed and provide copies of the statement with the disclosure. Copies of the statement will also be furnished to persons or other agencies to whom the record has been disclosed to the extent that an accounting of disclosures was made. TVA may attach to the statement of disagreement a brief summary of TVA's reasons for refusing to amend the record. Such summaries will be disclosed to the individual, but are not subject to amendment.

[40 FR 45313, Oct. 1, 1975. Redesignated at 44 FR 30682, May 29, 1979, and amended at 53 FR 30253, Aug. 11, 1988]

§ 1301.20 Disclosure of record to persons other than individual to whom it pertains.

For purposes of § 1301.11 to § 1301.24, the parent of any minor or the legal guardian of any individual who has been declared incompetent due to physical or mental incapacity or age by a court of competent jurisdiction may act on behalf of the individual. TVA may require proof of the relationship prior to allowing such action. The parent or legal guardian may not act where the individual concerned objects to the action of the parent or legal guardian, unless a court otherwise orders.

§ 1301.21 Fees.

(a) Fees to be charged, if any, to any individual for making copies of his or her record exclude the cost of any search and review of the record. The following fees are applicable:

(1) For reproduction of material consisting of sheets no larger than 8½ by 14 inches, ten cents per page; and

(2) For reproduction of other materials, the direct cost of photostats or other means necessarily used for duplication.

§ 1301.22 Penalties.

Section 552a(i), title 5, United States Code provides that:

> (1) Criminal Penalties.—Any officer or employee of an agency, who by virtue of his employment or official position, has possession of, or access to, agency records which contain individually identifiable information the disclosure of which is prohibited by this section or by rules or regulations established thereunder, and who knowing that disclosure of the specific material is so prohibited, willfully discloses the material in any manner to any person or agency not entitled to receive it, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not more than $5,000.
> (2) Any officer or employee of any agency who willfully maintains a system of records without meeting the notice requirements of paragraph (e)(4) of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not more than $5,000.
> (3) Any person who knowingly and willfully requests or obtains any record concerning an individual from an agency under false pretenses shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not more than $5,000.

§ 1301.23 General exemptions.

(a) Individuals may not have access to records maintained by TVA but which were provided by another agency which has determined by regulation that such information is subject to general exemption under 5 U.S.C. 552a(j). If such exempt records are within a request for access, TVA will advise the individual of their existence and of the name and address of the source agency. For any further information concerning the record and the exemption, the individual must contact that source agency.

(b) The TVA system "Land Between The Lakes Register of Law Violations—TVA" is exempted from subsections (c)(3), (4); (d); (e)(1), (2), (3), (4)(G), (4)(H), (4) (I), (5); (f); (g); and (h) of 5 U.S.C. 552a and corresponding sections of these rules pursuant to section (j)(2) of 5 U.S.C. 552a (section 3 of the Privacy Act). Application of these provisions of the Privacy Act to the criminal law enforcement records in this system might interfere with effective law enforcement at the Land Between The Lakes.

[40 FR 45313, Oct. 1, 1975. Redesignated at 44 FR 30682, May 29, 1979, and amended at 53 FR 30253, Aug. 11, 1988]

§ 1301.24 Specific exemptions.

(a) The TVA system "Employee Alleged Misconduct Investigatory Files—TVA" is exempted from subsections (c)(3); (d); (e)(1), (4)(G), (4)(H), (4)(I); and (f) of 5 U.S.C. 552a and corresponding sections of these rules pursuant to section (k)(2) of 5 U.S.C. 552a (section 3 of the Privacy Act). This TVA system is exempted because applications of these provisions to this system might impair investigations of employee misconduct.

(b)(1) The TVA systems "Apprentice Training Record System-TVA", "Consultant and Personal Service Contractor Records-TVA", "Cooperative Training Program for Construction Craftsmen-TVA"," Employment Applicant File-TVA","Personnel Files-TVA","Quality Assurance Personnel Records-TVA" are exempted from subsections (d); (e)(4)(H); (f)(2), (3) and (4) of 5 U.S.C. 552a and corresponding sections of these rules to the extent that disclosure of material would reveal the identity of a source who furnished information to the Government under an express promise that the identity of the source would be held in confidence, or prior to September 27, 1975, under an implied promise that the identity of the source would be held in confidence. These TVA systems are exempted pursuant to section (k)(5) of 5 U.S.C. 552a (section 3 of the Privacy Act).

(2) Each of these TVA systems contain reference letters and information concerning employees and other individuals who perform services for TVA. TVA has received this information in the past under both express and implied promises of confidentiality and consistent with the Privacy Act these promises will be honored. Pledges of confidentiality will be necessary in the future to ensure that unqualified or unsuitable individuals are not selected for TVA positions. Without the ability to make these promises, a potential source of information may be unwilling to provide needed information, or may not be sufficiently frank to be of value in personnel screening.

(c)(1) The TVA systems "Apprentice Training Record System-TVA","Consultant and Personal Service Contractor Records-TVA", "Cooperative Training Program for Construction Craftsmen-TVA", "Employment Applicant File-TVA", and "Personnel Files-TVA" are exempted from subsections (d); (e)(4)(H); (f)(2), (3), and (4) of 5 U.S.C. 552a and corresponding sections of these rules to the extent that disclosure of testing or examination material used solely to determine individual qualifications for appointment or promotion in the federal service would compromise the objectivity or fairness of the testing or examination process. These systems are exempted pursuant to section (k)(6) of 5 U.S.C. 552a (section 3 of the Privacy Act).

(2) This material is exempted because its disclosure would reveal information about the testing process which would potentially give an individual an unfair competitive advantage in selection based on test performance.

(d) The TVA system OIG Investigative Records is exempt from subsections (c)(3), (d), (e)(1), (e)(4)(G), (H), and (I) and (f) of 5 U.S.C. 552a (sections 3 of the Privacy Act) and corresponding sections of these rules pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(2). This system is exempted because application of these provisions might alert investigation subjects to the existence or scope of investigations, disclose investigative techniques or procedures, reduce the cooperativeness of witnesses, or otherwise impair investigations.

§ 2005.0 Purpose and scope.

The purpose of these regulations is to provide certain safeguards for an individual against the invasion of his or her personal privacy by the Office of the Special Representative for Trade Negotiations (hereinafter frequently referred to as "STR"). These regulations are promulgated pursuant to the requirements for all Federal Agencies contained in 5 U.S.C. 552a(f).

§ 2005.1 Rules for determining if an individual is the subject of a record.

(a) Individuals desiring to know if a specific system of records maintained by STR contains a record pertaining to them should address their inquiries to the Administrative Officer, Office of the Special Representative for Trade Negotiations, Washington, D.C. 20506. The written inquiry should contain a specific reference to the system of records maintained by the STR listed in the STR Notice of Systems of Records or it should describe the type of record in sufficient detail to reasonably identify the system of records. Notice of STR systems of records subject to the Privacy Act will be published in the Federal Register and copies of the notices will be available upon request to the Administrative Officer when so published. A compilation of such notices will also be made and published by the Office of Federal Register, in accordance with section 5 U.S.C. 552a(f).

(b) At a minimum, the request should also contain sufficient identifying information to allow STR to determine if there is a record pertaining to the individual making the request in a particular system of records. In instances when the identification is insufficient to insure disclosure to the individual to whom the information pertains in view of the sensitivity of the information, STR reserves the right to solicit from the person requesting access to a record additional identifying information.

(c) Ordinarily the person requesting will be informed whether the named system of records contains a record pertaining to such person within 10 days of such a request (excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal Federal holidays). Such a response will also contain or reference the procedures which must be followed by the individual making the request in order to gain access to the record.

(d) Whenever a response cannot be made within the 10 days, the Administrative Officer will inform the person making the request the reasons for the delay and the date of which a response may be anticipated.

§ 2005.2 Requests for access.

(a) Requirement for written requests. Individuals desiring to gain access to a record pertaining to them in a system of records maintained by STR must submit their request in writing in accordance with the procedures set forth in paragraph (b) of this section. Individuals who are employed by the STR may make their request on a regularly scheduled workday (Monday through Friday, excluding legal Federal holidays) between the hours of 9 am and 5:30 pm. Such requests for access by individuals employed by STR need not be made in writing.

(b) Procedures—(1) Content of the request. The request for access to a record in a system of records shall be addressed to the Administrative Officer at the address cited above, and shall name the system of records or contain a description (as concise as possible) of such system of records. The request should state that the request is pursuant to the Privacy Act of 1974. In the absence of such a statement, if the request is for a record pertaining to the person requesting access which is maintained by STR in a system of records, the request will be presumed to be made under the Privacy Act of 1974. The request should contain necessary information to verify the identity of the person requesting access (see paragraph (b)(2)(vi) of this section). In addition, such person should include any other information which may assist in the rapid identification of the record for which access is being requested (e.g. maiden name, dates of employment, etc.) as well as any other identifying information contained in and required by the STR Notice of Systems of Records.

(i) If the request for access follows a prior request under § 2005.1, the same identifying information need not be included in the request for access if a reference is made to that prior correspondence or a copy of the STR response to that request is attached. If the individual specifically desires a copy of the record, the request should so specify under § 2005.4.

(2) STR action on request. A request for access will ordinarily be answered within 10 days, except when the Administrative Officer determines otherwise, in which case the person making the request will be informed of the reasons for the delay and an estimated date by which the request will be answered. When the request can be answered within 10 days, it shall include the following:

(i) A statement that there is a record as request or a statement that there is not a record in the systems of records maintained by STR;

(ii) A statement as to whether access will be granted only by providing a copy of the record through the mail; or the address of the location and the date and time at which the record may be examined. In the event the person requesting access is unable to meet the specified date and time, alternative arrangements may be made with the official specified in paragraph (b)(1) of this section.

(iii) A statement, when appropriate, that examination in person will be the sole means of granting access only when the Administrative Officer has determined that it would not unduly impede the right of access of the person making the request.

(iv) The amount of fees charged, if any (see §§ 2005.6 and 2005.7). (Fees are applicable only to requests for copies);

(v) The name, title, and telephone number of the STR official having operational control over the record; and

(vi) The documentation required by STR to verify the identity of the person making the request. At a minimum, STR verification standards include the following:

(A) Current or former STR Employees. Current or former STR employees requesting access to a record pertaining to them in a system of records maintained by STR may, in addition to the other requirements of this section, and at the sole discretion of the official having operational control over the record, have his or her identity verified by visual observation. If the current or former STR employee cannot be so identified by the official having operational control over the records, identification documentation will be required. Employee identification cards, annuitant identification, driver licenses, or the "employee copy" of any official personnel document in the record are examples of acceptable identification validation.

(B) Other than current or former STR employees. Individuals other than current or former STR employees requesting access to a record pertaining to them in a system of records maintained by STR must produce identification documentation of the type described in paragraph (b)(2)(vi)(A) of this section, prior to being granted access. The extent of the identification documentation required will depend on the type of record for which access is requested. In most cases, identification verification will be accomplished by the presentation of two forms of identification. Any additional requirements will be specified in the system notices published pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(4).

(C) Access granted by mail. For records to be made accessible by mail, the Administrative Officer shall, to the extent possible, establish identity by a comparison of signatures in situations where the data in the record is not so sensitive that unauthorized access could cause harm or embarrassment to the individual to whom they pertain. No identification documentation will be required for the disclosure to the person making the request of information required to be made available to the public by 5 U.S.C. 552. When, in the opinion of the Administrative Officer the granting of access through the mail could reasonably be expected to result in harm or embarrassment if disclosed to a person other than the individual to whom the record pertains, a notarized statement of identity or some similar assurance of identity will be required.

(D) Unavailability of identification documentation. If an individual is unable to produce adequate identification documentation the individual will be required to sign a statement asserting identity and acknowledging that knowingly or willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another person under false pretenses may result in a fine of up to $5,000. In addition, depending upon the sensitivity of the records to which access is sought, the official having operational control over the records may require such further reasonable assurances as may be considered appropriate; e.g., statements of other individuals who can attest to the identity of the person making the request.

(E) Access by the parent of a minor, or by a legal guardian. A parent of a minor, upon presenting suitable personal identification, may act on behalf of the minor to gain access to any record pertaining to the minor maintained by STR in a system of records. A legal guardian may similarly act on behalf of an individual declared to be incompetent due to physical or mental incapacity or age by a court of competent jurisdiction, upon the presentation of the documents authorizing the legal guardian to so act, and upon suitable personal identification of the guardian.

(F) Granting access when accompanied by another individual. When an individual requesting access to his or her record in a system of records maintained by STR wishes to be accompanied by another individual during the course of the examination of the record, the individual making the request shall submit to the official having operational control of the record, a signed statement authorizing that person access to the record.

(G) Denial of access for inadequate identification documentation. If the official having operation control over the records in a system of records maintained by STR determines that an individual seeking access has not provided sufficient identification documentation to permit access, the official shall consult with the Administrative officer prior to finally denying the individual access.

(vii) Medical records. The records in a system of records which are medical records shall be disclosed to the individual to whom they pertain in such manner and following such procedures as the Administrative Officer shall direct. When STR in consultation with a physician, determines that the disclosure of medical information could have an adverse effect upon the individual to whom it pertains, STR may transmit such information to a physician named by the individual.

(viii) Exceptions. Nothing in this section shall be construed to entitle an individual the right to access to any information compiled in reasonable anticipation of a civil action or proceedings.

§ 2005.3 Access to the accounting of disclosures from records.

Rules governing the granting of access to the accounting of disclosures are the same as those for granting access to the records (including verification of identity) outlined in § 2005.2.

§ 2005.4 Requests for copies of records.

Rules governing requests for copies of records are the same as those for the granting of access to the records (including verification of identity) outlined in § 2005.2. (See also § 2005.7 for rules regarding fees.)

§ 2005.5 Requests to amend records.

(a) Requirement for written requests. Individuals desiring to amend a record that pertains to them in a system of records maintained by STR must submit their request in writing in accordance with the procedures set forth herein unless this requirement is waived by the official having responsibility for the system of records. Records not subject to the Privacy Act of 1974 will not be amended in accordance with these provisions. However, individuals who believe that such records are inaccurate may bring this to the attention of STR.

(b) Procedures. (1) (i) The request to amend a record in a system of records shall be addressed to the Administrative Officer. Included in the request shall be the name of the system and a brief description of the record proposed for amendment. In the event the request to amend the record is the result of the individual's having gained access to the record in accordance with the provisions concerning access to records as set forth above, copies of previous correspondence between the individual and STR will serve in lieu of a separate description of the record.

(ii) When the individual's identity has been previously verified pursuant to § 2005.2(b)(2)(vi) herein, further verification of identity is not required as long as the communication does not suggest that a need for verification has reappeared. If the individual's identity has not been previously verified, STR may require identification validation as described in § 2005.2(b)(2)(vi). Individuals desiring assistance in the preparation of a request to amend a record should contact the Administrative Officer at the address cited above.

(iii) The exact portion of the record the individual seeks to have amended should be clearly indicated. If possible, the proposed alternative language should also be set forth, or at a minimum, the facts which the individual believes are not accurate, relevant, timely, or complete should be set forth with such particularity as to permit STR not only to understand the individual's basis for the request, but also to make an appropriate amendment to the record.

(iv) The request must also set forth the reasons why the individual believes his record is not accurate, relevant, timely, or complete. In order to avoid the retention by STR of personal information merely to permit verification of records, the burden of persuading STR to amend a record will be upon the individual. The individual must furnish sufficient facts to persuade the official in charge of the system of the inaccuracy, irrelevancy, untimeliness, or incompleteness of the record.

(2) STR action on the request. To the extent possible, a decision upon a request to amend a record will be made within 10 days, excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal Federal holidays. In the event a decision cannot be made within this time frame, the individual making the request will be informed within 10 days of the expected date for a decision. The decision upon a request for amendment will include the following:

(i) The decision of the STR whether to grant in whole, or deny any part of the request to amend the record.

(ii) The reasons for the determination for any portion of the request which is denied.

(iii) The name and address of the official with whom an appeal of the denial may be lodged.

(iv) The name and address of the official designated to assist, as necessary, and upon request of, the individual making the request in the preparation of the appeal.

(v) A description of the review of the appeal within STR (see § 2005.6).

(vi) A description of any other procedures which may be required of the individual in order to process the appeal.

§ 2005.6 Request for review.

(a) Individuals wishing to request a review of the decision by STR with regard to an initial request to amend a record in accordance with the provisions of § 2005.5, should submit the request for review in writing and, to the extent possible, include the information specified in § 2005.5(a). Individuals desiring assistance in the preparation of their request for review should contact the Administrative Officer at the address provided herein.

(b) The request for review should contain a brief description of the record involved or in lieu thereof, copies of the correspondence from STR in which the request to amend was denied and also the reasons why the individual believes that the disputed information should be amended. The request for review should make reference to the information furnished by the individual in support of his claim and the reasons, as required by § 2005.5, set forth by STR in its decision denying the amendment. Appeals filed without a complete statement by the person making the request setting forth the reasons for the review will, of course, be processed. However, in order to make the appellate process as meaningful as possible, such person's disagreement should be understandably set forth. In order to avoid the unnecessary retention of personal information, STR reserves the right to dispose of the material concerning the request to amend a record if no request for review in accordance with this section is received by STR within 180 days of the mailing by STR of its decision upon an initial request. A request for review received after the 180 day period may, at the discretion of the Administrative Officer, be treated as an initial request to amend a record.

(c) The request for review should be addressed to the Freedom of Information Appeals Committee (established in 15 CFR 2004.7) Office of the Special Representative for Trade Negotiations, Room 719, 1800 G St. NW., Washington, D.C. 20506.

(d) Final determinations on requests for reviews within STR will be made by the Freedom of Information Appeals Committee, chaired by the Special Representative for Trade Negotiations. Additional information may be requested by the Committee from the person requesting a review if necessary to make a determination.

(e) The FOI Appeals Committee will inform the person making the request in writing of the decision on the request for review within 30 days (excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal Federal holidays) from the date of receipt by STR of the individual's request for review, unless the Committee extends the 30 day period for good cause. The extension and the reasons therefor will be sent by STR to the individual within the initial 30 day period. Included in the notice of a decision being reviewed, if the decision does not grant in full the request for review, will be a description of the steps the individual may take to obtain judicial review of such a decision, and a statement that the individual may file a concise statement with STR setting forth the individual's reasons for his disagreement with the decision upon the request for review. The STR Administrative Officer has the authority to determine the "conciseness" of the statement, taking into account the scope of the disagreement and the complexity of the issues. Upon the filing of a proper concise statement by the individual, any subsequent disclosure of the information in dispute will have the information in dispute clearly noted and a copy of the concise statement furnished, setting forth its reasons for not making the requested changes, if STR chooses to file such a statement. A copy of the individual's statement, and if it chooses, STR's statement, will be sent to any prior transferee of the disputed information who is listed on the accounting required by 5 U.S.C. 552a(c).

§ 2005.7 Schedule of fees.

(a) Prohibitions against charging fees. Individuals will not be charged for:

(1) The search and review of the record;

(2) Any copies of the record produced as a necessary part of the process of making the record available for access; or

(3) Any copies of the requested record when it has been determined that access can only be accomplished by providing a copy of the record through the mail.

(b) Waiver. The Administrative Officer may, at no charge, provide copies of a record if it is determined the production of the copies is in the interest of the Government.

(c) Fee schedule and method of payment. Fees will be charged as provided below except as provided in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section.

(1) Duplication of records. Records will be duplicated at a rate of $.10 per page for all copying of 4 pages or more. There is no charge for duplicating 3 or fewer pages.

(2) Where it is anticipated that the fees chargeable under this section will amount to more than $25, the person making the request shall be promptly notified of the amount of the anticipated fee or such portion thereof as can readily be estimated. In instances where the estimated fees will greatly exceed $25, an advance deposit may be required. The notice or request for an advance deposit shall extend an offer to the person requesting to consult with the Administrative Officer in order to reformulate the request in a manner which will reduce the fees, yet still meet the needs of individuals making the request.

(3) Fees must be paid in full prior to issuance of requested copies. In the event the person requesting is in arrears for previous requests copies will not be provided for any subsequent request until the arrears have been paid in full.

(4) Remittances shall be in the form either of a personal check or bank draft drawn on a bank in the United States, or a postal money order. Remittances shall be made payable to the order of the Treasury of the United States and mailed or delivered to the Administrative Officer, Office of the Special Representative for Trade Negotiations, 1800 G St., NW., Washington, D.C., 20506.

(5) A receipt for fees paid will be given upon request.

USICA—1

System name: Americans Residing in Foreign Countries—USICA.

System location: The International Communication Agency maintains establishments overseas in 120 foreign countries, which are designated as mission posts, branch posts, regional service centers, VOA relay stations and media extensions. A current listing of names and addresses of overseas establishments is not considered practical for Privacy Act purposes, due to the fact that such a list would require frequent amendment. Changing of office locations, opening of new offices, closing of established offices and realignment of geographic areas have become practical realities in conducting the Agency's mission overseas. Individuals who feel that records pertaining to themselves are maintained at any of our overseas locations may contact the Agency's Office of Congressional and Public Liaison, Room 1019, 1750 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW, Washington, D.C., 20547. The Agency maintains an index of its records, including a current listing of overseas posts, which is available to the public as indicated in 22 CFR Ch. V, Sec. 504.2.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: American citizens and aliens admitted for permanent U.S. residence, who are residing Overseas, i.e., journalists, businessmen, scholars, artists, representatives of other U.S. Government agencies, missionaries.

Categories of records in the system: Names and addresses.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Pub. L. 402, Information and Educational Exchange Act of 1948; Federal Records Act, 44 U.S.C. 3101.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Distribution of printed matter; invitation lists of official social functions and programs; selection of candidates for temporary employment, as needed; location of specialist to arrange, conduct, appear in or appraise Agency programs organized overseas; press briefings for American journalists residing in foreign countries; appraisal of American specialists whose services are utilized in Agency programming overseas.

Also see Prefatory Statement of General Routine Uses.

Information is made available on a need-to-know basis to personnel of the International Communication Agency as may be required in the performance of their official duties.

Information in these records is not normally available to individuals or agencies outside the International Communication Agency, but records may be released to other government agencies having statutory or other legal authority to maintain such information.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Addressograph plates or paper records in file folders.

Retrievability: By name of the individual.

Safeguards: Records are kept in locked file cabinets or in locked rooms when not in use.

Retention and disposal: Records are updated regularly, and metal plates or paper files no longer useful or current are destroyed.

System manager(s) and address: See "System Location" above.

Notification procedure: Director (USICA), Congressional and Public Liaison, 1750 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW, Washington, D.C., 20547.

Record access procedures: Requests from individuals should be addressed to: Director (USICA), Congressional and Public Liaison, 1750 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW, Washington, D.C. 20547.

Contesting record procedures: The Agency's rules for access and for contesting contents and appealing initial determinations by the individual concerned appear in the Rules Section of the Federal Register.

Record source categories: Information obtained from the individual concerned.

USICA—2

System name: Artists and Speakers-NEA.

System location: Office of the Assistant Director of North African, Near Eastern and South Asian Affairs, 1750 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW, Washington, D.C. 20547.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Artists and speakers considered qualified to conduct programs at USICA's overseas posts in the Near East, North Africa and South Asia.

Categories of records in the system: Biographic data on speakers and artists; evaluation reports of past service with USICA; travel arrangements; program arrangements.

Authority for maintenance of the system: The Federal Records Act, 44 U.S.C. 3101.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: To provide basic personnel and program information in order to arrange regional schedules for speakers and artists. Also see Prefatory Statement of General Routine Uses.

Information is made available on a need-to-know basis to personnel of the International Communication Agency as may be required in the performance of their official duties.

Information in these records is not normally available to individuals or agencies outside the International Communication Agency, but records may be released to other government agencies who have statutory or other lawful authority to maintain such information.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Paper records in file folders.

Retrievability: By the name of the individual concerned.

Safeguards: Maintained in locked file cabinets.

Retention and disposal: Records are held as long as the individual is a prospective speaker or artist needed for or willing to conduct programs overseas.

System manager(s) and address: Office of Director, North African, Near Eastern and South Asian Affairs, 1750 Pennsylvania Ave., NW, Washington, D.C. 20547.

Notification procedure: Director (USICA), Congressional and Public Liaison, 1750 Pennsylvania Ave., NW, Washington D.C. 20547.

Record access procedures: Requests from individuals should be addressed to: Director (USICA), Congressional and Public Liaison, 1750 Pennsylvania Ave., NW, Washington, D.C. 20547.

Contesting record procedures: The Agency's rules for access and for contesting contents and appealing determinations by the individual concerned appear in the Rules Section of the Federal Register.

Record source categories: Information provided by the individual artists and speakers; evaluation of speaker or artist by overseas posts; public documents and publications.

USICA—3

System name: Bidders Mailing List Application-MGT/AC.

System location: International Communication Agency, Contract and Procurement Division, 1717 H Street, NW, Washington, D.C. 20547.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Prospective Government contractors and Agency contractors.

Categories of records in the system: Information is contained on a standard form which requests the individual's name and address, type of business, number of employees, average annual sales or receipts, facilities (space), net worth, security clearances held, and a certification of the accuracy of the information provided on the form.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Federal Procurement Regulations (41 CFR 1-2.205-1(c) and 1-16.802).

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: To prepare the Agency's Bidders Mailing List and for use of contracting specialists to determine adequacy of facilities, and financial responsibility of prospective contractors. Also see Prefatory Statement of General Routine Uses.

Information is made available on a need-to-know basis to personnel of the International Communication Agency as may be required in the performance of their official duties.

The information may also be released to other government agencies who have statutory or other lawful authority to maintain such information.

The principal user of this information outside the International Communication Agency is the General Services Administration.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Information included on Standard Form 129, and maintained in binders.

Retrievability: By the name of the individual.

Safeguards: Maintained in combination lock file cabinet, available only to authorized personnel.

Retention and disposal: A routine update of information is conducted approximately every five years. Outdated information disposed of by burning.

System manager(s) and address: Agency Contracting Officer, Contract and Procurement Division, 1717 H Street, NW, Washington, D.C. 20547.

Notification procedure: Director (USICA), Congressional and Public Liaison, 1750 Pennsylvania Ave., NW, Washington, D.C. 20547.

Record access procedures: Requests from individuals should be addressed to: Assistant Director (USICA), Congressional and Public Liaison, 1750 Pennsylvania Ave., NW, Washington, D.C. 20547.

Contesting record procedures: The Agency's rules for access and for contesting contents and appealing determinations by the individual concerned appear in the Rules Section of the Federal Register.

Record source categories: Information provided by individuals, companies and corporations.

USICA—4

System name: Contract Talent and Employee Recruitment Files-PGM/T.

System location: International Communication Agency, Television and Film Service, 601 "D" Street, NW, Washington, D.C. 20547. International Communication Agency, Television and Film Service, 1657 Broadway, New York, New York 10019.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Job applicants; professional talent specialists in languages, camera, acting, etc., contractual motion picture and television producers.

Categories of records in the system: Records on individuals who have applied for employment as free-lance talent; correspondence between contractual motion picture and television producers; film review sheets; producer questionnaire forms; duplicate copies of security clearance information on talent vendors and contractual producers; card files on applicants for employment with USICA's Television Service and Film Service.

Authority for maintenance of the system: Federal Records Act, 44 USC 3101.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: To identify sources for contract productions; to identify individuals who have applied to USICA for employment as free-lance talent vendors; to fill vacant positions in production and/or technical positions as they become vacant; to determine security clearance status of contractual individuals or companies. USICA—23

System name: Overseas Personnel Files and Records—USICA.

System location: International Communication Agency maintains establishments overseas in 120 foreign countries which are designated as mission posts, branch posts, regional service centers, VOA relay stations, and media extensions. A current listing of names and addresses of overseas establishments is not considered practical for Privacy Act purposes, due to the fact that such a list would require frequent amendment. Changing of office locations, opening of new offices, closing of established offices and realignment of geographic areas have become practical realities in conducting the Agency's mission overseas. Individuals who feel that records pertaining to themselves are maintained at any one of our overseas locations may contact the Agency's Congressional and Public Liaison, Room 1019, 1750 Pennsylvania Ave., NW, Washington, D.C. 20547. The Agency maintains an index of its records, including a current listing of overseas posts, which is available to the public as indicated in 22 CFR Ch. V, Rules for Implementing the Freedom of Information Act.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: Foreign Service employees of the International Communication Agency who are serving or have served at any of the Agency's overseas establishments.

Categories of records in the system: Personnel evaluation reports, travel orders, personnel action forms, payroll change forms, travel vouchers, residence and dependency reports, correspondence related to transfer of duty station or training assignments.

Authority for maintenance of the system: The Foreign Service Act of 1946.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Maintained for convenience due to separation from main office; for use by senior USIA officers at overseas establishments in evaluating the performance of subordinate officers; for planning future staffing requirements; dates of reassignment of officers; entitlement to foreign service allowances; home address and next of kin in the United States in case of emergency; settlement of personal business after departure of employee from the overseas establishment. Also see Prefatory Statement of General Routine Uses.

Information in these files is available only to American foreign service employees on a need-to-know basis as may be required in the performance of their official duties.

The principal user of this information outside the International Communication Agency is the U.S. Department of State.

The information may also be released to other government agencies who have statutory or other lawful authority to maintain such information.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage: Paper records in file folders.

Retrievability: By name of the individual.

Safeguards: Maintained in locked file cabinets.

Retention and disposal: Destroyed after three years after employee's departure from the post. (Reference USICA's Manual of Operations and Administration, Part III, Exhibit 630A-3, Page 3).

Notification procedure: Director (USICA), Congressional and Public Liaison, 1750 Pennsylvania Ave., NW., Washington, D.C. 20547.

Record access procedures: Requests from individuals should be addressed to: (USICA), Congressional and Public Liaison, 1750 Pennsylvania Ave., NW., Washington, D.C. 20547.

Contesting record procedures: The Agency's rules for access and for contesting contents and appealing determinations by the individual concerned appear in the Rules Section of the Federal Register.

Record source categories: All documents contained in these records are duplicates of material originated by other elements of the International Communication Agency or, in some instances, by the Department of State.

USCIA—24

System name: Personnel Security and Integrity Records—MGT/S.

System location: Office of Security, Room 662, International Communication Agency, 1425 K St., NW, Washington, D.C. 20547.

Categories of individuals covered by the system: All persons currently or formerly employed or used under contract in the U.S.; all Americans currently or formerly employed or used under contract in other countries; some but not all foreign nationals currently or formerly employed or used under contract in other countries; former applicants who were not employed; persons whose services are or were otherwise utilized by a component of USCIA, whether compensated or not; prospective spouses of USICA employees; and other persons who are significantly identified with persons whose services have at one time or another been utilized or considered by the Agency in one or more of the manners indicated herein. Names are also cross-indexed on persons not so identified but who are or were significantly involved in non-security related administrative inquiries conducted by the Security Office of USICA, such as malfesance, nonfesance, misfesance, conflicts of interest, tort matters, equal employment opportunity inquiries and other administrative investigations conducted at the request of other elements of the Agency, and on persons of intelligence and counterintelligence interest whose names appeared in the press, or are contained in documents furnished by the FBI, CIA and other intelligence and counterintelligence agencies of the U.S. Government.

Categories of records in the system: Reports of Investigation conducted by the Security Office of USICA and by other government agencies, inter-office correspondence, relevant correspondence and memoranda originated by other elements of USICA, other federal agencies, other governmental entities (i.e., state and local authorities), corporate and private entities and by individuals. Additionally, records are maintained of security violations and consequent recommendations for disciplinary action. The system contains reports of briefings and debriefings of employees and other performing services for USICA at overseas posts and evaluative summaries of individuals files. Not all files, however, contain all of the above elements.

Authority for maintenance of the system: The authority of the Office of Security to collect and maintain security data is based on Section 1001 of the United States Information and Education Exchange Act of 1948, 62 Stat. 13, 22 U.S.C.1434, as amended, 66 Stat. 43, (1952), Reorganization Plan No. 8 of 1953, 67 Stat 642, Executive Order 10477 of August 1, 1953 as amended, the Act of August 26, 1950 64 Stat. 476, 5 U.S.C.A. 3571, 7312, 7501, 7512 and 7532, Executive Order No. 10450 of April 27, 1953 as amended, and Executive Order 11652 of March 8, 1972.

The authority of the Office of Security to collect and maintain certain administrative data, as the investigative arm of the Agency, is based on 22 USC 1434; Foreign Service Act of 1946, Sec. 611; Reorganization Plan No. 8; Executive Order 10477; 5 USC Chap. 33.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses: Making security decisions on applicants for employment. In certain cases data in security files is used by the Personnel Office and the Foreign Service Board of Examiners to determine the qualifications and suitability of an applicant.

Making security decisions on Agency employees to determine whether previously granted security clearances may remain in effect.

Making advisory opinions on individuals used by the Agency in a limited or unlimited contractual manner or otherwise and granting exceptions to the Agency's regulations governing such usage under a delegation of authority from the Director.

Giving security certifications in writing or orally to other Security Offices of the Federal Government.

Making security decisions as to the advisability of assigning employees to certain areas of the world or to certain positions within the Agency.

Making security decisions as to the advisability of certain promotions as required by Agency regulations.

Making security decisions as to granting an employee a cryptographic clearance under regulations for such clearance enforced by the Department of State.

Making an advisory opinion as to the effect on an employee's security clearance of a marriage to a non-U.S. citizen.

Reviewing the files in certain cases of non-citizen employees of USICA abroad to determine whether they may be granted a security certification.

Reviewing the files of former Agency employees and applicants never employed to determine what investigative material must be returned to the Civil Service Commission as required by that Commission.

Forwarding the investigative material to certain designated employees of the Personnel Office and of other offices of USICA.

Advising duly authorized security officers of other agencies of significant security data in the file of an Agency employee or applicant.

Advising the Civil Service Commission that significant security or suitability data was developed during a pre-employment investigation of an applicant, or during an investigation of an Agency employee who left the Agency's employment prior to a final adjudication of the case.

To determine whether the Office of Security has previous record of individuals or organizations of interest to the Agency as potential employees, contractors or in some non-compensated activity, or previous record of individuals or organizations becoming of interest as the result of significant identification with person or organizations of current interest to the Agency.

To determine what investigation might be required in the processing of individuals or organizations of interest to the Agency as potential employees or contractors, or in non-compensated use.

To determine specific areas of inquiry by agents of the Office of Security or agents of other federal agencies acting in our behalf, engaged in the various types of security/suitability investigations conducted by the office, i.e., applicant interviews, applicant update investigations, employee investigations, administrative inquiries, debriefings and employee interviews.

To determine whether periodic updating of employee security clearances are required and further determine the appropriate scope of update investigations.

To assist in determining the extent to which allegations against employees or applicants should be investigated.

Review of MGT/SI investigative material by authorized representatives of other U.S. government agencies having security or suitability interests.

USIA-60

System name:

USIA Procurement Personnel Information System.

Security classification:

Unclassified.

System location:

Office of Contracts, U.S. Information Agency, Switzer Building, 300 C Street SW, Washington, D.C. 20547.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

USIA employees involved with procurement activities.

Categories of records in the system:

Name, office, position title, series and grade, service computation date, position description, education, training, experience, professional recognition, career objectives.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

Authority for this system is derived from the Federal Records Act, 44 U.S.C. 3101, and Federal Acquisition Regulation, Subpart 1-6.

Purpose(s):

The U.S. Information Agency has established a register of training and qualified individuals who may be appointed as Contracting Officers at all grade levels. In accordance with Section 1(g) of Executive Order 12352, clear lines of contracting authority and accountability must be established. The system will be used to establish and monitor the contracting work force.

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

Identification of employees who have met standards of experience, education, and training for appointment as Contracting Officers and to analyze procurement system performance such as functional placement, system training needs, and workforce size. Information is available to personnel of the U.S. Information Agency as may be required for performance of official duties. Information on individuals will not normally be available outside the U.S. Information Agency as it falls within the excepted guidelines of the Freedom of Information Act.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

All information will be maintained in a paper hard copy file which will be automated as soon as possible.

Retrievability:

Records are retrieved by name, office, series and grade.

Safeguards:

Files are kept in the Office of Contracts in bar lock cabinets and may be accessed only by the office staff. As soon as the file is automated, it will be password protected.

Retention and disposal:

Files will be retained as long as the individual remains an employee of the U.S. Information Agency, and will be destroyed upon the employee's separation.

Unclassified.

System location:

USIA, Office of Private Sector Programs, Room 216, 301-4th Street, SW, Washington, DC.

Categories of individuals covered by the system:

Individuals who have traveled at U.S. Government expense under USIA Private Sector grants in the performance of grant requirements and biographic information on individuals nominated for the Agency's Artistic Ambassador Program from eligible graduate music schools and conservatories in the United States.

Categories of records in the system:

Name, position, organizational affiliation, grantee organization, grant number, date, destination, purpose of travel; biographic data—where nominee will peform, nominee's repertoire, past concerts and performances, address, telephone number, education, date and place of birth and citizenship.

Authority for maintenance of the system:

The United States Information Agency Authorization Act, Fiscal Years 1984 and 1985, Pub. L. 98-164 and the Fullbright-Hays Act (22 U.S.C. 2451, et seq.).

Purpose(s):

To comply with the provisions of Pub. L. 98-164 which require USIA to report to Congress the names of individuals who in the preceding five years made two or more trips involving foreign travel financed in whole or substantial part by grants from the Private Sector Program. The Artistic Ambassador Program files will be used to select individuals to compete in regional auditions designated by geographical distribution (i.e. West and Southwest, Midwest and South, East Coast).

Routine uses of records maintained in the system, including categories of users and the purposes of such uses:

The information relating to American Travelers in this system will be used to compile an annual report for the Speaker of the House of Representatives and the Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee as required by Pub. L. 98-164. This file has no other use. Users of this file will be employees of the USIA Office of Private Sector Programs having a need to access the information.

The Artistic Ambassador Program file will be used by employees of the USIA Office of Private Sector Programs in performance of their duties and by judges to record information on the technical and artistic ability of the artist, which information is ultimately used in selecting winners of competition.

Policies and practices for storing, retrieving, accessing, retaining, and disposing of records in the system:

Storage:

Information will be maintained in a word processor on list processing with limited access and in file folders under individuals' names.

Retrievability:

Records are retrieved by name and organizational affiliation.

Safeguards:

Records of American travelers are maintained on a word processor located in the USIA Office of Private Sector Programs, and are password protected, so that the file can only be accessed by employees having a need to obtain information which is available only in the file.

Records of the Artistic Ambassador Program are maintained in file folders and kept in file cabinets secured by bar lock or combination lock.

Retention and disposal:

Files will be retained for a minimum of five years, but not longer than seven years, at which time they will be disposed of in accordance with the USIA disposal schedules.

Contesting record procedures:

The U.S. Information Agency's rules for access and for contesting contents and appeal of initial determinations by the individual concerned are published in Part 505, Title 22, U.S. Code of Federal Regulations.

Record source categories:

Information obtained from grantee organizations and individual grantees.

Systems exempted from certain provisions of the act:

None.

APPENDIX I

Prefatory Statement of General Routine Uses

The following routine uses apply to, and are incorporated by reference into, each system of records set forth above.

1. In the event that a system of records maintained by the Agency to carry out its functions indicates a violation or potential violation of law, whether civil, criminal or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether federal, state, local or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute; or rule, regulation or order issued pursuant thereto.

2. A record from this system of records may be disclosed, as a routine use, to a federal, state, or local agency maintaining civil, criminal or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an Agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant or other benefit.

3. A record from this system of records may be disclosed, as a routine use, to a federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision on the matter.

4. A record from this system of records may be disclosed, as a routine use, in the course of presenting evidence to a court, magistrate or administrative tribunal, including disclosures to opposing counsel in the course of settlement negotiations.

5. A record in this system of records which contains medical information may be disclosed, as a routine use, to the medical advisor of any individual submitting a request for access to the record under the Act and 22 CFR Part 505 if, in the sole judgment of the Agency, disclosure could have an adverse effect upon the individual, under the provision of 5 U.S.C. 552a(f)(3) and implementing regulations at 22 CFR 505.6.

6. The information contained in this system of records will be disclosed to the Office of Management and Budget in connection with the review of private relief legislation as set forth in OMB Circular No. A-19 at any stage of the legislative coordination and clearance process as set forth in that Circular.

7. A record from this system of records may be disclosed to an authorized appeal grievance examiner; a formal complaints examiner; an equal employment opportunity investigator; an arbitrator or other duly authorized official engaged in investigation or settlement of a grievance, complaint or appeal filed by an employee. A record from this system of records may be disclosed to the U.S. Civil Service Commission in accordance with the Agency's responsibility for evaluation and oversight of federal personnel management.

8. A record from this system of records may be disclosed to authorized employees of a federal agency for purposes of audit.

9. Disclosure may be made to a congressional office from the record of an individual in response to an inquiry from the congressional office made at the request of that individual.

10. A record from this system of records may be disclosed, as a routine use, to the Department of State and its posts abroad for the purpose of transmission of information between organizational units of the Agency, or for purposes related to the responsibilities of the Department of State in conducting foreign policy or protecting United States citizens, such as the assignment of employees to positions abroad, the reporting of accidents abroad, evacuation of employees and dependents, and other purposes for which officers and employees of the Department of State have a need for the records in the performance of their official duties.

11. A record in this system of records may be disclosed, as a routine use, to a foreign government or international agency when necessary to facilitate the conduct of U.S. relations with that government or agency through the issuance of such documents as visas, country clearances, identification cards, drivers' licenses, diplomatic lists, licenses to import or export personal effects, and other official documents and permits routinely required in connection with the official service or travel abroad of the individual and his or her dependents.

12. A record in this system of records may be disclosed, as a routine use to Federal agencies with which the Agency has entered into an agreement to provide services to assist the Agency in carrying out its functions under the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, as amended. Such disclosures would be for transmitting information between organizational units of the Agency, for providing to the original employing agency information concerning the services of its employee while under the supervision of the Agency, including performance evaluations, reports of conduct, awards and commendations and information normally obtained in the course of personnel administration and employee supervision, or for providing other information directly related to the purpose of the inter-agency agreement as set forth therein, and necessary and relevant to its implementation.

13. A record in this system of records may be disclosed, as a routine use, to the Department of Justice to determine whether disclosure thereof is required by the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552).

14. A record in this sytem of records may be disclosed, as a routine use, when the information is subject to exemption under the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552) but the Agency, in its discretion, determines not to assert the exemption.

15. A record from this system of records may be disclosed, as a routine use, only to State and local taxing authorities with which the Secretary of the Treasury has entered into agreements and only to those State and local taxing authorities for which the employee is subject to tax (whether or not tax is withheld).

Editorial note: Nomenclature changes affecting Part 505 appear at 51 FR 11015, April 1, 1986.

§ 505.1 Purpose and scope.

The International Communication Agency will protect individual privacy from misuse of its records, and grant individuals access to records concerning them which are maintained by the Agency's domestic and overseas offices, consistent with the provisions of Pub. L. 93–579, the Privacy Act of 1974. The Agency has also established procedures to permit individuals to amend incorrect records, to limit the disclosure of personal information to third parties, and to limit the number of sources of personal information. The Agency has also established internal rules restricting requirements of individuals to disclose social security account numbers.

§ 505.2 Definitions.

As used in this section, the following definitions shall apply:

(a) Agency means the International Communication Agency, its offices, divisions, branches and its Foreign Service establishments.

(b) Individual means a citizen of the United States or an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence.

(c) Maintain means collection, use, dissemination or any combination of these record keeping functions; control over and hence responsibility and accountability for systems of records.

(d) Record means any item, collection, or grouping of information about an individual that is maintained by the Agency, including, but not limited to, education, financial transactions, medical history, and criminal or employment history that contains the individual's name, or the identifying particular assigned to the individual, such as a finger or voice print or photograph.

(e) System of records means a group of any records under the control of the Agency from which information is retrieved by the name of the individual or by some identifying number, symbol, or other identifying particular assigned to an individual.

(f) Statistical record means a record in a system of records maintained for statistical research or reporting purposes only and not used in whole or in part in making any determination about an identifiable individual, except as provided in 13 U.S.C. 8.

(g) Routine use means the common and ordinary purposes for which records are used, and all of the proper and necessary uses even if any such use occurs infrequently.

(h) Amend means to make any correction to any portion of the record which the individual believes is not accurate, relevant, timely or complete.

(i) Personnel record means any personal information maintained in a system of records that is needed for personnel management programs or processes such as staffing, employee development, retirement, and grievances and appeals.

(j) Committee on Public Information Policy means the body established by and responsible to the Director of USICA for reviewing appeals from individuals to amend records held by the Agency.

§ 505.3 Procedures for requests pertaining to individual records in a system of records.

(a) The Agency will consider all requests received from an individual for records pertaining to himself or herself at a request made under the Privacy Act of 1974 (5 U.S.C. 552a), whether or not the individual specifically cites the Privacy Act of 1974 when making the requests.

(b) All requests under the Privacy Act should be directed to the Office of General Counsel and Congressional Liaison, 301 4th Street, NW, Washington, D.C. 20547, which will coordinate the search of all systems of records specified in the request. Guidelines for preparation of a request are published in the Agency's Annual Public Notice. 1(c) Requests directed to the Agency's overseas posts which involve routine, unclassified, administrative and personnel records available only at those posts may be released to the individual if the post determines that such release is authorized by the Privacy Act. All other requests shall be submitted by the post to the Office of General Counsel and Congressional Liaison, as noted in paragraph (b) of this section, and the individual so notified of this action in writing.

(d) Information, documents and forms which have previously been provided to the public as part of the normal services of the Agency will continue to be made available on the same basis.

(e) In those instances where an individual requests records pertaining to himself or herself, as well as records pertaining to another individual, group, or some other category of the Agency's records, only that portion of the request which pertains to records concerning the individual will be treated as a Privacy Act request. The remaining portions of such a request will be processed by the Agency's Office of General Counsel and Congressional Liaison as a Freedom of Information request.

[40 FR 49278, Oct. 21,1975 as amended at 46 FR 18972, Mar. 27,1981; 45 FR 11015, Apr. 1, 1986]

§ 505.4 Times, places, and requirements for identification of individuals making requests.

(a) In person—(1) Times and places. Individuals seeking access to Agency records may present themselves in person at USICA's Office of General Counsel and Congressional Liaison, 301 4th Street, NW, Washington, D.C. 20547, between the hours of 8:15 a.m. and 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday, except on legal holidays.

(2) Identification procedures. Some form of identification will be required of individuals requesting access to records in person. Acceptable forms of identifications are: Driver's license, employee identification card, passport or Medicare card, or supplying of data which presumably would be known only to the person making the request. An individual will also be required to sign a statement asserting his or her identity, which stipulates that knowingly and willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another individual under false pretenses is punishable by a fine of up to 5,000.

(b) By mail. The Agency will require a signed statement from an individual requesting access to records by mail, confirming identity and stipulating that the individual understands that knowingly and willfully seeking or obtaining access to records about another individual under false pretenses is punishable by a fine of up to 5,000.

[40 FR 49278, Oct.21, 1975, as amended at 51 FR 11015, Apr. 1, 1986]

§ 505.5 Disclosure of requested information to individuals.

(a) Information necessary to identify a record. Whenever possible, an individual should furnish all the identifying information requested for the particular record system(s) as published in the Public Notice appearing in the Federal Register. This information will facilitate the search of the record system(s) and assist the Agency in locating those records which actually pertain to the individual. As a minimum, any request should include the individual's full name, present mailing address and zip code, and the date and place of birth, and any other information or statements required under the access procedures in paragraph (b) of this section. In certain instances, it may be necessary for the Agency to request additional information from the individual to ensure that the retrieved record does, in fact, pertain to him or her.

(b) Access to records—(1) Acknowledgment of requests. All requests for information on whether or not the Agency's system or systems of records contain information about the individual will be acknowledged within ten working days after receipt of the request by the Office of General Counsel and Congressional Liaison.

(2) Time limits. Whenever possible the Agency will furnish the requested records within ten working days of receipt of the request. The Agency's ability to respond to requests within ten working days will be affected by the volume of pending requests on hand, and the need, whenever necessary, to:

(i) Search for and collect the requested records from overseas posts or other establishments that are separate from the office processing the request;

(ii) Search for, collect, and appropriately examine a voluminous amount of separate and distinct records which are demanded in a single request;

(iii) Consult, which shall be conducted with all practicable speed, with another agency having a substantial interest in the determination of the request or among two or more components of the Agency having a subject matter interest therein;

(iv) Request additional identifying information to assist the Agency in locating the requested records.

(c) Access instructions—(1) In person. Access to a record will be granted in person if desired by the individual, at a time and place which is mutually agreeable. In person access to records will require the same identification procedure outlined in § 505.4(a)(2) of this Part.

(2) By mail. If it is determined that access to records can be granted only by mail because the Agency cannot provide reasonable means for individuals to have access to records in person, copies of requested records may be sent to the home address provided by the requester, contingent upon verification of identification as described in §§ 505.4(a)(2) and/or 505.4(b).

(d) Vertification of personal identity. In certain cases where the Agency determines that the substance of the requested record is of sufficient sensitivity, it may require the individual to furnish a signed, notarized statement that he or she is in fact the person he or she represents himself or herself to be before granting access to records. The Agency will so inform the individual at the time the record is retrieved whether or not such a statement is necessary.

(e) Original records. Originals, or record copies thereof, will not be released from the custody of the records system manager. Copies will be furnished in accordance with established fees contained in § 505.11 of this Part.

(f) Denial of access to records. (1) The requirements of this section do not entitle an individual the right to access to any information compiled in reasonable anticipation of a civil action or proceeding.

(2) The Agency is not required to permit access to records by an individual if the information is not retrievable by the individual's name or other identifying particular.

(3) Access shall not be granted to an individual who requests information about himself or herself which might be contained in the file of another individual.

(4) The Agency reserves the right to deny an individual access to a record or portion thereof, which, following a review, is determined to fall within the categories of exemptions authorized in 5 U.S.C. 552a(j) and 552a(k). See §§ 505.13 and 505.14 for a listing of general and specific exemptions.

(5) The decision to deny access shall be made by an Agency official of the rank equivalent to Deputy Director, Office of Public Liaison (PL) or higher who is responsive for the system of records. When an authorized official denies access to a record or portion thereof under this Part, he/she will so advise the Chairperson of the Committee on Public Information Policy, who will inform the individual in writing of the denial and the specific reasons therefore. The denial letter will also advise the individual of his or her right to seek judicial review of the Agency's decision.

[40 FR 49278, Oct. 21,1975 as amended at 46 FR 18972, Mar. 27,1981; 45 FR 11015, Apr. 1, 1986]

§ 505.6 Special procedures: Medical records.

If, in the judgment of the Agency, the release of medical information directly to the requester could have an adverse effect on the requester, the Agency will attempt to arrange an acceptable alternative in granting access of such records to the requester. This will normally involve the release of such information to a doctor named by the requester.

§ 505.7 Request for correction or amendment of record.

(a) Requests for amending records. (1) An individual has the right to request that the Agency amend a record pertaining to him or her which the individual believes is not accurate, relevant, timely, or complete. At the time the Agency grants access to a record, it will furnish guidelines for requesting amendments to the record. These guidelines will also be available in the USIA Office of General Counsel and Congressional Liaison, 301 4th Street, NW, Washington, D.C. 20547, or may be obtained by writing the Director of Public Liaison, at the above address.

(2) Requests for amendments to records must be in writing and mailed or delivered to the Director of Public Liaison, 301 4th Street, NW, Washington, D.C. 20547, who will coordinate the review of the request to amend a record with the appropriate office(s). Such requests should contain, as a minimum, identifying information needed to locate the record, a brief description of the item or items of information to be amended, and the reason for the requested change. The requester should submit as much documentation, arguments or other data as seems warranted to support the request for amendment.

(b) Acknowledging receipt of requests to amend records. Whenever possible the Agency will review all requests for amendments to records within ten working days of receipt of the request by the Director of Public Liaison, and advise the requester of the results of the review. In those cases where the review cannot be completed within ten working days, the Agency will so advise the requester and inform him or her when the review will be completed. Except in very unusual circumstances, this review will be completed no later than thirty working days after receipt of the request to amend a record.

[40 FR 49278, Oct. 21, 1975, as amended at 45 FR 17571, Mar. 19, 1980; 51 FR 11015, Apr. 1, 1986]

§ 505.8 Agency review of requests for correction or amendment of records.

(a) In reviewing a record in response to a request to amend, the Agency shall incorporate the criteria of accuracy, relevance, timeliness, or completeness of the record in the review.

(b) If the Agency agrees with an individual's request to amend a record, it shall:

(1) So advise the individual in writing;

(2) Correct the record accordingly; and

(3) If an accounting of disclosure has been made, advise all previous recipients of the record which was corrected of the correction and its substance.

(c) If the Agency, after an initial review of a request to amend a record, disagrees with all or any portion of it, the Agency shall:

(1) Advise the individual of its refusal and the reasons for the determination; and

(2) Inform the individual that he or she may request a further review in accordance with § 505.9.

§ 505.9 Appeal of initial adverse Agency determination on correction or amendment.

(a) If an individual disagrees with the Agency's initial refusal to amend a record, he or she may appeal that determination. The appeal must be in writing and should be sent by certified mail to the Chairperson, Committee on Public Information Policy, United States Information Agency, 301 4th Street , NW, Washington, D.C. 20547. The appeal should include any documentation, information or statements advanced to substantiate the request for amendment.

(b) A review of the appeal will be conducted by the Director of USIA or an Agency official whom he/she designates in writing who is senior to the official who made the initial determination.

(c) Appeals or that portion of an appeal involving the personnel records of active Foreign Service employees of the Agency will be referred to the Foreign Service Grievance Board for review and final determination at such times as the Board's procedures are in full compliance with the Privacy Act.

(d) The time for decision on the appeal begins on the date the appeal is actually received by the Chairperson of the Committee on Public Information Policy. The final Agency determination will be made within thirty working days, unless the Agency official has determined that a fair and equitable review cannot be completed in that time. If additional time is required, the individual will be informed in writing of the reasons for the delay and the approximate date on which the review is expected to be completed.

(e) The Agency official will make the final determination on the appeal, except as provided in paragraph (c) of this section, whether or not, and to what extent, to amend the records as requested by the individual. A written record of the reasons for the decision will be maintained by the Agency official, who will communicate his/her final determination to the Chairperson of the Committee on Public Information Policy. The Chairperson will advise the individual in writing of the Agency's decision on his or her appeal.

(f) If the Agency official determines to deny the individual's appeal to amend records, the Chairperson shall advise the individual:

(1) Of the Agency's refusal and the reasons for it;

(2) Of his or her right to file a concise statement of the reasons for disagreeing with the decision of the Agency;

(3) Of the procedures for filing the statement of disagreement;

(4) That the statement which is filed will be made available to anyone to whom the record is subsequently disclosed together with, at the discretion of the Agency, a brief statement by the Agency summarizing its reasons for refusing to amend the record;

(5) That prior recipients of the disputed record will be provided a copy of any statement of dispute to the extent that an accounting of disclosures was maintained; and

(6) His or her right to seek judicial review of the Agency's refusal to amend.

(g) When an individual files a statement disagreeing with the Agency's refusal to amend a record, the Agency will clearly annotate the record so that the fact that the record is disputed is apparent to anyone who may subsequently have access to, use, or disclose it. When information that it is the subject of a statement of dispute filed by an individual is subsequently disclosed, the Agency will note that the information is disputed and provide a copy of the individual's statement. The Agency may also include a brief summary of the reasons for not making a correction when disclosing disputed information. Such statements will be limited to the reasons given to the individual for not amending the record. Copies of the Agency's statement shall be treated as part of the individual's record for granting access; however, it will not be subject to amendment by the individual under these regulations.

[40 FR 49278, Oct. 21, 1975, as amended at 51 FR 11015, Apr. 1, 1986]

§ 505.10 Disclosure of record to persons other than the individual to whom it pertains.

The Agency will not disclose any information about an individual to any person or another agency without the prior consent of the individual about whom the information is maintained, except as provided for in the following paragraphs.

(a) Medical records means such records will be disclosed to a doctor or other medical practitioner, with the consent of the individual, as prescribed in § 505.6 of this Part.

(b) Accompanying individual means if, when exercising a right of access to records, the requester is accompanied by any other person, the Agency will require that the requester sign a statement granting consent to the disclosure of the contents of the record to the person accompanying him or her.

(c) Designees means individuals, other than the original requester, who request access to records pertaining to the original requester, must present, in writing, a signed statement from the original requester authorizing and consenting to the release of his or her records to the designated individual.

(d) Guardians means the parent(s) of any dependent minor, or the legal guardian of an individual who has been declared to be incompetent due to physical or mental incapacity or age by a court of competent jurisdiction, may act for an on behalf of the individual on whom the Agency maintains records.

(e) Other disclosures permitted by the Privacy Act means a record may be disclosed without either the request or written consent of the individual to whom a record pertains if such disclosure is authorized under the conditions of disclosure in 5 U.S.C. 552a(b). These conditions are:

(1) Disclosure within the Agency. This provision is based on a "need-to-know" concept. The Privacy Act recognizes that Agency personnel require access to records to discharge their duties.

(2) Disclosure to the public. The Agency is not required to obtain the consent of an individual before disclosing a record about him or her to a member of the public to whom the Agency is required to disclose such information under the Freedom of Information Act. The Agency may, however, withhold records from a member of the public if such records are exempted from disclosure under the Freedom of Information Act, such as for an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

(3) Disclosure of a routine use. Records may be disclosed without the prior consent of an individual for a "routine use", as defined in § 505.2(g) of this part, and as described in the required annual public notice about the system published in the Federal Register.

(4) Disclosure to the Bureau of the Census. The Agency may disclose records to the Bureau of the Census for purposes of planning or carrying out a census or survey or related activity. Title 13 U.S.C. section 8 limits the uses which may be made of these records and also makes them immune form compulsory disclosure.

(5) Disclosure for statistical research and reporting. Records may be disclosed for statistical research or reporting purposes only after the Agency has received and evaluated a written statement which explains the purpose for requesting the records, and certifies that the records will be used only as statistical records.

(6) Disclosure to the National Archives. The Agency may disclose records to the National Archives of the United States pursuant to 44 U.S.C. 2103, which provides for the preservation of records of historical or other value.

(7) Disclosure for law enforcement purposes. The Agency may disclose a record to another agency or unit of state or local government upon receipt of a written request describing the law enforcement purpose for which the record is required, and specifying the particular record required. Blanket requests for all records pertaining to an individual are not permitted by the Privacy Act.

(8) Disclosure under emergency circumstances. The Agency may disclose records when the time required to obtain the consent of the individual to whom the record pertains might result in a delay which could impair the health or safety of an individual, e.g., release of medical records on a patient undergoing emergency treatment.

(9) Disclosure to the Congress. Records on individuals may be furnished to either House of Congress, or with regard to matters within their jurisdiction, any committee or subcommittee thereof, any joint committee of Congress or subcommittee of any such joint committee.

(10) Disclosure to the General Accounting Office. Records on individuals may be disclosed to the Comptroller General or any of his/hers authorized representatives, in the course of the performance of the duties of the General Accounting Office.

(11) Disclosure pursuant to court order. Agency records may be disclosed as required pursuant to the order of a court of competent jurisdiction.

[40 FR 49278, Oct. 21, 1975, as amended at 45 FR 17571, Mar. 19, 1980]

§ 505.11 Fees.

(a) The Agency will charge a fee of $0.15 per page for copies of documents which are identified by an individual and reproduced at the individual's request for retention. There will be no charge for requests involving costs of $1.00 or less.

(b) The first copy of an individual's personnel record will be furnished free of charge.

(c) Remittances shall be in the form either of a personal check or bank draft drawn on a bank in the United States, a postal money order, or cash. Remittances shall be made payable to the order of the Treasurer of the United States and mailed to the Office of General Counsel and Congressional Liaison, 301 4th Street, NW., Washington, D.C. 20547. The Agency will assume no responsibility for cash sent by mail.

(d) A receipt for fees paid will be given only upon request.

[40 FR 49278, Oct. 21, 1975, as amended at 43 FR 14301, Apr. 4, 1978; 51 FR 11015, Apr. 1, 1986]

§ 505.12 Civil Remedies and Criminal Penalties.

(a) Grounds for court action. An individual will have a remedy in the Federal District Courts under the following circumstances:

(1) Denial of access. Individuals may challenge an Agency decision to deny them access to records to which they consider themselves entitled.

(2) Refusal to amend a record. Under conditions prescribed in 5 U.S.C. 552a(g), an individual may seek judicial review of the Agency's refusal to amend a record.

(3) Failure to maintain a record accurately. An individual may bring suit against the Agency for any alleged intentional and willful failure to maintain a record accurately, if it can be shown that the individual was subjected to an adverse action resulting in the denial of a right, benefit, entitlement or employment the individual could reasonably have expected to be granted if the record had not been deficient.

(4) Other failures to comply with the Act. An individual may bring an action for any alleged failure by the Agency to comply with the requirements of the Act or failure to comply with any rule published by the Agency to implement the Act provided it can be shown that:

(i) The action was "intentional or willful";

(ii) The Agency's action had an adverse effect upon the individual;

(iii) The adverse action was caused by the Agency's actions.

(b) Jurisdiction and time limits. (1) Action may be brought in the district court for the jurisdiction in which the individual resides or has a place of residence or has a place of business, or in which the Agency records are situated, or in the District of Columbia.

(2) The statute of limitations is two years from the date upon which the cause of action arises, except for cases in which the Agency has materially or willfully misrepresented any information required to be disclosed and when such misrepresentation is material to the liability of the Agency. In such cases the statute of limitations is two years from the date of discovery by the individual of the misrepresentation.

(3) A suit may not be brought on the basis of injury which may have occurred as a result of the Agency's disclosure of a record prior to September 27, 1975.

(c) Criminal Penalties—(1) Unauthorized disclosure. It is a criminal violation of the provisions of the Act for any officer or employee of the Agency knowingly and willfully to disclose a record in any manner to any person or agency not entitle to receive it, for failure to meet the conditions of disclosure enumerated in 5 U.S.C. 552a(b), or without the written consent or at the request of the individual to whom the record pertains. Any officer or employee of the Agency found guilty of such misconduct shall be fined not more than 5,000

(2) Failure to publish a public notice. It is a criminal violation of the Act willfully to maintain a system of records and not to publish the prescribed public notice. Any officer or employee of the Agency found guilty of such misconduct shall be fined not more than 5,000.

(3) Obtaining records under false pretenses. The Act makes it a criminal offense knowingly and willfully to request or gain access to a record about an individual under false pretenses. Any person found guilty of such an offense may be fined not more than $5,000.

§ 505.13 General exemptions.

(a) General exemption for the Central Intelligence Agency files of the Central Intelligence Agency are exempted from certain provisions of the Act.

(b) General exemption for criminal law enforcement records. Records of any agency or component thereof engaged in criminal law enforcement activities are exempted from disclosure under the Act. Specifically exempted under this provision of the Act are records which are:

(1) Compiled for the purposes of identifying information on an individual regarding arrests, nature and disposition of criminal charges, sentencing, confinement, release and parole of probation status;

(2) Compiled for the purpose of criminal investigation, including reports of informants and investigators, and associated with an identifiable individual;

(3) Reports identifiable to an individual compiled at any stage of the process of enforcement of the criminal laws from arrest or indictment through release from supervision.

§ 505.14 Specific exemptions.

The following categories of records maintained by the Agency may be exempted from disclosure:

(a) Exemption for classified material. The Act exempts from disclosure those records which are specifically authorized under criteria established under an Executive Order to be kept secret in the interest of national defense or foreign policy, and which are in fact properly classified pursuant to such Executive Order.

(b) Exemption for investigatory material compiled for law enforcement purposes. To the extent that an investigatory record is used as a basis for denying an individual any right, privilege or benefit, including employment, to which the individual would be entitled in the absence of that record, the individual must be granted access to that record except to the extent that access would reveal the identity of a confidential source.

(c) Exemption for records maintained to provide protective services. This exemption covers records which are not within the scope of law enforcement records covered under paragraph (b) of this section, but which are necessary to assure the safety of the President of the United States and other individuals protected pursuant to 18 U.S.C. 3056.

(d) Exemption for statistical records. The Agency may exempt a system of records which is used solely for the purpose of generating aggregate data or for other similarly evaluative or analytical purposes, and which are not used to make decisions on the rights, benefits or entitlements of individuals except for the disclosure of a census record to an individual permitted by 13 U.S.C. 8.

(e) Exemption for investigatory material compiled for determining suitability for federal employment or military service. A system of records may be exempted from certain provisions of the Act if disclosure of records would cause the identity of a confidential source to be revealed. This exemption may be invoked only if the following conditions are met:

(1) The record is maintained only for purposes of determining an individual's qualifications, eligibility, or suitability for military service, employment in the civilian service or on a federal contract, or need for access to classified material

(2) The information considered relevant and necessary to making a judicious determination as to qualifications, eligibility or suitability could only be obtained by providing assurance to the source that his or her identity would not be revealed to the subject of the record, e.g., for "critical sensitive positions."

(3) Disclosure of the record with the identity of the source removed would likely reveal the identity of the source, e.g., the record contains information which could only have been furnished by one of several individuals known to the subject.

(f) Exemption for testing or examination material. The Agency may exempt testing or examination material used to assess the qualifications of an individual for appointment or promotion in the federal service only if disclosure of the record to the individual would reveal information about the testing process which would give an individual an unfair competitive advantage.

(g) Exemption for material used to evaluate potential for promotion in the armed services. Application of an exemption for material used in evaluating the potential for promotion of members of the armed services must meet the same tests and conditions that are applied under paragraphs (b) and (e) of this section, i.e. revealing a confidential source.

(h) Records of other agencies. Any Agency record system which contains information originated by another agency whose record system are exempt from certain provisions of the Act will not be disclosed by USICA. (See § 505.13, General exemptions.)

[40 FR 49278, Oct. 21, 1978, as amended at 44 FR 16374, Mar. 19, 1979]

§ 505.15 Exemptions of systems of records.

Portions of the following systems of records may be exempted from 5 U.S.C. 552a (c)(3), (d), (e)(1), (e)(4), (G), (H) and (I), and (f).

(a) Exempt under 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(1). The reason for invoking this exemption is to protect material required to be kept secret in the interest of national defense and foreign policy.

USIA-19—Legal Files—GC
USIA-24—Personnel Security and Integrity Records—M/S

(b) Exempt under 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(2). The reasons for invoking this exemption are to prevent individuals who are subjects of an investigation from frustrating the investigatory process; to insure the integrity of law enforcement activities; to prevent the disclosure of investigative techniques; and to protect the confidentiality of sources of information.

USIA-19—Legal Files—GC
USIA-24—Personnel Security and Integrity Records—M/S

(c) Exempt under 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(5). The reasons for invoking this exemption are to insure the proper functioning of the investigatory process, to insure effective determination of suitability, eligibility and qualifications for employment, and to protect the confidentiality of sources of information:

USIA-12—Employee Relations Files—M/P
USIA-15—Equal Employment Opportunity Complaint Files—M/E
USIA-16—Equal Employment Opportunity General Files—M/E
USIA-19—Legal Files—GC
USIA-24—Personnel Security and Integrity Records—M/S
USIA-30—Recruitment Records—M/P

(d) Exempt under 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(6). The reasons for invoking this exemption are to prevent the compromise of testing or evaluation material used solely to determine individual qualifications for employment or promotion, and to avoid giving unfair advantage to individuals by virtue of their having access to such material:

USIA-12—Employee Relations Files—M/P
USIA-13—Employee Training Files—M/PT
USIA-21—Employee Master Personnel Records—M/P
USIA-30—Recruitment Records—M/P.

APPENDIX—WRC

In the event that a system of records maintained by this agency to carry out its functions indicates a violation or potential of law, whether civil, criminal, or regulatory in nature, and whether arising by general statute or particular program statute, or by regulation, rule or order issued pursuant thereto, the relevant records in the system of records may be referred, as a routine use, to the appropriate agency, whether Federal, State, local or foreign, charged with the responsibility of investigating or prosecuting such violation or charged with enforcing or implementing the statute, or rule, regulation, or order issued pursuant thereto.

A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a "routine use" to a Federal, State, or local agency maintaining civil, criminal, or other relevant enforcement information or other pertinent information, such as current licenses, if necessary to obtain information relevant to an agency decision concerning the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit.

A record from this system of records may be disclosed to a Federal agency, in response to its request, in connection with the hiring or retention of an employee, the issuance of a security clearance, the reporting of an investigation of an employee, the letting of a contract, or the issuance of a license, grant, or other benefit by the requesting agency, to the extent that the information is relevant and necessary to the requesting agency's decision in the matter.

A record from this system of records may be disclosed to an authorized appeal grievance examiner, formal complaints examiner, equal employment opportunity investigator, arbitrator, or other duly authorized official engaged in investigation or settlement of a grievance, complaint, or appeal filed by an employee. A record from this system of records may be disclosed to the United States Civil Service Commission in accordance with the agency's responsibility for evaluation and oversight of Federal personnel management.

A record from this system of records may be disclosed to officers and employees of a Federal agency for purposes of audit.

Information contained in this system of records will be disclosed to the Office of Management and Budget in connection with the review of private relief legislation as set forth in OMB Circular No. A-19 at any stage of the legislative coordination and clearance process as set forth in that Circular.

A record from this system of records may be disclosed as a routine use to a Member of Congress or to a congressional office made at the request of the individual about whom the record is maintained.

A record from this system of records may be disclosed to officers and employees of the General Services Administration in connection with administrative services provided to this agency under agreement with GSA.

Subpart E—Protection of Privacy

Authority: Sec. 402. Water Resources Planning Act of 1965 (Sec. 402. Pub. L. 89-80; 79 Stat. 254. as amended (42 U.S.C. 1962d-1)) and the Privacy Act of 1974 (Pub. L. 93-579; 88 Stat. 1896 (5 U.S.C. 552a)). unless otherwise noted.

Source: 40 FR 45676. Oct. 2. 1975. unless otherwise noted.

§ 701.300 Purpose and scope.

(a) The purpose of this subpart is to set forth rules to inform the public about information maintained by the U.S. Water Resources Council relating to identifiable individuals and to inform those individuals how they may gain access to and correct or amend information about themselves.

(b) The regulations in this subpart implement the requirements of the Privacy Act of 1974 (Pub. L. 93-579; 88 Stat. 1896 (5 U.S.C. 552a)).

(c) The regulations in this subpart apply only to records disclosed or requested under the Privacy Act of 1974, and not requests for information made pursuant to the Freedom of Information Act, as amended (5 U.S.C. 552, as amended by Pub. L. 93-502).

§ 701.301 Definitions.

For the purposes of this subpart, unless otherwise required by the context:

(a) "Council" means the U.S. Water Resources Council;

(b) "Individual" means a citizen of the United States or an alien lawfully admitted for permanent resident;

(c) "Maintain" means maintain, collect, use or disseminate;

(d) "Record" means any item, collection, or grouping of information about an individual that is maintained by the Council, including, but not limited to, his education, financial transactions, medical history and criminal or employment history, and that contains his name, or the identifying number, symbol, or other identifying particular assigned to the individual, such as a finger or voice print or a photograph;

(e) "Adverse determination" means a decision by the proper Council official to deny, in whole or in part, a request from an individual for a correction or amendment of a record concerning the individual and maintained by the Council; and,

(f) "Record system" means "system of records" as defined in the Act, i.e., a group of any records under the control of the Council from which information is retrieved by the name of the individual or by some identifying particular assigned to the individual.

§ 701.302 Procedures for notification of existence of records pertaining to individuals.

(a) The systems of records, as defined in the Privacy Act of 1974, maintained by the Council are listed annually in the Federal Register as required by that Act. Any individual may request the Council to inform him or her whether a particular record system named by the individual contains a record pertaining to him or her. The request may be made in person during business hours or in writing at the location and to the person specified in the notice describing that record system.

(b) An individual who believes that the Council maintains records pertaining to him or her but who cannot determine which records system contains those records, may request assistance by mail or in person at the Division of Program Coordination and Management, 2120 L Street, NW., Washington, D.C. 20037, during business hours (8:00 a.m. through 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, excluding legal holidays).

(c) The Council will attempt to respond to a request as to whether a record exists within 10 working days from the time it receives the request or to inform the requestor of the need for additional time or additional information within 10 working days. If a request is complied with within 10 working days, no separate acknowledgment will be made.

[40 FR 45676, Oct. 2, 1975, as amended at 41 FR 8343, Feb. 26, 1976]

§ 701.303 Conditions of disclosure.

(a) Subject to the conditions of paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section, the Council will not disclose any record which is contained in a system of records, by any means of communication to any person who is not an individual to whom the record pertains.

(b) Upon written request or with prior written consent of the individual to whom the record pertains, the Council may disclose any such record to any person or other agency.

(c) In the absence of a written consent from the individual to whom the record pertains, the Council may disclose any such record provided such disclosure is:

(1) To those officers and employees of the Council who have a need for the record in the performance of their duties;

(2) Required under the Freedom of Information Act (5 U.S.C. 552);

(3) For a routine use compatible with the purpose for which it was collected;

(4) To the Bureau of Census for purposes of planning or carrying out a census or survey or related activity under the provisions of Title 13 of the United States Code;

(5) To a recipient who has provided the Council with adequate advance written assurance that the record will be used solely as a statistical research or reporting record, and the record is to be transferred in a form that is not individually identifiable;

(6) To the National Archives of the United States as a record which has sufficient historical or other value to warrant its continued preservation by the United States government, or for evaluation by the Administrator of General Services or his designee to determine whether the record has such value;

(7) To another agency or to an instrumentality of any governmental jurisdiction within or under the control of the United States for a civil or criminal law enforcement activity authorized by law: Provided, The head of the agency or instrumentality has made a prior written request to the Assistant Director Program Coordination and Management specifying the particular record and the law enforcement activity for which it is sought;

(8) To a person pursuant to a showing of compelling circumstance affecting the health or safety of an individual: Provided, That upon such disclosure notification is transmitted to the last known address of such individual (and see § 701.306);

(9) To either House of Congress, and to the extent of a matter within its jurisdiction, any committee or subcommittee, or joint committee of Congress;

(10) To the Comptroller General, or any of his authorized representatives in the course of the performance of the duties of the GAO; or

(11) Under an order of a court of competent jurisdiction.

§ 701.304 Procedures for identification of individuals making requests.

(a) Each individual requesting the disclosure of a record or copy of a record will furnish the following information with his or her request: (1) The name of the record system containing the record; (2) proof as described in paragraph (b) of this section that he or she is the individual to whom the requested record relates; and (3) any other information required by the notice describing the record system.

(b) Proof of identity as required by paragraph (a)(2) of this section will be provided as described in paragraph (b)(1) and (2) of this section. Requests made by an agent, parent, or guardian will include the authorization described in § 701.310(a) and (b).

(1) Requests made in writing will include a statement, signed by the individual and properly notarized, that he or she appeared before a notary public and submitted proof of identification in the form of a drivers license, birth certificate, passport or other identification acceptable to the notary public. In any case in which, because of the extreme sensitivity of the record sought to be seen or copied, the agency determines that the identification is not adequate, it may request the individual to submit additional proof of identification.

(2) If the request is made in person, the requester will submit proof of identification similar to that described in paragraph (b)(1) of this section, acceptable to the Council.

[41 FR 8343, Feb. 26, 1976]

§ 701.305 Procedures for requests for access to or disclosure of records pertaining to individuals.

(a) After being informed by the Council that a system of records contains a record pertaining to him or her, an individual may request the Council for access to or disclosure of that record to him or her in the manner described in this section. Each such request of a record or a copy of it will be made at the place specified in the notice describing that system of records, either in writing or in person. Requests may be made by agents, parents, or guardians of individuals as described in § 701.310(a) and (b).

(b) The request for access to or disclosure of a record should specifically identify the systems of records involved.

(c) The Council will attempt to affirm or deny a request within 10 working days from the time it receives the request or to inform the requester of the need for additional time, additional information, identification, or the tendering of fees (as specified in § 701.312), within 10 working days; except that if the request for access was not preceded by a notification request as provided in § 701.302, then the 10-day period will not begin until after such time as it has been determined that the record exists. If a request is complied with within 10 working days, no separate acknowledgement will be made.

[41 FR 8343, Feb. 26, 1976]

§ 701.306 Special procedure: Medical records.

(a) An individual requesting disclosure of a record which contains medical or psychological information may name a medical doctor or other person to act as his agent as described in § 701.310(a). Records containing medical or psychological information may be disclosed to that agent rather than to the individual at the individual's request.

(b) If the individual has not named a medical doctor as agent, the Council may determine, after consultation with a medical doctor, that disclosure of the information would have an adverse effect on the requester. The Council may then disclose that information to a medical doctor specified by the individual, rather than to that individual, either in person or by mail.

[40 FR 45676, Oct. 2, 1975, as amended at 41 FR 8343, Feb. 26, 1976]

§ 701.307 Request for correction or amendment to record.

(a) Any individual who has reviewed a record pertaining to him that was furnished to him under this subpart, may request the agency to correct or amend all or any part of that record.

(b) Each individual requesting a correction or amendment will send the request to the agency official who furnished the record to him.

(c) Each request for a correction or amendment of a record will contain the following information:

(1) The name of the individual requesting the correction or amendment;

(2) The name of the system of records in which the record sought to be corrected or amended is maintained;

(3) The location of that record in the system of records;

(4) A copy of the record sought to be corrected or amended or a description of that record;

(5) A statement of the material in the record requested to be corrected or amended;

(6) A statement of the specific wording of the correction or amendment sought; and

(7) A statement of the basis for the requested correction or amendment, including any material that the individual can furnish to substantiate the reasons for the correction or amendment sought.

§ 701.308 Council review of request for correction or amendment of record.

(a) Not later than 10 days (excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays) after the receipt of the request for the correction or amendment of a record under § 701.307, the Council will acknowledge receipt of the request and inform the individual whether further information is required before the correction or amendment can be considered.

(b) The Council will promptly review the request and either make the requested correction or amendment or notify the individual of the initial adverse determination, including in the notification the reasons for the adverse determination and the appeal procedure provided by § 701.309.

(c) The Assistant Director, Program Coordination and Management, or his designee, will, after consulting with the General Counsel, or his designee, have the primary authority to make an initial adverse determination.

(d) The Council will make each requested correction or amendment to a record if that correction or amendment will correct anything that is not accurate, relevant, timely, or complete, within the record.

(e) If the requested correction or amendment to a record is agreed to by the Council, the Council will, within 30 working days: (1) Advise the individual; (2) correct the record accordingly; and (3) where an accounting of disclosures had been made (as provided in § 701.311), advise all previous recipients (including the individual) of the record of the fact that the correction was made and the substance of the correction.

[40 FR 45676, Oct. 2, 1975, as amended at 41 FR 8343, Feb. 26, 1976]

§ 701.309 Appeal of initial adverse determination.

(a) Any individual whose request for a correction or amendment, requested by him, to a record has been denied, in whole or in part, may appeal that decision to the Director of the Council.

(b) The appeal will be in writing and will:

(1) Name the individual making the appeal;

(2) Identify the record sought to be amended;

(3) Name the record system in which that record is contained;

(4) Contain a short statement describing the amendment sought; and

(5) State the name and location of the Council official who made the initial adverse determination.

(c) Not later than 30 days (excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays) after the date on which the Council received the appeal, the Director will complete his review of the appeal and make a final decision thereon. However, for good cause shown, the Director may extend that 30 day period by not more than an additional 30 working days. If the Director so extends the period, he will promptly notify the individual requesting the review that the extension has been made and the reasons therefor.

(d) After review of an appeal request, the agency will send a written notice to the requester containing the following information:

(1) The decision and, if the denial is upheld, the reasons for the decision; and

(2) The specific civil remedies available to the requester as per section 2(g) of Pub. L. 93–579, as well as notice that additional remedies may be appropriate and available to enable the full exercise of the requester's rights at law.

(3) The right to file with the Council a concise statement setting forth the requester's reasons for disagreement with the Council's refusal to correct or amend the record.

[40 FR 45676, Oct. 2, 1975, as amended at 41 FR 8344, Feb. 26, 1976]

§ 701.310 Disclosure of record to person other than the individual to whom it pertains.

(a) Any individual who desires to have a record covered by this subpart disclosed to or mailed to a person other than that individual may authorize that person to act as his agent for that specific purpose. The authorization will be in writing, signed by the individual, and will be notarized. The agent will submit with the authorization proof of the individual's identity as required by § 701.304(b).

(b) The parent of any minor individual or the legal guardian of any individual who has been declared by a court of competent jurisdiction to be incompetent due to physical or mental incapacity or age, may act on behalf of that individual in any matter covered by this subpart. A parent or guardian who desires to act on behalf of such an individual will present suitable evidence of parentage or guardianship, by birth certificate, certified copy of a court order, or similar documents, and proof of the individual's identity in a form that complies with § 701.304(b).

(c) An individual to whom a record is to be disclosed in person pursuant to this subpart, may have a person of his own choosing accompany the individual when the record is disclosed.

§ 701.311 Accounting for disclosures.

(a) Maintenance of an accounting. (1) Where a record is disclosed to any person, or to another agency, under any of the provisions of § 701.303 except §§ 701.303(c)(1) and (2), an accounting will be made.

(2) The accounting will record (i) the date, nature, and purpose of each disclosure of a record to any person or to another agency and (ii) the name and address of the person or agency to whom the disclosure was made.

(3) Accountings prepared under this section will be maintained for at least five years or the life of the record, whichever is longer, after the disclosure for which the accounting is made.

(b) Access to accounting. (1) Except for accounting of disclosures made under §§ 701.303(c)(1) and (2), accountings of all disclosures of a record will be made available to the individual to whom the record relates at his or her request.

(2) An individual desiring access to accountings of disclosures of a record pertaining to him or her will submit his request by following the procedures of § 701.305.

(c) Notification of disclosure. When a record is disclosed pursuant to § 701.303(c)(11) as the result of the order of a court of competent jurisdiction, reasonable efforts will be made to notify the individual to whom the record pertains as soon as the order becomes a matter of public record.

[41 FR 8344, Feb. 26, 1976]

§ 701.312 Fees.

(a) The Council will not charge an individual for the costs of making a search for a record or the costs of reviewing the record. When the Council makes a copy of a record as a necessary part of the process of disclosing the record to an individual, the Council will not charge the individual for the cost of making that copy.

(b) If an individual requests the Council to furnish him with a copy of the record (when a copy has not otherwise been made as a necessary part of the process of disclosing the record to the individual), the Council will charge a maximum fee of $0.25 per page (maximum per page dimension of 8 × 14 inches) to the extent that the request exceeds $5.00 in cost to the Council. Requests not exceeding $5.00 in cost to the Council will be met without cost to the requester.
